Downstate Vote in His Favor After Cook

KEFAUVER POLLS
ONLY 4 PER CENT

President Getting 48.2
Pct. of Vote — Ex-
Governor, With 46.9, Doing Better Than in 1952.

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)— President Eisenhower had an edge over Adlai E. Stevenson in returns from the Illinois presidential preference primary today. He was about 20,000 votes ahead with the count nearly complete.

The President had the benefit of a faster count of G.O.P. ballots and a 2-to-1 advantage downstate, where most of the unreported precincts are.
Republican contenders for presidential preference carried downstate by a 3 to 1 margin in the 1952 Illinois primary.
That area, and those ratios, were studied this time for signs of farmer reactions to the Eisenhower Administration's farm policies.

Kefauver Far Behind.
Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, whose name was not on the ballot and who did not campaign in Illinois, ran far behind on a write-in vote.
He was polling less than 4 per cent of the Democratic vote; his supporters had hoped for 10 per cent.

Mr. Eisenhower had the nominal opposition of Senator William F. Knowland of California, who is backing the President, and Lar Daly, a Chicagoan.

Returns from 9203 of the state's 9811 precincts gave Eisenhower 723,267, Knowland
32,685 and Daly 9099.
Returns from 9099 precincts in his home state gave Stevenson 703,291. Kefauver had 27-807 write-ins in 27,807 precincts.
In Cook county (Chicago), the citadel of Stevenson's Democratic party, Stevenson's margin was less than 2 to 1 with only 27 of the 5000 precincts missing on the Democratic side and 29 unreported on the Republican side.

Mr. Eisenhower took almost 55 per cent of the vote in Illinois in the 1952 election, when he ran against Stevenson.
Today he had 48.2 per cent of the total vote to 46.9 for Stevenson.

Popularity Contest.
The Illinois preference vote is a popularity contest. The Democrats run on their ticket and the Republicans on theirs, but the over-all results serve as a gauge of comparative vote-pulling power.

The practical phase is in the election of delegates to the major party nominating convention. Each major party elected 50 delegates, with one vote each, in the primary. Others will be chosen later at state conventions—Republicans with 10 additional votes and Democrats with 14.

But the preference results are not binding on the delegates.
They can make up, or change, their minds any time before the August nominating sessions.

This is how the count of elected delegates stands the basis of a survey of delegate candidates made by the Associated Press before the primary.

Democratic candidates elected thus far include 10 who de-

MADISON COUNTY
MACHINE BEATEN

Mudge, Billings Defeat Organization — Ogle, Schuman Even Lose

The once all-powerful Madison county Democratic organization was defeated in yesterday's primary election as independents Dick H. Mudge Jr. and Dr. W. W. Billings won from machine-supported candidates in the key races, and two top Democratic leaders were repudiated by voters in precinct committee contests.
Sheriff Kenneth T. Ogle, who also is chairman of the Democratic county committee, was defeated for re-election as precinct committee member by an overwhelming majority. State Attorney Fred P. Schuman also lost his race for precinct committee member. Both live in Granite City.

Voting Light.
Voting was light in both Madison and St. Clair counties. In the preferential presidential primary balloting, Adlai E.
Stevenson, the only Democratic candidate on the ballot, held the voting strength he had in the general election four years ago, while President Dwight D.
Eisenhower lost ground.

Sixty per cent of the votes for presidential candidates were cast for Stevenson in St. Clair county while Eisenhower polled 33 per cent. In 1952, 60 per cent voted for Stevenson and 40 per cent for Eisenhower.

Stevenson held his own in Madison county, getting 58 per cent of the presidential vote, as he did in 1952, while Eisenhower, who received 42 per cent of the vote in 1952, dropped to 33 per cent yesterday.

Presidential Results.
Former Gov. Stevenson received 18,367 votes in St. Clair county, compared with 1220 write-ins for Senator Estes Kefauver, 26 for Senator Stuart Symington and seven for Gov. Averell Harriman of New York. President Eisenhower received 10,251 Republican votes to 557 for Senator William F.
Knowland, whose name appeared on the ballot.

With the Democratic vote tallied in 134 of 137 Madison county precincts, the result showed Stevenson, 16,923, and Kefauver, 1466. In 136 precincts, the Republican vote was Eisenhower, 9708; Knowland,

Irregularities Charged.
The East St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners today began an investigation of charges of voting irregularities in two South End precincts, which are predominantly Negro.
Voting machines used there were placed under lock and key.

HAMMARSKJOLD CONFERES WITH NASSER, BORDER
TENSION EASING

3 Minor Attacks by Suicide Squads Reported
— U. N. Secretary
Spends 75 Minutes
With Egyptian.

CAIRO, April 11 (AP)—Dag Hammarhjold talked with President Nasser of Egypt for 75 minutes today in his first major move to restore peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors.
As the United Nations Secretary General began his talks with the strong man of the Arab nations, a Jerusalem dispatch reported an easing of tensions in the Palestine area.

The dispatch reported three minor attacks last night by roving Arab suicide squads which had struck in a series of raids and sabotage missions on the three previous nights.

All Hammarhjold would say after his meeting with Nasser was that he expected to see the Premier again.

Meets Foreign Minister.
Hammarhjold talked with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi last night, shortly after his arrival in the Egyptian capital.

The Secretary General was accompanied by Maj. Gen. E. L.
M. Burns, Canadian chief of the U.N. Truce Commission. They plan to visit the capitals of Israel, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon for more conferences later this week or early next week.

Burns' plea last week for a cease-fire along the flaming Israeli borders had failed to halt the outbreaks.

Israel charged that Arab suicide squads trained in sabotage by Egyptian army officers, had struck deep within southern Israel for four straight nights.

The Israelis said the roving commandos, called fedayeen, had killed six and wounded 24 Israelis. Israeli's patrols pressing a mop-up of the roving borders reported they had killed 13 and captured six fedayeen.
Israel reported shooting outbreaks but said there were no casualties. It said automatic weapons fire rained on the Sdeh Elyah settlement in the northeast Israel, and at workers near the Kfar Silber reservoir, north of the Gaza strip.

In the southern Judean hills near Jordan, an Israeli army spokesman said, an Arab group fired on an Israeli patrol in the Beit Nattif area.

Vehicle Hits Mine.
A government spokesman in Jerusalem reported an Israeli soldier was wounded when an army vehicle struck a mine near Nirim, close to the Gaza strip.

Israel turned over the bodies of 10 fedayeen killed in the commando raids to Egyptians at the Gaza border. The bodies in wooden coffins were taken to the border in a police truck accompanied by Israeli border police and U.N. armistice commissioners.

Egypt charged that an Israeli plane had flown over the Egyptian-held Gaza strip and an Israeli army patrol had raided deep inside Gaza.

Israel was pessimistic about Hammarhjold's peace efforts.
Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett told a political meeting in Tel Aviv that his Government "is not prepared to give Hammarhjold all possible assistance" but expressed doubt the effort would succeed.

Hammarhjold and Burns had luncheon in Tel Aviv with three Israeli Foreign Office officials yesterday. A U.N. spokesman said the Israelis had joined the two "on a social basis" and that Hammarhjold did not engage in official conversation with them.

The political committee of the nine-nation Arab League, meeting in Cairo, urged all Arab states to co-operate with the U.N. peacemaker. The league's council today received the political committee's recommendation.

Defense Pledge.
In the Syrian capital of Damascus, the heads of two Arab states pledged before the tomb of Sultan Saladin to devote "all our powers for the defense of the Holy Land."

With clasped hands, youthful King Hussein of Jordan and President Shukri Kuwailiy of Syria vowed "to defend the Holy Land and Arab nations with all our power."

Century Muslim defender of

RAIN HALTS GOLF, EISENHOWER MAY
FISH 'IKE'S POND'

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11 (UP)— President Eisenhower, confined to his club quarters by a steady rain, said today he might try some fishing in "Ike's Pond" at the Augusta National Golf course this afternoon. "Ike's Pond" is a small bass and perch refuge on the club grounds.

Mr. Eisenhower said that he would not have the company of his grandson, David, during his current stay in Augusta.
David has come down with the mumps. David is the son of Maj. John S. Eisenhower, who is stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. The President had planned to give his 8-year-old grandson some golf lessons here this week.

Reporters asked the President about the current state of his golf.
"I'm doing well for me," he said rather glumly as the rain beat down on his favorite golf course.

The President, in an unusual chatty mood, went on to explain that as a result of his heart attack last September, he must cover most of a round of golf in an electric cart, avoiding long walks from shot to shot.
"I have to keep reminding myself not to walk up hills," he said, "but I do—I'm very faithful about it. I ride up the hills and I just hunt the downhill paths."

SKIPPER TOPS HIS VERSE, BUT SAILOR IS AHEAD

LEONARDO, N. J., April 11
(AP)—The Navy encountered spring and poetry yesterday.
Bruce Nicholas, a radarmen assigned to the ammunition ship Great Sitkin, tied up here a due back April 13 from a 10-day leave.

But he sent this telegram from State College, Pa., to the skipper:

I like my ship and all the men.
So when I left I took but 10.
Well, here at home it's spring, I find.
I've met a thing that changed my mind.
Now I'm in love as ne'er before.
So, please sir, grant me 20 more.

The skipper, Capt. N. D.
Gage of Newport, N. H., couldn't give him 20 but granted another 10. He replied to Nicholas:

Comprehend your yen,
Can give you but 10,
On the 23rd to end.

ENGLAND TO GET
TEA BAGS WITH NO
STRINGS ATTACHED

LONDON, April 11 (UP)— Tea bags are finally coming to England but they won't be like the American kind.
Tetley Ironside Tetley-Jones, chairman of a tea company that sells millions of tea bags each year to Americans, told a press conference of his plans yesterday.

"English tea bags will have better tea and they won't dangle on strings," he said. "American tea bags, when you put them on your saucer, look like dead mice or something."

Tea bags, he said, makes it easier to clean the pot.

TAX BUREAU GETS $2500
SENT BY 'I.O. THISMUCH'

WASHINGTON, April 11
(UP)—The Internal Revenue Service yesterday received in the mail an envelope containing $2500 in $100 bills. The return address was "I. O. This-much, 935 Clybourne avenue, Chicago, Ill." Officials said there is no such address.

The $2500 will go to the "conscience fund" to be spent like any other government income. A week ago Monday $3000 in $100 bills was received, also anonymously from the Chicago area.

Garment Makers on Government Blacklist Involved in Senate
Investigation.

WASHINGTON, April 11
(AP)—Investigating Senators, seeking evidence of graft in the buying of army uniforms, received testimony today about draft which finally wound up under an assumed name, involving some garment makers blacklisted from doing business with the Government.

Charles P. Wood, a Leonia
(N. J.) banker, told the Senate investigations subcommitee he developed "suspicions" about the $40,000 account he said Herman Kravitz, a New Jersey clothing manufacturer, opened in the Leonia Bank & Trust Co. under the assumed name of E. W. Randall.

Mysterious Stranger.
Wood, the bank's treasurer, told also of a mysterious stranger wearing dark glasses, who showed up at the bank with $25,000 in bank notes after Kravitz had telephoned that the man was on his way there.

Wood said the man got a bank draft which finally wound up marked for deposit to the account of a New York bond firm, Gregory Harrington & Co.

Previously two other witnesses swore that they had learned the subcommittee, later, whether the assumed names under which the bonds allegedly were bought represented an income tax evasion effort.

Robert F. Kennedy, subcommittee counsel, has said both Abrams and Kravitz have been blacklisted from doing business with the Government since a federal investigation of one of their army contracts.

Wood, who said he was "Her-man's scoutmaster" in the days when they both lived in Woodbine, N. J., said he finally became suspicious because all of the deposits in a "Randall" bank account were in the form of bond coupons, deposited in three big batches since the account was opened in 1953.

The last batch, he said, was a bundle of bond coupons totaling $20,007 wrapped in what "looked like cheese paper" and left at his home one night in 1954 by Herman Kravitz and his father, Samuel Kravitz.

Wood said Herman told him only that he was leaving "a little package" and that "you know what it is." When he opened the package after their departure, Wood said, he found the coupons with a note bearing only the name "E. W. Randall."

Kept Package at Home.
He said he became so concerned "I held it at my home for a couple of days, wondering whether to put it through."

Wood said Herman Kravitz had arranged with him to open the account in the name of "Randall." He said he thought "something might be wrong," and first checked with the bank's executive vice president, then went ahead and opened the account after that official said "I don't see anything wrong about it."

Wood said he knows of no other account at the bank carried under an assumed name.
Wood said the account still contains a balance of $20,937.
He said there has been one unsuccessful attempt to draw money from the account since the Federal Bureau of Investigation began asking questions

HOUSE PASSES
FARM MEASURE;
G.O.P. MOVE TO CHANGE IT FAILS

Administration Beaten Soundly in Move to Save Its Flexible Program — Final Vote 237 to 181.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—
The House rode roughshod over Republican protests today to pass an Administration-opposed farm bill boosting price supports and providing nearly three billion dollars of new farm aid.

The roll-call vote on final passage was 237 to 181.
The Administration suffered its worst congressional defeat since President Eisenhower took office as a Republican, ranks broke under election-year pressures from the farm belt.

The House action sent to the Senate a bill scrapping the Eisenhower flexible price support program and substituting a year's support program at mandatory 90 per cent of parity on so-called basic crops.

It contains other features pronounced unacceptable by the Administration, but also includes Mr. Eisenhower's proposed $1,200,000,000 soil bank to pay farmers for taking surplus cropland out of production.

The United Press said that before the House vote on final passage, Senate Democratic majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas announced on the Senate floor that "we will stay until late in an attempt to dispose of it this evening."

Move to Return Bill Loses.
Final passage came after the House, with Midwestern Republicans deserting the President, voted against a G.O.P. motion to send the bill back to a Senate-House conference committee with instructions to change it more to the Administration's liking.

The vote was 238 to 181 against a motion to recommendation. On the roll call, 14 Democrats voted with the Republicans but 27 Republicans swung over to the Democrats against changing the bill.

The major congressional setback for the Eisenhower Administration found Midwestern Republicans deserting to the Democrats and voting for a return to higher farm price supports.

In debate before the vote to recommit, Republican leaders talked of a presidential veto if the bill was not changed.

Uphill Fight Admitted.
Before the House met to consider the bill today, Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, Republican minority leader, conceded that House Republicans faced "an uphill fight" to try to save the Administration's farm program.

The bill as agreed on in compromise by Senate and House conferes had been termed "unacceptable to me" by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

Just before the House met to take up the bill, Martin told reporters that G.O.P. leaders were standing firm on their proposal to knock out the rigid 90 per cent of parity supports for basic crops and substitute flexible supports at 82½ to 90 per cent. Parity is a price said by law to be fair to farmers in terms of their costs.

Hint of Concessions.
Martin hinted that some concessions to dairy state members from the East and Midwest might be made before the vote to provide higher price supports for milk, butter, cheese and other dairy products.

Such a concession would be an inducement to bring into the Administration ranks those members who feel the dairy provisions of the bill are inadequate.

Among other things the bill would boost supports on dairy products, provide two-price systems on wheat and rice, expand acreage for corn production and figuring price supports.

The soil bank is the only major provision in the bill which was sought by the Administration.

Martin said "after a party caucus yesterday, 'I'd think the President would veto the bill as it now stands.'"

A number of key Democrats have said the Administration will have to accept the current bill or get nothing.

The House last year voted to restore price supports at 90 per cent of parity. The Senate passed a catch-all bill ranging over most commodities.

Democrats pushed the 90 per cent supports in the House in 1955 and won, 206 to 201. On that vote, 21 Republicans and 29 Democrats crossed over in what was otherwise a party-line vote.

Both were photographed at the wedding of one of their cousins.
Princess Margaret wore a fluffy pill-box. It was readily recognizable as the same one she had on six months ago at a reception for the president of Portugal.

The Queen's hat was a concoction of pink petals. She was wearing it last summer when she toured Nottingham.

To carry the austerity theme still farther, they both were wearing the same old coats—
Margaret a blue velvet and the Queen a blue satin.

St. Louisans will go to the proposed $1.30 school tax rate, an increase of 15 cents over the present rate of $1.15 for each $100 assessed valuation.

The special election will be conducted in the city's 787 precincts, with polls opening at 6 a.m. and closing at 7 p.m. A simple majority of the vote cast is necessary for passage.

An estimated 1200 public high school students paraded through downtown streets today to remind their fellow St. Louisians to vote in tomorrow's special election.

Forming at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue shortly before the noon hour, the pa-

Sixth to Locust street, and west on Locust to Fourteenth street, where it disbanded.

Thousands of downtown work-lined the sidewalks to hear the 10 bands of the various high schools set the pace for the marchers. Each of the bands was accompanied by one of the school groups, in some cases

LITTLE CHANCE FOR OBTAINING RIVER MEMORIAL FUND IN SESSION

Senate Group, in Surprise Move, Kills $3,000,000 Item—Project Apparently Out for Time Being.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 11—The $3,000,000 appropriation for a start on the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial on the St. Louis riverfront appeared today to have little chance of passage at this session of Congress.

In a move which surprised supporters of the measure, the Senate Appropriations Committee late yesterday removed the St. Louis request from a House-approved supplementary appropriation bill containing funds for various Government activities.

The unexpected action will have the effect of killing the riverfront appropriation for the time being unless a last-minute amendment is offered and approved on the Senate floor or the House funds are restored by the House-Senate conference committee.

A third alternative open to backers of the memorial would be inclusion of the $3,000,000 in the pending Interior Department appropriation bill for the next fiscal year. All three courses of action are possible, but their chances of success are considered only fair.

'Feeling' Against Bill.
A source close to the Appropriations Committee told the Post-Dispatch the decision to delete the St. Louis request was taken on a vote yesterday's closed meeting. He said there was "pretty strong feeling" against the measure.

Senator Carl Hayden (Dem., Arizona), committee chairman, was reported to have fought hard for approval of the riverfront funds. Hayden was described as "very much surprised" by the adverse vote.

William W. Woodruff, a member of the committee staff, told the Post-Dispatch some members felt the memorial was "too big a project to start in a supplementary appropriation bill" and that this prompted the vote to remove the funds altogether.

Woodruff said the St. Louis project was "discussed at length" in the meeting. He declined further comment on the action.

In view of the committee vote, it was thought backers of the measure would have difficulty in gaining approval of an amendment on the floor, since the Senate usually is reluctant to overrule its Appropriations Committee.

Little Chance of Success.
For the same reason, and because the House is on record as approving a crippling restriction in use of the federal funds for St. Louis, it was considered only problematical that a move to restore the money in unencumbered form in conference would succeed.

The third alternative, inclusion in the regular Interior Department appropriation bill, faces similar difficulties. This bill already has been passed by the House. Hearings on it have been held in the Senate.

An attempt to include the $3,000,000 in the Interior Department bill for the fiscal year 1957, which begins next July 1, might encounter opposition from the Eisenhower Administration, which has submitted balanced budget estimates for that fiscal period.

Missouri's Democratic Senators, Thomas C. Hennings Jr. and Stuart Symington, conferred shortly after Symington's return to Washington today to discuss possible strategy moves to salvage the $3,000,000.

Both men, it was learned, talked with Hayden and other members of the Appropriations Committee. They said a statement would be issued later.

Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, a supporter of the memorial fund, told the Post-Dispatch the committee's action was "completely unanticipated" and made the outlook for approval of federal funds at this session "rather bad."

The $3,000,000 appropriation was to pay the Government's share of the cost of relocating railroad tracks on the Mississippi riverfront at St. Louis and grading the site, as steps toward its ultimate development as a memorial commemorating the Louisiana Purchase.

SENATE REJECTS COMMITTEE TO CHECK UP ON CIA

59-to-32 Vote Is Victory for Eisenhower With Sizable Help From Democrats.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The Senate today defeated 59 to 32 a proposal to set up a special Senate-House committee to keep watch over the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency.

The result was a victory for President Eisenhower. Senate Republican leaders had announced he was strongly opposed to the resolution.

However, the Republican leaders had strong support from veteran Senate Democrats in turning back the proposal.

The resolution to set up the 12-member committee was sponsored by Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, and 34 other Senators. Some of the co-sponsors turned against it, however, on the showdown vote.

If passed by the Senate, the resolution would have needed the concurrence of the House, but not the signature of the President.

Supporters of the proposal argued that CIA appears to have made mistakes and that Congress has practically no effective check over it now.

Opponents of the resolution, led by Senators Richard Russell (Dem.), Georgia, Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, Carl Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, and William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, argued that creation of the special committee could be highly dangerous because of possible information leaks.

Knowland, the Republican minority leader, had reported Mr. Eisenhower's disapproval of the CIA are "much too sensitive" to be supervised by Congress.

The joint committee on central intelligence called for in the measure would have had six Senate and six House members, with at least four of the total from the minority party.

Sponsors said they patterned the proposed group after the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee which checks on the work of another highly secret agency, the Atomic Energy Commission.

HISTORIAN SAYS SECURITY IS GONE IN HYDROGEN AGE
CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—An English historian said yesterday "national security is totally gone" and that "there is at present no adequate solution" for dealing with the problem raised by hydrogen weapons.

Sir Llewellyn Woodward, a member of the Institute of Advanced Study, Princeton, added that "until we can find a solution we must just rub along, maybe from crisis to crisis."

Writing in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, he said: "Since we have no option in the matter, we had better accept the situation frankly, without hiding its risks, rather than attempt some overambitious project which will certainly collapse, and increase our disillusionment and our danger."

The article opened a year-long symposium in the Bulletin on the general theme of the impact of science on society.

Syrian spokesmen said a military committee of the two nations would be formed soon to plan "joint defensive action" against "any Israeli aggression."

A Foreign Office spokesman in Jerusalem charged that Egypt was responsible for "acts of sabotage and murder" by the fedayeen bands. Egypt contends they are made up of Palestine refugees not under army control.

The Israeli spokesman quoted a Cairo radio broadcast as boasting: "The operations carried out by the fedayeen... put an end to the quiet enjoyed by Israel."

With figures on only two seats still missing, Bandaranaike's coalition had 51 seats. Kotelawala's party dropped to four place, winning only eight seats.

Bandaranaike hailed his victory as one that would bring a "new era of peace and prosperity for the people of Ceylon."

The Ceylon Morning Times said the new premier would make Ceylon "not a little England but a Switzerland, strictly neutral in the cold war and without shadow commitments to either formidable power blocs."

CEYLON VEERS FROM WEST AS LEFT WING WINS

COLOMBO, April 11 (UP)—Ceylon, one-time British crown colony, veered away from the pro-Western ranks today and headed toward the political camp of neutralist India.

The results of three scattered days of national elections gave S. W. R. D. Bandaranaike's leftwing coalition an absolute majority of the 95 seats in parliament and assured him the premiership.

He will replace Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala who plans to resign Thursday. Kotelawala's pro-British government, which held an absolute majority of 54 seats in the last government, was all but washed out.

With figures on only two seats still missing, Bandaranaike's coalition had 51 seats. Kotelawala's party dropped to four place, winning only eight seats.

Bandaranaike hailed his victory as one that would bring a "new era of peace and prosperity for the people of Ceylon."

SENATOR BLASTS B-52 PRODUCTION AS INADEQUATE

Jackson Says Even Step-Up Proposed by President Won't Overtake Red Output.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (UP)—Senator Henry M. Jackson said today that even with a proposed step-up in B-52 bomber production the United States would not match Russia in output of intercontinental jet bombers.

The Washington Democrat, a leading critic of Administration air power policies, predicted "there will be further step-ups once the facts are brought out" by a special Armed Services subcommittee which will look into the extent of United States air power.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, will open hearings next week, with intercontinental jet bomber production the first target of investigation. Jackson is a member of the subcommittee.

Jackson said in an interview that the increased B-52 production recommended earlier this week by President Eisenhower was "better late than never" but still "inadequate."

"Even with the proposed increase, we will still be behind Soviet production," Jackson said. "There must be still further increases to keep pace with the terrible competition the Soviet Union is now providing in airpower."

Jackson said the Boeing Aircraft Co., which produces the giant jet bomber at plants in Seattle, Wash., and Wichita, Kan., "has the existing capacity to offset Russian capabilities" by extending production to three shifts, six days a week.

"The American people have a right to know why this is not being done," Jackson said. Jackson said the Boeing plants are now on one shift, five days a week, with two "skelton shifts." Even with the step-up, he said, the plants will not be working at full capacity.

Stevenson's Nomination Drive Finds Strength in Illinois Vote

Write-In Campaign Pushed by Kefauver Backers Is Ineffectual Against Ex-Governor.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 11—Adlai Stevenson's faltering campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination found renewed strength today in returns from the preferential primary in his home state.

Incomplete reports of yesterday's election indicated that a write-in effort by supporters of Senator Estes Kefauver had been ineffectual and that the former Illinois Governor was polling a vote close to that of President Eisenhower who won Illinois from him in the 1952 presidential election by 443,407 votes.

In purely agricultural counties, President Eisenhower seemed to have lost little of his popularity and the farm price issue which was exploited to good advantage by Kefauver in both Minnesota and Wisconsin appeared to have been much less effective in Illinois.

Kefauver supporters who had suggested that his name be written in, although no organized effort was put forth, pointed out that he had not spoken or done any campaigning in Illinois this year.

In the downstate tabulations Kefauver was running a bit under the 10 per cent of the Democratic vote that his backers had hoped he would get, but in Cook county, stronghold of Mayor Richard J. Daley, he received less than 2 per cent with an over-all state total of about 4 per cent on the basis of incomplete returns.

It was said that some judges and clerks outside went home without counting write-in ballots and that the extent of the Kefauver write-in vote could not be determined until the official canvass had been made. It appeared improbable that it would reach state-wide proportions of anything like 10 per cent.

Names on G.O.P. Ballot.
The name of President Eisenhower, Senator William F. Knowland of California and Lar Daly of Chicago, America First candidate, appeared on the Republican ballot. Knowland's name appeared only because the Eisenhower announcement that he would be a candidate came too late for Knowland to withdraw. Stevenson's was the only name to appear on the Democratic ballot in the presidential primary.

Kefauver supporters complained that voters found it difficult in Chicago to properly mark write-in ballots on voting machines.

Kefauver had hoped to get 10 per cent of the vote this year because that was about what Stevenson got as the write-in candidate against him in 1952. The vote in that primary was Stevenson, 54,336; Kefauver, 526,301.

Early returns gave Stevenson a substantial lead since the Cook county vote could be counted much more quickly, but as the downstate counties reported, President Eisenhower overtook him.

In Franklin county, where closing of coal mines has caused unemployment, Stevenson was leading President Eisenhower almost two to one in early returns.

Stevenson supporters were hopeful that he would make as good a showing against President Eisenhower in Illinois as Kefauver had done in Wisconsin where Kefauver got 42 per cent of the vote last week. Only Kefauver's name appeared on the Democratic ballot in Wisconsin and there was no Stevenson write-in campaign.

Upset Still a Sore Spot.
The Kefauver upset victory over Stevenson in Minnesota, 245,885 to 186,728, continues to be a sore spot.

The Minnesota primary is the only one thus far in which both Stevenson and Kefauver filed as candidates. Both names are entered in the forthcoming Alaska, Florida and California elections.

COMMITTEE PUTS TENTATIVE OK ON BIG ROAD PLAN

25-Billion 13-Year Program Acted On at House Group's Closed Session.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (UP)—The House Public Works Committee today tentatively approved a 25-billion-dollar, 13-year interstate highway construction program.

The action was taken at a closed committee session. Final committee action was delayed at least until tomorrow.

The group approved spending one billion dollars in the coming fiscal year, beginning July 1, on the proposed interstate highway system. It also approved $1,700,000,000 for the following fiscal year.

The committee was expected to give formal approval to a financing system already approved unanimously by the House Ways and Means committee. This would raise taxes on fuel, tires, inner tubes and trucks and buses an additional $14,800,000,000 during the next 16 years.

The bill would authorize the Federal Government to pay 90 per cent of the cost of the proposed 40,000-mile interstate highway system.

The tax provisions would raise federal taxes on gasoline one cent a gallon, and two cents on diesel fuel. It also would add a two per cent tax on trucks, buses and trailers and from three to 15 cents a pound on tires.

The committee put off until tomorrow decisions on whether to reimburse public utilities for the costs of moving their plants out of the course of the proposed highways.

The committee instructed the Secretary of Commerce to report back by Jan. 1, 1958, estimates on future costs of the highway construction program. Present estimates are 25 billions over 13 years, but committee members hope this can be cut without loss of actual highway mileage.

TESTIFIES BROWN SUGGESTED THAT FINNEGAN 'GET BACK' AT MOORE

Witness at Tax Agent's Perjury Trial Says He Proposed Inquiry Into Rail Receivership.

By JAMES A. KEARNS JR., A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, April 11—G. Elmer Brown, former internal revenue supervisor who participated in the 1950 investigation of James P. Finnegan, became incensed at the charges brought against Finnegan and suggested that the latter "get back at Judge Moore through an investigation of the Missouri Pacific receivership at St. Louis," a Government witness testified today at Brown's perjury trial.

Rudolph H. Hartmann, chief of the intelligence division at St. Louis, was the final witness as the Government completed its testimony. Following Hartmann's brief appearance on the stand, Government attorneys began the introduction of documentary exhibits.

Brown, charged with giving false testimony before a federal grand jury here, was expected to take the stand in his own defense. He is under temporary suspension from his internal revenue post at Philadelphia.

United States District Judge George H. Moore was in charge of the Missouri Pacific receivership during the long years of litigation involving the railroad. He succeeded, following earlier attempts at a "whitewash," in obtaining a thorough investigation of Finnegan's activities as collector of Internal Revenue at St. Louis. Finnegan served a prison sentence after conviction of misconduct in office.

Frank W. Lohn, of Brady, Tex., then head of the regional intelligence unit office at Kansas City, testified about a meeting at St. Louis on June 12, 1950, to discuss operational changes that had been suggested for the St. Louis collector's office.

Called Charges Unfair. "Mr. Brown said the charges that had been presented against Collector Finnegan were unfair, and that anyone who would do what Judge Moore had done to Finnegan should be investigated," Lohn told the jury in United States District Court.

"Brown remarked that 'Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones,'" Lohn testified. "He added that an investigation of the railroad receivership might reveal something."

The witness, who said he thought he was in charge of the Finnegan investigation, told the jury he at first did not understand what Brown's role in the matter was. He learned later, he said, that Brown had been sent to St. Louis on orders of George J. Schoeneman, then commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Questioned about his own resignation as a director of Internal Revenue here, after his appearance before the Omaha federal grand jury late in 1954, Lohn said he resigned "after receiving a telephone call from the office of the deputy commissioner at Washington."

He was questioned at length about a letter he had written relating to the Finnegan investigation, but had kept in his files at Kansas City. Lohn said he made a check of the second draft of the letter, which inadvertently was placed in a wrong file.

Letter Not Mailed. Lohn said the only change made in the draft of the letter was to add a sentence stating, "We are going to attempt to fix responsibility for the individual in Collector Finnegan's office who allowed a delinquent taxpayer to file a return without penalty." He said the letter was not mailed, however, a suggestion that if Finnegan learned the letter had been sent, he would refuse to resign.

Harold B. Holt, a revenue agent who participated in the Finnegan inquiry and "whitewash" report, corroborated Lohn's testimony relative to Brown's reported remarks about Judge Moore.

Holt quoted Brown as describing the investigation of Finnegan as "a personal matter between Mr. Finnegan and Judge Moore." Brown told the other agents, Holt related, that several of Finnegan's employees "who were disgruntled because they were not promoted, went to Judge Moore and made charges that were without foundation."

The witness said the Finnegan charges, as outlined by Lohn, included allegations that income tax returns of friends of the collector "were removed from the files, so they would not be seen by examiners."

St. Louis Meeting. Thomas E. Scanlon, now district director of Internal Revenue at Brooklyn, N.Y., told a jury about Brown's activities following a St. Louis meeting, held in the offices of the intelligence unit, May 3, 1950. At that time Scanlon was supervising accounts with offices in Boston, and Brown held a similar position at Chicago.

Following a morning conference, Brown announced he was going to lunch with Collector Finnegan. Scanlon testified. That night the investigating group gathered in Lohn's room at Hotel DeSoto. Those present were Scanlon, Brown, Lohn and Holt.

Brown displayed personnel folders of two women employees of the collector's office, "Real and Royal," Scanlon testified. Miss Margaret Beal is an auditor, and Mrs. Elizabeth Royal a cashier-teller. Both are still in the Internal Revenue Service at St. Louis.

"Brown said he believed he had the source of the complaints," Scanlon testified. "He told us these two individuals had been employees of Judge Moore when he was collector in St. Louis," Scanlon said.

Judge Got Information. Earlier the witness testified he had been informed the Finnegan inquiry was the result of information Judge Moore obtained "from sources in the collector's office."

"I told Brown I wasn't interested in who was making the complaints," Scanlon told the jury. "I said we were interested in what had been done."

"Brown then said the investigation was 'absurd,' that it was 'ridiculous,' that the St. Louis office was a good office and he didn't believe Jim Finnegan had done anything wrong."

Finally, Brown threw an organization chart of Finnegan's office on the bed in the hotel room and declared: "I'll ask Jim to call the whole thing off," Scanlon related.

Scanlon said he asked Brown to provide eight employees from the Chicago regional office to Brown refused, saying he had his men working at Springfield, Ill. Eventually, Brown assigned three employees to the St. Louis inquiry, Scanlon said.

Nature of Charges. J. Frank Cunningham, a Department of Justice attorney serving as chief prosecutor, asked Scanlon: "Was anything said of the nature of charges made by Judge Moore?"

Scanlon replied: "There was something about friends and politicians being favored with reductions in tax, and certain of these accounts being declared uncollectible."

Scanlon told the jury, when asked if he knew whether Brown and Finnegan were friends, that he had seen them together in Washington.

On cross-examination, he was asked if he had ever made any complaints to anyone in the Internal Revenue service about Brown's activities as described in his testimony.

"I didn't believe I had to," Scanlon replied. "The Chief of Intelligence was present at the time these things occurred." His reference was to Lohn.

DEATH TOLL ON MISSOURI ROADS 55 ABOVE LAST YEAR

There were 55 more traffic fatalities in Missouri in the first quarter of 1956 than in the comparable period last year, Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said in a luncheon talk at Clayton today. A record high for traffic deaths was set last year. Col. Waggoner added.

The Legislature will be asked next year to increase the Highway Patrol's strength to 500 men, the superintendent said. He said he also urged establishment of highway speed limits of 65 miles an hour in daylight and 55 miles at night.

"Our citizens now realize that something must be done to make motoring safe," Waggoner observed. He spoke at a luncheon of the High 12 Club, Masonic social group, at Clayton Elks Club, 900 South Hanley roads.

Prisoner Is Fatally Shot In Court Trying to Flee

tin again told me and Stanton to get in the cell."

'Swung at Martin's Hand.' Stanton said he stepped over toward the cell door next to Martin.

"I swung at Martin's right hand with my left, trying to knock the pistol out of it," Stanton said. "It hit it but he must have had a good grip on it because he didn't drop it."

"With my right hand I swung at his jaw but I just grazed him. Martin then ran south in the hallway and Carmody yelled to the two prisoners in the cell stay in there and slammed the cell door."

"When Martin got down to the dead end of the hallway he tried to open a door but it was locked. It always is. I called for help and Aubertin stepped out of an office near where Martin was standing."

"Martin fired two shots down the hall at us and then ran up the hall toward us to the first door leading into Division 13 (Judge Williams' courtroom). He fired one more shot in the courtroom."

Sheriff Martin L. Tozer told reporters he thought Martin hid the pistol inside his trousers. Asked if he was considering any disciplinary action against Carmody or Stanton, he said: "No, I think they did a good job."

'Saw a Man Firing.' Deputy Sheriff Slater, a Negro who has been on the sheriff's staff for 16 years, said:

"I was in Judge Williams' courtroom when I heard a shot fired. I looked out of the door into the corridor that runs back of the courtroom and saw a man coming down the hall firing. I also saw another man following him and calling for help."

"I jumped back into the courtroom just before the man came into the courtroom from the other rear door on the south."

"He ran down in front of the jury and over toward the southeast corner of the room where I fired a shot at him. I missed and the man got to the main courtroom door when I fired again. He fell this time but I don't know whether my shot got him or whether he was hit by a shot fired by Detective Leroy Aubertin."

Lt. Frank Ruff of the police laboratory recovered five spent cartridges in the rear corridor and two in the courtroom.

Detective Aubertin, who was sitting in a witness room waiting to testify in another case, said he heard what sounded like two shots.

"I went to the door and looked out in the corridor and heard someone shout, 'Stop that man.' As I stepped out the door I saw this short white man running toward me with a gun in his hand. He was headed for the witness room I had come out of a minute before."

"I tried to grab him as he passed and get the gun and as I did he fired point-blank at me—so close I could feel the concussion on my shirt."

Martin then turned and ran toward the courtroom again. I fired a shot in the hallway at him as he ran past Deputy Norton who was trying to jockey into a position to shoot.

"As Martin ran into the courtroom, I noticed all the people lying on the floor. He ran past them and as I passed I fired another shot. The people were all down and the back of the courtroom was empty, so I wasn't afraid of hitting anyone else on that shot."

"As I shot he veered toward

COSTELLO POSTS $5000 BOND ON WEAPON CHARGE

Ex - Convict Arrested, Accused of Causing Interstate Transit of Revolver.

Joseph Costello, former convict head of the Ace Cab Co., was at liberty today on $5000 bond following his arrest yesterday by police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents on charges of violating the federal firearms act.

An information issued by United States Commissioner Edwin J. Bean charged that Costello had caused the transportation in interstate commerce of a .38-caliber revolver from Granite City to St. Louis last Dec. 22. In a second count he is accused of receiving and possessing the weapon.

J. E. Milnes, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said the weapon was one that was found in Costello's automobile when he was arrested by police of the hoodlum squad last Feb. 27 at Tower Grove and Blaine avenues.

Under the federal statute it is unlawful for a person convicted of a crime of violence to cause firearms to be transported in interstate commerce or to receive or possess such weapons. The crime of violence of which Costello was convicted was burglary and larceny, for which he was sentenced to serve four years in the state penitentiary in 1936 in St. Francois county, Mo.

Maximum penalty on each count is five years in prison and a $2000 fine.

Costello was arrested yesterday at Nineteenth street and Delmar boulevard. His bond signed by a professional bondsman after Commissioner Bean set the arraignment for April 18, when the bond is returnable.

A key figure in the investigation of the missing Greenleaf ransom money, Costello is also suspected of being a principal in the policy racket here.

When he was arrested last Feb. 27, police reported finding two loaded pistols in the locked glove compartment of his automobile. He was subsequently indicted by the grand jury on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. His bond on that charge was fixed at $1000.

$243 STOLEN FROM SAFE AT E. ST. LOUIS GAS STATION

A total of $243 was stolen from a safe yesterday in the Storm Service Station, 901 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, Calvin McIntosh, attendant, reported to police.

McIntosh, a Negro, said that a Negro man he did not know was loitering in the station when McIntosh went outside to wait on a customer. He told police that when he returned, he found the money was missing from the safe.

County Redevelopment Authority Urged in Grand Jury's Report

Would Be Like City's — Survey Shows 7903 Substandard Renter-Occupied Dwelling Units.

Establishment of a redevelopment authority for St. Louis county, similar to the one for St. Louis, was urged yesterday by the St. Louis county grand jury in a report which noted that a 1950 survey, the latest available, showed that there were 7903 substandard, renter-occupied dwelling units in the county.

In a partial report to Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein the jury also recommended earliest possible evacuation of temporary buildings of the St. Louis County Housing Authority at Jefferson Barracks, as other grand juries have done.

"The inefficient, slipshod, sometimes blundering manner" in which the housing authority has been operated "is appalling," the jury said.

Advance in St. Louis. The St. Louis program "is moving forward rapidly in elimination of blighted areas," the report said, and continued:

"The problem of relocating people in the city is many times more difficult than it would be for St. Louis county, and yet the city is moving on with a minimum of difficulty."

"Raising equity capital in the county should prove no more of a problem than it was in the city. There is no reason to believe that Government funds would not be forthcoming in the same manner as in St. Louis."

Members of the jury made an inspection of the barracks housing project yesterday and took notice of fire hazards.

"The situation appears to be so fraught with danger as to merit immediate action," the report said. "To wait for construction to replace the temporary buildings would be foolhardy in the extreme."

Chairman's Testimony. The jurors said the housing authority chairman, Paul Krueger, testified that he thought the agency should be abolished but was not sure the other four directors would agree.

The report said: "Many witnesses were discouraged and disgusted over the manner in which the authority has functioned. It was very evident to the jury that some board members appeared to be well qualified and conscientious men. Still it is difficult to understand why, if this board is autonomous, there should exist a decided feeling of frustration on the part of those responsible and active for and in the authority."

The jury was "impressed with the great opportunity for the county to develop a real recreation center as well as an historic site" at Jefferson Bar-

P.S. CO. OFFERS TO CUT FARES IF TAX IS RESCINDED

Willing to Give Up Recent Increase for Cancellation of Gross Receipts Levy.

An offer by Public Service Co. to give up its most recent fare increase if St. Louis will rescind its 5 per cent gross receipts tax on the company's bus operations was made today to the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The proposal was contained in a reply by the company to the city's earlier motion asking the commission to cancel the fare increase granted the company. Cancellation was asked because of the company's action in contesting the validity of the gross receipts tax.

The fare increase granted last Feb. 24—a 15-cent increase in the cost of regular and express permits—was estimated to yield about $450,000 annually. The gross receipts tax for the year ended last Jan. 31 was $731,433. The company also seeks a refund of the $782,964 it paid the city under protest for the year ended Jan. 31, 1955.

Declaring the city's motion to cancel the fare increase was premature, since the validity of the tax had not yet been adjudicated, the company made its offer in these words:

"If it is to be assumed from the language used in the city's motion that this 5 per cent gross receipts tax is not to be considered as an item of operating expense to this company, and if the administration of the City of St. Louis can and will undertake the necessary steps to rescind and eliminate said tax within the next 60 days, the company will thereupon voluntarily undertake to file an appropriate tariff with the commission so as to restore the rates of fare which were in effect prior to March 4, 1956, being the effective date of the rate adjustment authorized by the order of the commission in the above numbered proceeding."

Language of the city's motion shows that its request for cancellation of the fare increase is retaliation against the company's effort to get an adjudication of the gross receipts tax, the company's reply said.

'Two or Three Years.' Krueger recalled that he had said previously that the temporary units should be emptied, but added: "It is inhuman to think that we should put more than 900 families out of their homes immediately. It might take two or three years, and then we must do everything we can to relocate these people."

There was time, Krueger said, when the Housing Authority was inefficient, but he insisted that the operation has been greatly improved.

MACHINE BEATEN

precinct committeeman in Precinct 1 and in the Democratic contest for committeeman in Precinct 6. A total of 123 absentee ballots were cast in Precinct 1. Moyzish said more than usually are cast in the entire city.

Mudge, son of a former circuit judge, held an insurmountable lead over Austin Lewis for the State's Attorney nomination, 12,409 to 9,950. Mudge had made gambling his chief issue, attacking Lewis' poor law enforcement record when he served as State's Attorney previously.

Dr. Billings, former coroner led machine-backed Thomas J. Burke and Coroner Ben F. Staten in the race for the Democratic nomination for coroner. The nearly complete vote was Dr. Billings, 7,759; Burke 7,156; Staten, 5,432.

Simon Renominated.
State Representative Paul Simon, youthful publisher of a weekly Troy (Ill.) newspaper, was renominated on the Madison Democrat ballot, receiving 33,310 votes. Representative Lloyd (Curly) Harris, with 21,814 votes, also was renominated and Roy L. Willmizig Jr., 6,798, was defeated.

James F. Chapman was leading Marvin McClelland in the race for the Recorder of Deeds nomination, 12,278 to 6,001. Other Democratic offices were uncontested.

On the Republican side, with 136 of the 137 precincts reporting, William G. Straube led David G. Hodge in the race for the Coroner nomination, 5,125 to 3,899. Other offices were uncontested, with former State Representative Edward D. Groshong being the party's unopposed candidate for State's Attorney.

Only 31 per cent of St. Clair county's registered voters went to the polls, 38,928 casting ballots. Forty-seven per cent of these voted for Stevenson and 26 per cent for Eisenhower.

State Representative Alan J. Dixon, with 28,075, and Frank Holten, with 18,825, were renominated on the Democratic ballot. They defeated Virgil L. Calvert, who polled 11,805 votes. There were no other county contests. State's Attorney Richard T. Carter and Coroner C. C. Kane had no opposition.

Nominated as the Republican candidates for State Representative were Representative Otis L. Miller, who polled 12,719, and Joseph D. Rountree, 9,413. Theodore (Ted) Kramer lost, receiving 7,154 votes.

Charles V. Chance nosed out Grace B. Fischer in the race for the Republican nomination for County Auditor, 3,739 to 3,670. There were no other Republican county contests.

Republicans had no contest for five trustees of the politically powerful East Side Levee & Sanitary District, which comprises lowlands of both counties. Organization-backed candidates won easily in the Democratic contest. They were Sheriff Ogle, Dan E. Costello, Lawrence T. Tolar, George Duff and John E. Molla.

Waldo Schellenger, a Granite City automobile salesman, won the Republican nomination for Congressman from the Twenty-fourth District, which comprises both counties, leading Bertram V. Jones, 9,758 to 4,824. The unopposed Democratic candidate was Representative Melvin Price of East St. Louis, who polled 39,592 votes.

City Judge Joseph E. Fleming of East St. Louis, who was endorsed by both parties and was unopposed was elected to the circuit court bench to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Circuit Judge Edward Bareis of East St. Louis. In addition to St. Clair and Madison counties, the district includes Monroe, Bond, Washington, Perry and Randolph counties.

EISENHOWER NOW LEADS IN ILLINOIS

clared for Stevenson, former Illinois governor, and two who favor Kefauver for the Democratic nomination for President. Republican candidates elected thus far include 27 who favor Mr. Eisenhower for a second-term nomination and one with an avowed open mind.

Eisenhower Sweep Likely.
Mr. Eisenhower is expected to get all, or virtually all, of the Illinois G.O.P. delegates. Stevenson may pick up 19 additional delegates in the Chicago area if they follow the lead of an influential Stevenson backer, Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, his party's No. 1 man in Illinois. These 19 did not make known their sentiments in the poll but they are regarded as party organization men.

It was Stevenson's best primary showing. He had stressed the importance of his endorsement by the homefolks, especially after his setback at the hands of Kefauver in Minnesota last month. How the President and Stevenson stacked up against each other in Illinois nearly four years after their last meeting at the polls was the foremost facet of the primary, which legally is just a popularity contest.

Light Vote Cast.
Voting yesterday was light. Indications were that the total would be about 1,500,000, compared to nearly 5,000,000 registered voters.

Stevenson ran up a big vote over Mr. Eisenhower in early returns last night, mostly from the Democratic stronghold of Chicago. At one time he was 144,000 ahead. But the President gained steadily, sometimes rapidly, as the ballots were counted downstate.

While normally Republican, the downstate area that put the President in the lead is Illinois' agricultural area.

Stevenson had called for a large Democratic vote in his home state as an expression of dissatisfaction with the national Administration's farm program.

Republican Gov. William C. Stratton, who won renomination with ease, said: "If there had been any defection on the farm issue in downstate Illinois, you wouldn't have that great vote for President Eisenhower."

Kefauver insisted the Democratic showing was an indication that farmers are not happy with the G.O.P. farm program.

Neither Stevenson nor Mr. Eisenhower was on the printed ballot for the state's primary in 1952, but the latter got 147,518 write-ins to Stevenson's 54,336. Kefauver was unopposed in the Democratic primary of 1952 and polled 526,301 votes. The late Senator Robert Taft of Ohio was the Republican winner with 935,867.

Stevenson 'Delighted.'
Stevenson, who returned to Florida last night to resume campaigning in his battle with Kefauver in that state's May 29 primary, said he was "delighted" with the vote back home.

"I am delighted that the total thus far indicates that, despite an organized write-in campaign by Senator Kefauver's supporters, I have been overwhelmingly endorsed by the voters in my home state," he said at Daytona Beach today. This was before the Eisenhower vote had passed his.

"This primary meant a great deal to me, and I am enormously grateful to my many friends in Illinois."

Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, told reporters he thinks the primary showed "a very real Democratic gain."

"Normally," he said, "the Republican vote in the primary is appreciably larger than the Democratic vote." He said he expects the Democratic total will grow as write-ins for Kefauver are tabulated.

'Very Good Showing.'
"On the whole," he said, "it is a very good showing for the Democrats."

A. Bradley Eben, national vice chairman of Kefauver's campaign organization, said incomplete returns "indicate that Mr. Stevenson will run well behind the vote he received in the 1952 gubernatorial primary."

Stevenson, receiving 708,275 votes, was renominated for Governor without opposition, in 1952. The total Democratic and Republican vote in that primary was nearly 2,300,000—much greater than the total of yesterday's balloting.

Eben noted that the presidential primary voting "is purely advisory" and said that since Stevenson "had the support of the powerful and closely knit Cook County (Chicago) organization, it is hard to see how his managers can make any great claims for him."

Before the election Kefauver's backers denied that the effort to encourage write-ins for the Senator was an organized campaign.

Stevenson had predicted that Kefauver would receive a "substantial" vote, and remarked "almost anybody can get 10 per cent of anything."

Kefauver did no campaigning in Illinois.

There possibly was some party switching in this primary. Anyone can switch parties, provided he has not voted in a partisan primary within the last 23 months. Inasmuch as most downstate city primaries are nonpartisan, this meant most voters in that area had not voted in a partisan primary since 1954's congressional balloting and could vote in the primary of either party yesterday.

Chicago, however, had partisan city primaries in 1955 and those who voted in them could not switch parties this time.

In state contests, Illinois Republicans renominated Gov. Stratton for a second term, while Democrats chose Herbert C. Paschen, Cook county treasurer, to oppose him in the November general election.

Returns from 9071 precincts gave Paschen a margin of 459,598 to 335,221 over Morris B. Sachs, Chicago city treasurer and clothing merchant.

Returns from 9338 precincts gave Stratton 526,222, State Treasurer Warren E. Wright 179,975, Lar Daly 24,401, Sidney McKee Ward of Benton 18,176, and Anthony Polley of Chicago 19,553.

Republican Senator Everett Dirksen was renominated without opposition. State Representative Richard Stengel of Rock Island, also unopposed in the primary, will be Dirksen's Democratic rival in November. Sixteen incumbent Congressmen were unopposed and the other six seeking renomination defeated their opponents. There were battles for three vacated seats.

The Winning Incumbents.
The incumbents who overcame challenges were: Republicans—Representative Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, Fifteenth district, and Representative Robert B. Chipperfield of Canton, Nineteenth district.

Democrats—Representative Barrett O'Hara of Chicago, Second district; Representative John C. Kluczynski of Chicago, Fifth district; Representative Sidney R. Yates of Chicago, Ninth district, and Representative

Peter F. Mack Jr. of Carlinville, Twenty-first district.

Among the Republicans, there was a close contest between Robert H. Michel of Peoria and James M. Unland of Pekin in the Eighteenth district. Representative Harold Velde of Pekin decided not to run again, and gave his support to Michel, who was his secretary for seven years. With three-fourths of the district reporting, Michel had a slight lead.

Another close race existed in the Republican Tenth district, where a vacancy was caused by Representative Richard W. Hoffman's decision to leave Congress. Harold R. Collier of Berwyn held a slight lead over James A. Howe of Oak Park.

In the district's Democratic contest, Marvin E. Lore was apparent winner over Joseph LaBarbers of Chicago.

In the Fourteenth district, where the death of Representative Chauncey W. Reed of West Chicago left a vacancy, the Republican nomination was won by Russell W. Keeney of Wheaton. The Democratic nomination in the Fourteenth apparently went to Harold J. Spelman of West Chicago.

Former Representative Edgar A. Jonas who was defeated in the Twelfth district two years ago by Democrat Charles A. Boyle, won the Republican nomination easily. Boyle was unopposed for renomination.

HOLLIS RULES SELF OUT OF COUNTY SHERIFF RACE

St. Louis County Sheriff David L. Hollis, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Arthur C. Mosley when Mosley was ousted by the State Supreme Court, announced yesterday that he will not be a candidate for nomination for sheriff in the August primary.

In his announcement, he said future business expansion plans make it necessary to devote more time to personal affairs. He is president of St. Louis Tool Co. in Maplewood.

Meanwhile former Sheriff Mosley has been sounding out some St. Louis County Republican Central Committee members to determine whether they will support him if he enters the primary race, it was learned. There is division among county Republican leaders as to whether Mosley could be re-elected in view of his ouster for not enforcing gambling laws and for soliciting a reward.

ST. LOUISANS URGED TO FILE
U.S. TAX RETURNS AT ONCE

St. Louis area residents who have not filed their 1955 federal income tax returns were urged today to do so immediately by Ernest M. Flinn, district Internal Revenue Service director. Flinn said that several thousands taxpayers in the district have not filed.

"Preparation of the 1955 return is almost identical with that of 1954," Flinn said. "April 16 is the deadline on which all returns must be filed and the tax percentages are the same as last year. Taxpayers can still co-operate by immediate action in filing and paying 1955 taxes."

Flinn said information will still be supplied by the Internal Revenue Service in cases where problems are not too complicated. In most cases returns should be prepared by individual taxpayers, but those having highly complex financial problems should consult a qualified tax specialist, he said.

House Group for Substitute Plan on Investing State Funds

Indorses Resolution for Interest-Bearing Deposits Without Limit on Amount Put in Banks.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 11—A proposed constitutional amendment which would permit the state treasurer, with the approval of the Governor, to place all surplus state funds in interest-bearing time deposits in banks was unanimously recommended for passage by the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments yesterday.

The proposal recommended was a substitute for two pending joint resolutions which had been introduced in the House earlier. A proposed amendment pending the Senate, which has been recommended by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly and the Missouri Bankers' Association, would place a 50 per cent limit on the amount of funds on which interest might be earned. The House committee version includes no such limitation.

The House substitute measure was backed by Representative Earl Baer (Dem.) of Salisbury, chairman of the House committee on constitutional amendments, and Representative Thomas D. Graham (Dem.) of Jefferson City, a member of the committee.

Didn't Consult Governor.
Graham told the Post-Dispatch that he and Baer had studied the Governor's proposal but had not discussed their bill with Gov. Donnelly or any bankers. He said he and Baer came to the conclusion that it would be wrong to permit the state treasurer "to go into the investment banking business" by allowing him to invest funds in short-term Government securities.

The two proposed constitutional amendments shelved by the committee in favor of its substitute would have permitted the investment of idle funds in Government securities or placement of them on time deposit to draw interest. One of them would have earmarked all investment of funds for the use of the public schools.

The committee also ignored a substitute measure proposed at a hearing before the committee by Representative A. Clifford Jones (Rep.) of Clayton, which not only would have permitted investment in Government securities as well as depositing them in banks at interest, but also would have required competitive bidding by the banks and would have restricted the size of the deposits so as not to exceed the capital and surplus of the bank selected.

The Baer-Graham proposal, by placing no limit on the amount of funds that might earn interest, apparently left to the Legislature authority to control the amount of surplus which could be allotted to state banks and the amount of interest it could draw.

A Lawyer and a Farmer.
Graham, a lawyer, told the Post-Dispatch he had no connections with any banks. Baer is a farmer.

In St. Louis, Joseph M. Whealen, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, declared yesterday the Legislature should start impeachment proceedings against State Treasurer G. Hubert Bates.

Whealen referred to the admission by Bates that he approved the placement of a $300,000 state deposit in a Lexington (Mo.) bank in which he is a stockholder. State law prohibits the state treasurer from profiting personally from state funds under his control.

The G.O.P. gubernatorial candidate said the Legislature should not wait for action by Attorney General John M. Dalton, who is investigating Bates' handling of state funds. He charged Dalton is "too busy figuring out ways to remove Republican county officeholders on the flimsiest of pretexts while letting a state officer go merrily on his way."

DRIVER HELD ON 8 CHARGES

Morris Gray, a laborer living in the 4200 block of St. Louis avenue, was arrested on eight traffic charges last night after a chase in which police pursued him for 10 blocks, at speeds the officers said were up to 75 miles an hour.

The chase started on Natural Bridge near Taylor avenue and ended when Gray stopped the automobile, which he had borrowed, at the rear of his home. One of the policemen, Patrolman Carl Lechner, had fired one warning shot.

Soviet Minister Dies.

MOSCOW, April 11 (AP)—The Soviet government announced the death yesterday of Pavel A. Yudin, minister of the building materials industry. He was 53 years old. A medical report said Yudin had arterial sclerosis and suffered a heart attack in January.

BANKERS TELL OF BIG ACCOUNT IN FALSE NAME

about it several months ago. He said a Philadelphia bank, the name of which he is not sure, refused to cash the check after consulting his bank. He agreed to supply more details about this later.

Wood said an official in the Leoria bank named Robert Hansen "must have scared" the Philadelphia bank by telling its officials about the FBI's interest in the account, but that he knows no details of the attempted check-cashing.

Schwartz and Musto were scheduled to appear at 10 a.m. to testify but did not appear. Chairman McClellan said the subcommittee would take some action—presumably he meant the possibility of a citation for contempt—unless they had good excuses.

Schwartz's excuse: "I overslept."

The subcommittee has placed in evidence records it says show Abrams bought $20,000 worth of bonds in the name of Schwartz and $118,000 in Musto's name.

Payoffs Suspected.

McClellan said at the start of the hearings yesterday that the subcommittee intends to show whether bonds were used as pay-offs to Army officers or Marine Corps officials handling clothing contracts, or in some income tax evasion scheme.

Abrams, due to testify later, could not be reached for comment.

Nathan Rosen, a Brooklyn wholesale meat dealer, testified that "I was used for a patsy" in some of the bond deals.

He said Abrams set him up in a garment business in 1951, and put up all the money for the operation. Rosen said he never knew, when he signed checks totaling $116,422 that year, that the money was to purchase Government bonds and other securities.

He said he never learned who got the bonds, but that none of them went to him. Rosen added he did not feel he had been cheated, but that he now believes he was "a stooge" for Abrams.

Abraham B. Sharpe, a New York City book store operator, invoked the Fifth Amendment on all questions about bonds, including whether any of them had been used for pay-off purposes. He refused to say whether he is the same A. B. Sharpe in whose name $24,000 worth of bonds were bought and signed over to a Samuel Leider.

Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin), told Sharpe that by refusing to answer "you are labeling this deal as crooked beyond words, and labeling yourself a crook."

John B. Cobb, vice president of Doherty Manufacturing Co., Lowell, Mass., testified he worked for Abrams for four months in 1951. He said he learned only recently from the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Abrams allegedly had bought $308,000 of bonds in Cobb's name. Cobb said he has never owned any bonds.

Cobb said he never used his rank as a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve to help Abrams. But he said that after talking to FBI agents "I felt he (Abrams) actually used me to cover up something."

Disputes Testimony.

Alphonse J. Leonetti of Merrick, L. I., testifying that Abrams set him up in 1951 as proprietor of the Fabric Garments Co., disputed testimony by two subcommittee investigators that he had told them of participating in one of the bond deals.

Investigators Alphonse F. Calabrese and Jack Balaban swore Leonetti had told them Abrams was "afraid of only one man, Murray Berman," because, they said, Berman reportedly knew of "payoffs made by Joey Abrams to government inspectors" at a Brooklyn bar.

Leonetti denied he had said this; that he had told the two that Abrams wanted Berman to leave the country, or had said he signed checks for purchase of $15,000 worth of bonds. The subcommittee named Berman as former proprietor of a garment factory known as "the May-flower."

Senator Henry M. Jackson (Dem., Washington), demanded that a transcript of Leonetti's testimony be sent to the Department of Justice for a determination of whether perjury had been committed.

RISE IN SCHOOL TAX TO BE VOTED ON TOMORROW

confusing to some voters. It states that we are voting for an increase of annual taxation of 41 cents. This means, of course, 41 cents more than the 80-cent constitutional limit, or a total of $1.30."

Aloys P. Kaufmann, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis, issued a statement today endorsing the proposed school tax rate.

"There can be no question that a first-rate public school system is vital to the welfare and progress of our community," he said. "St. Louis has made many advances in recent years. It is of extreme importance that our school system keep pace with the general advancement of our community. For this reason I urge all citizens to support the school levy."

BUTLER SAYS HE IS SURE SOUTH WILL NOT BOLT

Democratic Chairman, in Speech Here, Discounts Talk of Third Party Movement.

Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee said today he is confident southern Democrats will not leave the party or join a third party movement this year.

Butler, who addressed the annual dinner meeting of St. Louis alumni of Notre Dame University last night at the Coronado Hotel, said in an interview he thought talk that southern states might bolt the Democratic party in the forthcoming presidential election was "highly misleading."

The party leader arrived in St. Louis late yesterday after attending a state convention of county commissioners in Georgia. He said this "grass roots meeting of active Democrats provided an excellent opportunity for political pulse-taking."

"No Sentiment" to Bolt.

"There was absolutely no sentiment for a third party there," Butler reported. "Of course, Georgia has never supported such a movement, but because the racial situation is so tense I was agreeably surprised that sentiment was so strong against leaving the party."

"I think the party leaders in the South feel that nothing would be gained by such a step, even if they did not like the Democratic nominee or platform."

"I don't mean to say that we can ignore the South. We must give some consideration to the South and its point of view."

Butler said it is "quite possible" that President Eisenhower may not run for reelection. He contended the President may have been urged to announce he would seek a second term only as a "holding operation" for some other Republican presidential candidate.

Cites Statement in Column.

He cited a recent statement by Merriman Smith, White House correspondent for the United Press, in a bi-weekly column which was deleted by the press association shortly after it had been released for publication. It quoted the President as having told unidentified persons: "I had to say yes because they told me they didn't have time to build up another candidate."

Although the United Press sent out a message asking that the item be deleted, it was published by the Washington Daily News.

Lyle C. Wilson, vice president and Washington general manager of the United Press, today said he deleted the remark because it was "wholly out of context." The President's remark, Wilson said, had been overheard as Mr. Eisenhower and several persons walked down a White House corridor.

In his talk, Butler urged the public to take a more active interest in politics. If people feel that politics are "dirty," then it is their duty and responsibility to do something about it by actively participating, he said.

Richard C. Muckerman, president of the B-I Bottling Co. and former owner of the St. Louis Browns, was named "Notre Dame Man of the Year" by the Notre Dame Club of St. Louis, which sponsored the dinner. The award cited him for his work as chairman of the St. Louis Archdiocesan expansion fund drive, and for his work for the Catholic Church, the university and community.

The award was presented by Fred S. McNeill, 1955 winner of the citation.

Alaska Hydroelectric Project.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (UP)—The Chugach Electric Association, Inc., Anchorage, Alaska, filed for a government license today to build a $6,000,000 hydroelectric project on the Kenai peninsula.

CLAYMAN NAMED ALDERMANIC AID

Selected as Parliamentarian to Succeed Late Robert L. Brown.

James J. Clayman, a real estate dealer and former manager of Kiel Auditorium during part of the administration of the late Mayor Joseph M. Darst, was chosen today to be the new parliamentarian of the Board of Alderman at a caucus of the Democratic members.

Clayman, who also served as director of the city's Land Clearance Authority, will fill the post left vacant by the death of Robert L. Brown, whose gang-style killing last Jan. 24 has never been solved. Salary of the position is $482 a month.

The Democrats also created a new position of director of research to analyze legislation for the board and invited Leroy C. Oetter, former city editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, to take the post.

No figure was proposed as the salary of the new position. A committee consisting of President Donald Gunn, Alderman Anton Niemeyer, vice president of the board, and Alderman James J. Noonan, the majority floor leader, was named to confer with Oetter on details of the offer.

One of the proposed duties of the job would be to study municipal legislation in other cities and determine whether it could be adopted profitably here.

Russia's Solar Power Idea.

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—The East German news agency ADN reports the Soviet Union has completed plans for a sun-operated electric power plant. Its account says solar energy would produce steam to drive a turbine and the electricity so produced would drive irrigation pumps in desert areas.

2 PLANES IN ALASKA CRASH, 7 MEN KILLED

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, April 11 (AP)—Two airplanes which crashed 200 miles apart Monday in the central Alaska coastal highlands carried seven men to their death and seriously injured an eighth.

A bush pilot first found a Cordova Airlines plane broken to bits at the 3000 foot level in mountain country 75 miles southwest of here on the Kenai peninsula. A rescue crew later reported "no survivors."

The airline plane crashed on a 100-mile flight from Anchorage to Seward. Its six occupants included Ramond Gillis of Seward, Bruce Robertson, Seattle; B. J. Iams, Milton, Wash.; Douglas Sayre, Juneau, the pilot, John Wade, Anchorage, and an unidentified military passenger.

The other plane, an amphibious Grumman, yielded the body of Haakon Christensen, pilot and operator of an Anchorage airline. Trapped in tangled metal and fabric was Wells Ervin, Anchorage business man. They were found five miles south of Cordova.

WITNESSES BALK, CITE NEW RULING ON AMENDMENT

Supreme Court Held It Is 'Shield' to Protect the Innocent, Artist and Wife Say.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Robert Blanchard, a commercial artist recently fired by New Orleans television station WDSU, refused today to tell Senate investigators whether he is a Communist.

His wife, Winifred, also refused to answer many questions put to her by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee. She was not asked whether she is or ever was a Communist.

In declining to answer questions, the Blanchards invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination as well as other constitutional guarantees.

They said a Supreme Court decision on Monday had declared the Fifth Amendment was intended to provide a "shield" for the innocent.

The court, in its 5-to-4 decision, held that New York state could not summarily fire a Brooklyn college teacher just because he had invoked the Fifth Amendment, but must give the teacher a hearing in the light of the "due process" clause of the Constitution.

A third witness at today's hearing, Arthur Behrstock of Brooklyn, N. Y., a free-lance writer and publicity man, also referred to the Supreme Court ruling in declining to answer some of the subcommittee's questions.

The Blanchards were called before the subcommittee in the continuation of an investigation that it has described as having uncovered a small but "active Communist underground movement" in New Orleans.

Reporter Resorts to Fifth Amendment, Then Resigns.
The New York Times News Service, (Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, April 11—William Goldman, a New York Daily Mirror reporter for the past 14 years, refused yesterday to tell the Senate Internal Security subcommittee whether he had ever been a member of the Communist party.

Goldman said he was not now a Communist but he invoked the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering questions on possible past affiliation.

Committee Counsel Robert Morris said at the start of the hearing that the subcommittee had received sworn testimony from an unidentified witness that Goldman had been a member of the party.

In New York, the Mirror said Goldman had submitted his resignation.

Another Takes Same Stand.
Cecil Lubell, of Croton-on-Hudson, who described himself as a men's wear consultant and writer for technical publications, refused to say whether he is now a Communist, a member of a Communist group at Croton-on-Hudson or knows a Joseph North. Morris said the subcommittee had heard testimony that North was an "intermediary" between the Soviet espionage system and Communist newspaper men.

Later in the day Senator James O. Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, the chairman, announced that the subcommittee would investigate problems raised for local school authorities by a Supreme Court decision Monday overturning the dismissal of a New York professor who invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Eastland said the court decision had "slashed still further the rights of states and their subdivisions."

"If this decision stands," he said, "it may be impossible for states and their political subdivisions to protect themselves from Communist infiltration and influence."

Follow-Up on White Case.
By the Associated Press.

Meanwhile, the subcommittee was reported looking into the activities of two former Treasury Department employees, Solomon Adler and V. Frank Coe.

Morris told reporters an analysis of their government service was being made as a follow-up to a study made of the influence of the late Harry Dexter White, a former assistant Secretary of the Treasury who has been called a Soviet spy. White, before his death in 1948, denied being a Communist or engaging in espionage.

Both Adler and Coe have been linked with Communist activities in testimony received by the subcommittee. Coe invoked the Fifth Amendment protection when called as a witness. Adler never has appeared.

The subcommittee put in its record a certificate showing that Adler's citizenship had been revoked Dec. 15, 1953. It said he had expatriated himself by residing in England, the country of his birth, since May 1950. In the late 1940s Adler was a Treasury attaché in China.

Instructor Who Refused to Answer Won't Be Rehired.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 11 (AP)—A college instructor who refused to answer questions before a House Un-American Activities Subcommittee will not be re-employed, the West Virginia Board of Education said yesterday.

The board said it regrets that a ruling of the United States Supreme Court prevents immediate dismissal of Nathaniel Bond, a Negro instructor at Bluefield State College.

In a 5-to-4 decision Monday, the Supreme Court ruled that a public employee may not be summarily dismissed for invoking the Fifth Amendment. Bond's one-year contract as an English instructor runs out May 31.

Canada Bars Paul Robeson.

TORONTO, April 11 (AP)—Baritone Paul Robeson has been denied permission to enter Canada for a concert tour, his booking agency said yesterday. The bar also applies to his accompanist, Pianist Alan Booth, it was reported.

ABC OFFERS TV, RADIO TIME FOR STEVENSON, KEFAUVER

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—The American Broadcasting Co. has offered free radio and television time to Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver for their political debate the week of May 20.

Kefauver invited his opponent for the Democratic presidential nomination to debate issues with him, and Stevenson has accepted.

ABC president Robert E. Kintner said yesterday the network believed the meeting of the two candidates on a platform would be of "vital national interest."

He offered the hour from 10 to 11 p.m. Thursday, May 24. If that date is inconvenient, he said, ABC "would be happy to discuss other periods mutually agreeable."

STEVENSON RAPS MIDEAST POLICY OF EISENHOWER

Begins Florida Campaign With Attack on 'Baffling Indifference' of G.O.P.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 11 (UP)—Adlai Stevenson today opened his bid to defeat Senator Estes Kefauver in the Florida primary with a vigorous handshaking tour and an attack on the Republican "baffling indifference" to the Middle East question.

Stevenson, apparently elated over his good showing in Illinois, spent more than two hours this morning barnstorming through barber shops, drug stores, courthouses and street corners. Then in a luncheon speech before a business men's group he attacked the Eisenhower Administration for a "very disappointing" policy toward the Middle East.

"It is not enough to pledge support to Israel if 'subjected to aggression.' We should make it emphatically clear that we will not tolerate aggression," the former Illinois governor said. "And we should assist Israel with arms to prevent aggression," he added.

"Brink of War." Stevenson charged that the administration "inaction in the Middle East has brought us to the brink of war."

He said that this country should "decisively reaffirm" its obligation under the three-power declaration with Great Britain and France of 1950 "and make it emphatically clear that we mean to prevent any aggression in the Middle East."

Stevenson spent almost an hour touring a newspaper plant where he refused to be led out of a room until he had shaken hands with every worker in the room.

Then he moved on to the main street of Daytona Beach where he planned to walk three blocks shaking hands along the way. But it took Stevenson fully 30 minutes to get through the first block and he was mobbed at the corner by autograph hunters and citizens who wanted to shake his hand.

Warmest Response. Reporters who have been covering Stevenson throughout his campaign said it was the warmest response he has gotten so far in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I had a good time and I hope it was effective," Stevenson said.

Asked if he thought this sort of campaign would have saved him from defeat in Minnesota, Stevenson said: "There's really no way to tell. . . . But it was a fast campaign in Minnesota and sometimes I think we move too fast."

"This kind of campaigning is really the easiest thing in the world to do," he said. "It's much less strain than speaking all of the time. And I think it's a lot of fun."

EAST SIDE PLAN FOR AIRPORT TO BE DISCUSSED

St. Louis, 6 Illinois Chamber of Commerce Representatives to Confer.

An East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce proposal that an all-military airport to relieve congestion at Lambert-St. Louis field be constructed on the East Side will be discussed today at a meeting in the offices of the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

The proposal is an alternative to recommendation of the city of St. Louis and civic groups here that a $30,000,000 military airport be built in the Dardenne Valley of St. Charles, west of St. Louis.

Charles F. Spilker, manager of the East St. Louis chamber, said Chamber of Commerce representatives from St. Louis and five Illinois cities, Alton, Belleville, Collinsville, Edwardsville and Granite City, were expected to attend today's meeting.

2 Possible Sites.
The East St. Louis chamber has two possible sites under consideration, A. C. Wadsworth, president, announced yesterday. He said neither site was within the East St. Louis city limits but both were "nearby." He said Parks Airport, south of East St. Louis, was not under consideration.

"We want the military airport in this area," Wadsworth said, "but only if it will not conflict with community interest, as military operations apparently have done at Lambert Field."

The St. Louis-sponsored proposal for building the all-military installation in St. Charles county has been opposed by some residents there. However, members of the Wentzville Community Club voted Monday to support the plan.

Military Grounds.
United States Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem.) of Missouri, whose district includes the St. Charles area, said this week that selection of the military airport site would be made on "military grounds," with little or no consideration for views of local residents.

The establishment of an all-military airport near Lambert-St. Louis field has been urged as a means of eliminating overcrowding and hazards as a result of the joint use of the field for military and commercial traffic.

Squeeze East Berliners.
BERLIN, April 11 (UP)—East German Communists are fining hundreds of East Berliners who work in the West, according to West Berlin Socialist leader Franz Neumann, in an effort to keep them in their own sector.

CITIZENS GROUPS TO ADVISE ON USE OF FORESTS URGED

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—People who use national forest lands should have some part in forming the policies covering administration of the areas, Senator Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, said yesterday.

Legislation he has ready for introduction would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to establish citizens advisory councils that would make recommendations for protecting and preserving the multiple uses of the forest areas.

His proposal would leave the secretary with full authority to control the management practices but the recommendations of the councils would be a major aid in formulating proper policies, he said.

where there's a wheel... there's a way

On days so busy you have to "watch" every minute, traffic seems heaviest, street parking scarcest. Studying your problem, wheels started turning in our head. Why not let you stay inside your vehicle (whether it has two or two hundred horsepower) and be catered to?

Bank at the wheel... at Mercantile! That was the idea. We built our new Motor Banking Service at an ideal spot, 8th & Lucas. Heart of downtown—yet outside the heaviest traffic.

Now, during a busy business day, lunch hour, or shopping tour, you can pull up to one of our drive-up windows... and complete your transaction in less time than it otherwise takes to park your car. If you're a pedestrian, it's just a few steps from the sidewalk to our walk-up windows.

If you don't have an account at Mercantile, stop in at the bank and open one. This takes a few minutes, it's true. But you'll gain them back on your first visit to our Motor Banking Service.

SOVIET OIL RIG DEAL HAS A STRING TO IT

Weeks Reveals Russians Want Technical Data in Exchange.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks has hinted that a Soviet offer to license for production in this country a new type of oil well drill may be unacceptable because the Russians want United States technological information in exchange.

In a speech here last night Weeks cited the Russian offer as an example of the complexity of administering East-West trade controls.

Commerce Department officials recently confirmed that Dresser Industries of Dallas, Tex., had laid before them a proposal under which the American firm would be licensed to produce, from Soviet blueprints, a turbo-jet propelled drill for oil and gas wells.

Weeks said in his speech that newspaper reports had "heralded this device as being much more efficient than American oil rigs and as a sign of Soviet willingness to exchange their technical advances with those of the United States."

However, Weeks said — for the first time officially disclosing that the Soviet offer had a long string on it — the Russians had asked for "technological information needed for producing advanced types of boring bits for drilling wells."

"An appraisal must be made," Weeks said, "as to whether this exchange might not open the door for the Soviets to the whole range of developments than this hint that the Commerce Department may consider the Soviet price for the turbo-jet drill too high.

The Commerce Department controls exports to the Iron Curtain countries, including export of technical information. There is no control over imports.

7 GET 6-YEAR TERMS IN ALLEGED CUBAN PLOT

HAVANA, April 11 (UP)—Col. Ramon Barquin, Cuban military attaché in Washington, and six lieutenant colonels, majors and captains have been sentenced to prison for six years for plotting against President Fulgencio Batista, it was announced today.

Each of the seven had confessed complicity in the plot which was crushed by loyal troops last week without major fighting.

Six lieutenants who pleaded not guilty were sentenced to serve 50 months each.

OBSTACLE ARISES TO TVA'S RIGHT TO BUILD NEW UNITS

Senate Group, at Odds With House, Would Require Approval for Using Funds.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—An Appropriations Committee recommendation that the Tennessee Valley Authority be required to continue getting congressional approval of construction projects went to the Senate today.

The committee's proposal is a turnabout from tacit approval the House gave to TVA construction of additions to existing plants without requiring approval from Congress.

The Senate committee made possible a contest in the Senate, and possibly the House, by putting back into a supplemental appropriation bill $3,500,000 for TVA to start building a new generating unit at the John Sevier steam plant.

House's Position.
The House had upheld its Appropriations Committee which denied the money, and said, in a majority report on its action: "The committee finds that the Tennessee Valley Authority's revenues have provided it with sufficient funds for the construction of such additional units as TVA now requires, and believes that the agency should follow normal business procedure, using its revenues to the extent necessary."

The House committee based its statement on a finding that the word "project," as used in the corporation's control act, applies only to wholly new plants and not to additions to existing plants.

A minority of the House Committee disagreed sharply and contended "project" meant new generating units as well as any other construction.

Their disagreement was on interpretation of this statement in the corporation's control act: "None of the power revenues of the TVA shall be used for construction of new power producing projects, except for replacement purposes, unless and until approved . . . by Congress."

Requested in Budget.
Senate committee action in putting the $3,500,000 back in the bill complied with an Administration budget request. In asking for the money, the Budget Bureau said it should be provided to start building the new generating unit and that additional construction should be financed by proceeds from sale of TVA bonds secured only by TVA power revenues. That bond sales proposal has been hanging fire in Congress for many months.

Chairman Carl Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, in announcing the Senate committee's action—taken when a tie vote of 8-to-8 was broken by one unidentified Senator who changed his vote—said a report of the decision would go to the Senate today. Probabilities are that no action will be taken by the Senate before Friday—unless an effort should be made to suspend rules requiring a three-day interval before consideration of a committee report.

HENNING'S BACKER REGRETS POPULARITY TEST IN POLITICS

Elections of political candidates to office "are not and should not be popularity contests," Thomas J. Guilfoil, St. Louis lawyer and Democratic leader, told the Associated Young Democrats of Metropolitan St. Louis last night at the Kingsway Hotel.

Guilfoil is helping to manage the campaign of United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr., for re-election. Referring to President Eisenhower, Guilfoil said, "A distinguished military record and an engaging grin are not heavy enough to outweigh the faults of an Administration whose foreign policy has brought us three times to the brink of war, but never to the brink of reality."

He added that the Republican party "has ruthlessly violated its trust in the natural resources of America" and has "savagely fought American labor and is bringing small business to extinction through its blind worship of bigness."

SOVIETS PURGE TOP SECURITY POLICEMAN IN WHITE RUSSIA

MOSCOW, April 11 (AP)—A Soviet newspaper disclosed yesterday that Lavrenty P. Tsanov, long considered one of the top men in Russia's security police, has been purged in White Russia.

The latest reference to Tsanov reaching the West listed him as a lieutenant general in the security police.

A copy of the newspaper Soviet White Russia reaching Moscow did not state specifically what Tsanov was charged with or his punishment. An article by White Russian Justice Minister Ivan Vetrov called Tsanov an "enemy of the Soviet state who engaged in nefarious subversive work." The article linked Tsanov's name with that of Lavrenty P. Beria.

FOUNDER OF CUB SCOUTS DIES

SAN JOSE, Calif., April 11 (UP)—Funeral services were held today for the Rev. Joseph H. Bennett, retired minister who was credited with launching the Cub Scout movement in the United States.

The Rev. Mr. Bennett, who died Monday at a San Jose hospital, was 69 years old. Born in London, he had engaged in Boy Scout work in England and the United States since 1914. He came to nearby Campbell in 1927 and later afterwards started United States Cub Pack No. 1, by sanction of the Boy Scouts of America.

U.S. ACCOUNTING OFFICE CALLS FOR AIR FARE INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The General Accounting Office recommended yesterday that the Civil Aeronautics Board make a "full scale investigation" of air fares.

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell made his suggestion in a 116-page audit report to Congress. He said the CAB has never made a general investigation of passenger fare revenues even though they have amounted to more than 60 per cent of all domestic airline revenues since the CAB was established in 1938.

He said the board, meanwhile, has spent "much time and effort investigating the airmail and freight revenues which amount to only 15 per cent of the total airline revenues."

The airlines are subsidized by the Government through payments for carrying the mails.

The report also proposed:

1. A limit on the salaries of airline executives, and on the total amount of a company's executive salaries, that will be underwritten by the taxpayer.

2. Transfer of the mail subsidy responsibility from CAB to a "subsidy administrator" to be appointed by the President.

SCHOOL BOARD DROPS RHODES'S ESTIMATE PLAN

Christel's Objections to $102,194 Renovation
Project Without Bids Get Results.

An attempt by School Buildings Commissioner V. Harry Rhodes to obtain a $102,194 appropriation from the Board of Education so that work on a school project could be done by employees of his department instead of by outside contractors was dropped last night at the board's regular monthly meeting.

The request was deleted from Rhodes's monthly report after Charles H. Christel, a board member, indicated he would question whether its approval would violate state law which requires that all jobs in which labor costs are $2500 or more be handled by contractors submitting competitive bids.

Protested Closed Session. After the request was dropped, Rhodes said he would proceed to ask for bids from contractors for the work, which is the planned conversion of Washington Technical High School into an elementary school.

Last week, when the board met as a committee of the whole, board members voted to discuss the appropriation request in closed session, over Christel's protest.

After that meeting James F. Morrell, board president, said no decision on the matter had been reached and that action on it had been deferred.

The request was included in a section of Rhodes's printed

BRITISH SOLDIER KILLED IN CYPRUS PATROL AMBUSH

FAMAGUSTA, Cyprus, April 11 (AP)—Anti-British guerrillas ambushed a patrol some 10 miles west of Famagusta last night, killing a British soldier.

He was the twenty-fifth British service man killed since the Eoka underground launched its campaign of violence more than a year ago. Eoka and other pro-Greek Cypriots are demanding that the east Mediterranean island, now a British colony, be united with Greece.

A government communique said four army and police vehicles were on patrol at the village of Kalopisda when the shot was fired killing a soldier in the third car. The troops returned fire, wounding an elderly Greek bystander.

The troops searched the village for two hours. The communique did not indicate that they found anything.

report last night and a breakdown of the proposed work, item by item for each floor of the school, was included in the report of Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey.

Deleted Before Reading. When Hickey's report was brought before the board, Christel indicated he would question the appropriation when Rhodes's report was considered. However, when Dr. James J. McCaffery, board vice president, presented the building commissioner's report, he deleted the $102,194 request.

The figure represented an estimate of the cost of labor and materials needed to convert the Washington school, 814 North Nineteenth street, into an elementary school to be called Franklin school.

The Washington school, once an elementary building, was, until racial integration, the technical high school for Negroes. Its conversion to elementary use will be made possible by the opening next September of the new O'Fallon Technical High School.

Okinawa Nike Site Bids Sought.

75,000 FRENCH RESERVISTS TO GO TO ALGERIA

120,000 More Placed on Alert as Council of Ministers Votes for Mobilization.

PARIS, April 11 (UP)—France embarks today on its greatest mobilization program since the eve of World War II.

The Council of Ministers met to approve a plan that will send 75,000 reservists to Algeria by May 15 and place another 120,000 under a state of alert.

The Council of Ministers includes the members of the cabinet and the heads of the French armed forces. The cabinet already has given formal approval to the drastic move aimed at ending the 17-month-old Algerian rebellion.

The mobilization program means every eligible Frenchman in France's "ready reserve" will be alerted for possible shipment to Algeria. A detachment of 75,000 conscripts will be armed and sent to North Africa as soon as shipping is available.

Algerian Training. The troops will not be given refresher courses before being sent into combat, but will receive training in Algeria on how to fight the rebels' hit-and-run technique.

They will be bolstered by 30,000 to 40,000 regular troops called from France's weakened NATO divisions and from troops on duty throughout France itself.

Meanwhile in Algeria, French troops trapped a strong band of Algerian rebels near the Moroccan frontier. At least 62 men were killed in the battle which still is raging, authorities reported.

Reports said reinforced French troops were trying to cut off the rebel escape routes to the interior. They gave rebel losses as 52 dead and French losses as ten dead and ten wounded.

Vigilance Doubled. French security officials here doubled their vigilance against the threat of Arab outbreaks in the Moslem observance of Ramadan, which begins tomorrow.

The guerrilla war in Algeria was touched off by a massacre on All Saints' Day, Nov. 1, 1954. Since then native outbreaks often have coincided with Moslem or Christian holidays.

Algiers was tense today, but troops patrolling the city reported no violence. Elsewhere in Algeria, 26 Arabs were killed yesterday. No French casualties were reported.

Lembeck, 4103 Flora place; Miss Marcia Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hale, Kansas City; Miss Mary Lou Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McBride, Alton.

QUEEN ELIZABETH CHOOSES GIFT FOR MONACO WEDDING

LONDON, April 11—Queen Elizabeth II is sending a silver gift as a wedding present to Prince Rainier and Grace Kelly.

The Queen has declined an invitation to the wedding on the protocol ground that she has not met the Prince of Monaco, but the wedding gift will be taken by Maj. Gen. Sir Guy Salisbury-Jones, marshal of the diplomatic corps at the Court of St. James, who, together with the British consul at Monaco, will represent the Queen.

By the United Press. The assistant editor of "De Bretts Peerage" claimed today that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Rainier are cousins 15 times removed. Patrick Monaghan-Smith said in the Daily Express that both have Britain's King Henry VII as a common ancestor.

FRENCH ENDING 100-YEAR S. VIET NAM OCCUPATION

SAIGON, April 11 (AP)—Units of the French expeditionary corps marched through the streets of Saigon yesterday for the last time in their almost 100-year occupation.

French Commander in Chief Pierre Jacquot and Vietnamese Secretary of Defense Aran Trung Dung laid wreaths at the base of the war memorial honoring all French and Viet Nam war dead.

Under agreement with South Viet Nam, the last 10,000 French troops who fought in the Indochina war are expected to be withdrawn from this country within 90 days.

DRIVER GETS YEAR IN WORKHOUSE, FINED

Frank J. Sweeney Sentenced for Leaving Scene of Accident.

Frank J. Sweeney, a truck driver, 6233 Dardanelle avenue, Pine Lawn, today was sentenced to serve one year in the Workhouse and fined $500 for leaving the scene of an accident in which several persons were injured. Police Judge Robert G. Dowd, who found Sweeney guilty, assessed the maximum penalty. Sweeney was found guilty of leaving the scene after an automobile he was driving collided with another machine at Grand boulevard and Chouteau avenue last March 5. The second automobile jumped the curb and struck Fred Selle, 807 Regina avenue, Lemay. Selle suffered a fractured leg. Four occupants of the automobile that struck him also were injured.

Police quoted the defendant as saying he left the scene because he had been drinking, and felt ill following the collision.

"You are the type responsible for the rising death rate; I hope your sentence will deter others," Judge Dowd told Sweeney.

A year ago Sweeney was fined $100 by Judge Dowd for driving when intoxicated.

SOUTH READY TO BARGAIN,
FIELDING WRIGHT SAYS

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 11 (AP) — Former Gov. Fielding Wright, an arch-opponent of integration and a prime mover in the 1948 States Rights movement, said last night the South "is in a position to bargain for preservation of its traditional way of life."

Wright said 11 southern states, not including Texas and Oklahoma, control 128 electoral votes and these votes represent the South's bargaining power. If the 11 states would bind their electoral votes together, he said, they could approach either the Democratic or Republican parties and demand a certain platform of government. He said the South must offer its allegiance to the party that offers the better bargain.

CANADA TO BUILD
FOR AIR TRAFFIC

The New York Times News Service (Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK, April 11—Canada will gird itself with another radar belt—this one to smooth the flow of airplane traffic.

The Government has signed a $5,000,000 contract for the installation of long-range radar equipment at 15 major airports from coast to coast. It is the first such radar belt to be contracted for anywhere in the world.

The succession of radar installations will enable traffic controllers to keep visual track of an airliner or military plane over virtually every mile of Canada's main airway system. The belt has only one gap at the east end of Lake Superior.

Simultaneous announcements of the project were made yesterday by the Canadian Government and the Raytheon Manufacturing Co., which makes the radar equipment. Raytheon also developed the radar equipment for the Distant Early Warning line, one of three defense chains across Canada.

CONGRESS OK SOUGHT ON PUBLIC LAND WITHDRAWAL

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Ten members of Congress introduced bills yesterday to require congressional approval for military withdrawal of public lands in excess of 5000 acres. The legislation would apply to the United States and Alaska.

Chairman Engle (Dem.), California, of the House Interior Committee, principal advocate of the legislation, said the Defense Department already holds 14,000,000 acres and has pending applications for withdrawals totaling another 6,000,000 acres. Under present procedure, federal agencies may withdraw land from public domain uses on application to the Secretary of the Interior. No congressional review is required.

PRESIDENT SIGNS
COLORADO DAMS

River Project Will Provide Water and Power to Four Western States.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill authorizing construction of a $760,000,000 system of power dams and irrigation projects in the Upper Colorado river area.

The President put his signature to the measure in a small temporary office above the pro shop at the Augusta National Golf Club. He is here for a week of work and golf.

In signing the bill into law Mr. Eisenhower achieved a goal he has been plugging for a long time.

As reporters crowded around his desk to watch him sign the bill, he remarked with a smile: "You are coming in to see one I am glad to sign anyway."

The President added that the Upper Colorado river project "represents what I so believe in, in treating a whole river valley as a unit—it goes from top to bottom."

"Most Valuable Resource." He said the bill "recognizes that water is getting to be our most valuable resource."

Nothing then that a cold rain was falling at the moment, Mr. Eisenhower—seeing little prospect for golf—remarked a bit ruefully that he could "do with not quite so much water today."

The President used several pens to sign the bill. They probably will be distributed to congressional sponsors of the measure.

James C. Hagerty, Mr. Eisenhower's press secretary, announced the signing plans yesterday. He said the Upper Colorado project "is one of those things the President recommended and worked for."

The bill calls for construction of four major power dams and 11 water supply units on the Colorado and its tributaries. The work will be spread over Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming and Utah and will cost about $760,000,000.

The Interior Department will handle the immense job. Secretary Douglas McKay said he hopes that contracts for construction on two main dams, Glen Canyon on the Colorado river near the Arizona-Utah border and Flaming Gorge on the Green river in Utah, can be signed early next year.

Plans for harnessing the Upper Colorado started more than 50 years ago. As early as 1922 the four upper basin states signed a compact with the "lower" states of California, Arizona and Nevada which allocated the water available between the basins and among the states.

The compact led first to the construction of Hoover dam, and then Davis and Parker dams, on the lower river and the diversion of water to southern California. The upper states now hope development of their part of the river will lead to an industrial and agriculture empire comparable with the Los Angeles area and the Imperial valley.

Glen Canyon will be the largest of the four authorized dams, costing about $400,000,000 and with an 800,000 kilowatt electric generating capacity. The others in addition to Flaming Gorge are Curecanti in Colorado and Navajo in New Mexico. Curecanti may be built only if it is found to be economically feasible.

Project sponsors, and the Eisenhower Administration, originally sought construction also of Echo Park dam, in Dinosaur National Monument in Colorado. Provision for it was eliminated by the House after conservationists complained the dam would be an invasion of a unique scenic area.

WORKERS AWARDED $450

Seven employees of the Adjutant General Publications Center, 1655 Woodson road, Overland, received incentive awards yesterday totaling $450 for suggestions they made of an increase in efficiency and saving money for the Army.

Awards were presented by Col. Ernest E. Smith, commanding officer of the center. The suggestions were estimated to save $11,581 annually.

Ambrrose J. Connor and Frederick J. Taylor each received $127.50. William A. Heady and Frank C. Miriani each received $80. Mrs. Velma E. Pickey, Miss Mary L. Prich and Leon S. Miner, $25 each.

ATOMIC BOMBER CARRYING
6 FIGHTER PLANES FORECAST

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—A large atomic-powered bomber that carries six pick-a-back fighter planes for built-in protection.

Atom-powered "locomotives of the sky" that tow strings of airliners from coast to coast.

These were forecast yesterday by Lee A. Ohlinger, head of the Northrop Aircraft Co.'s computer center in California. He told the national aeronautical meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers that atom-powered military craft should be airborne within three years, the commercial craft within 10.

U.S. Has Lost Prestige, Friends In Mideast and North Africa, But Critics Have No Solutions

Israelis, Arabs, French and Nationalists All Offer Simple and Useless Proposals on Washington's Policies — Middle-of-Road Position Criticized.

By SAM POPE BREWER

The New York Times News Service.
Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.
SECOND OF A SERIES.

ANY AMERICAN who travels in these times has to get used to being taken to task over United States Foreign Policy. The bases of criticism vary with different areas and even inside an area critics do not agree on what the results are or how they should be remedied. Still there are certain criticisms and suggestions that recur more often than others.

The traveling Americans, for their part, tend to feel that much of the trouble arises from the lack of any firm and definite policy rather than from the existence of a mistaken one.

In the Arab world and the rest of the Middle East, the United States has unquestionably lost heavily in prestige and friendship in the last few years. In the Arab countries, at least, that trend is continuing.

Reasons for Criticism Vary.
The reasons given by critics vary, but the best simple generalization might be summed up as "too much and too little."

The United States has aided nationalist aspirations and fought colonialism enough to annoy and harm its British and French allies and not enough to win the solid friendship of local nationalists.

The Americans have given generously and yet have hesitated enough, made enough conditions and refused enough requests to irritate those who are receiving the gifts and loans.

The phase of United States policy that has won the most favorable comments and made the most friends has been the technical and educational aid that is being so widely given.

Against that, the most criticized factor in United States policy is unquestionably the support of Israel. The Arab world looks on the United States as the principal force in the creation and protection of Israel as a state. When one sees how bitterly the Arabs feel about that, the most surprising point is that there is still so much friendliness for the United States.

Sensible Arabs do not believe now that it is possible to do away with Israel, but they do reproach the United States for what they believe to be a consistently strong bias in favor of Israel as against its Arab neighbors.

What the Israelis Say.
The Israelis, on their side, feel the United States could assure their survival in peace by arming them heavily.

If the United States gave in on that point, there would be extreme alarm on the Arab side and an immediate rush to the Soviet bloc for arms that have been offered and bought on a small scale.

The Israelis approve economic aid policies and the "Johnston plan" for rational development of Jordan valley waterpower and irrigation resources.

They think the United States should arm them and keep arms from the Arab countries. They believe the United States puts too much faith in the ability of the United Nations to prevent a major war in the Middle East.

As an improvement on present policies, they urge heavy "defensive" armament for Israel and the use of all possible pressures to impose a settlement of Israel's frontiers that would involve recognition of Israel's existence as a state.

The Arabs oppose such a settlement because they feel their whole position rests on the fact they have never consented to the establishment of a foreign state in an area inhabited by Arabs. Recognition of Israel, they believe, would weaken their claim to the area involved.

The Baghdad pact provides an example of the vacillation that has brought criticism of the United States from all sides.

United States refusal to join has irritated and alarmed the member countries, organized for defense against Soviet aggression. The members, Britain, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey, feel that the success or failure of the alliance depends on the active membership or absence of the United States, which first suggested it.

Foes of the pact include the Soviet bloc and "neutralist" countries, with Egypt leading the chorus of criticism. They resent United States moral support of this pact, even though it has not gone beyond lip service.

One senior United States diplomat commented bitterly recently that it was impossible to know where the United States stood as long as it refused to join the pact, although the State Department periodically proclaimed its support of the alliance.

Result is that the United States incurs the ill will of both opposed camps.

Trouble in North Africa, Too.
Special reports for this survey from correspondents in North Africa indicate that there, too, the United States has fallen between two sides in an effort to be moderate, though not entirely neutral.

Nationalists think the Americans have made too little effort to back up their ideals of independence and self-determination for all.

The French think their American allies have betrayed them by encouraging nationalist aspirations. That is why feeling rose

GALLUP Poll Shows Major Gain By Kefauver

His Support Rises
From 18 to 33
Pct. as Stevenson Drops.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
PRINCETON, N.J., April 11.

In an American Institute of Public Opinion poll, taken after the Minnesota and Wisconsin primaries but before the primaries in Illinois, the figures represent the proportion of the vote which the various Democratic candidate possibilities would get if there were a national presidential primary in which all Democrats voted and in which all Democratic candidates were listed.

Each voter was handed a list of prominently mentioned Democratic candidates.

Following are the choice of voters who classify themselves as Democrats:

	Today	March '56
Adlai Stevenson	39%	51%
Estes Kefauver	33	18
Richard Russell	4	4
Lyndon Johnson	3	2
G. Mennen Williams	3	2
Frank J. Lausche	2	2
Stuart Symington	2	1
Others, no opinion	12	12

	Today	March '56
Kefauver	29%	25%
Stevenson	23	33
Lausche	10	7
Harriman	6	6
Russell	5	3
Sam Rayburn	4	5
Williams	4	4
Paul Douglas	3	4
Symington	3	3
Others, no opinion	13	10

Persons questioned were next asked to express their preferences if the choice were narrowed down to two candidates.

The vote of Democrats:

Stevenson	49%
Kefauver	46
Undecided	5

SOVIET YOUTH UNIT URGES ABOLITION OF FORCED LABOR

The New York Times News Service.
Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.

MOSCOW, April 11—The end of "organized recruitment" among the 18,500,000 members of the Young Communist League for assigned tasks has been suggested.

Aleksander N. Shelepin, secretary of the central committee of the Young Communist League, demanded abolition of labor direction in an address at the Communist party congress in February. He said many plant managers and construction site supervisors failed to provide decent conditions for their young workers "because they know beforehand that as many workers will be sent as they ask for."

Reports of last week's Young Communist League central committee meeting, published yesterday, did not specifically refer to Shelepin's call for abolition of labor direction. It was clear, however, that the meeting had approved the proceedings at the congress and had decided to disseminate all speeches made at the congress, including Shelepin's.

ARGENTINA PLANNING HUGE SLUM CLEARANCE PROGRAM

BUENOS AIRES, April 11 (UP)—The Revolutionary Government announced plans yesterday for a $12,000,000 emergency slum clearance program for the city's shanty towns where some 140,000 persons live in squalor.

FLEESON Eisenhower Vacation Stirs Uneasiness

Criticism Voiced of His Absence
During Mideast Crisis.

By DORIS FLEESON
WASHINGTON.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S golfing vacation in Georgia during the present period of international tension is not popular in Washington. More is being written about it in connection with current problems. United States allies are openly critical, even the jokes have a sharper edge and there is widespread uneasiness in the Capitol cloakrooms.

The attempted cover-up for the White House vacuum in the form of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles's conference with congressional leaders was not a success.

The Secretary told the leaders nothing substantive that they did not already know from their reading of the newspapers. Anyway, they regard Dulles as political in his motivations and they would not follow him across the street.

Aids Run Domestic Program.
It has long been taken for granted that the President was not concerned with the detail of his domestic program. He has given his Cabinet and the independent agencies an unheard-of autonomy and has even showed temper at being expected to know the ins and outs of their policies and practices.

By what amounts to tacit consent, the politicians and people generally have all but ceased to hold him domestically accountable in many ways in which Presidents Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman had constantly to answer. Probably the major reason is prosperity (except for the farmer) and full employment. Since things are going well, complaint seems superfluous.

But it always has been agreed that the Eisenhower strength lay in his world-wide prestige and international experience. In foreign policy, he has enjoyed almost unanimous support from Democrats as well as Republicans. Democrats said with truth that he was pursuing internationalist policies their party had laid down; Republican isolationists were silent.

CHILD Stevenson Do-or-Die Test Likely in Oregon Primary

Nearly Fatal Blow to His Candidacy if Preference Is Again for Kefauver in May 18 Voting.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1956, The Post-Dispatch Publishing Co.)

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11.

IN A BOLD MOVE to overcome the setback he suffered in the Minnesota primary, Adlai E. Stevenson will come into Oregon to seek a write-in vote which would give him this state's 16 delegates for the presidential nomination at the Democratic convention in August.

Oregon's primary, coming on May 18, two weeks before the Florida primary and three weeks before the contest in California, is likely to prove an all-or-nothing trial for Stevenson. If he does well, he will have regained some of the momentum he lost in Minnesota and his chances will correspondingly improve. But if the preference is again for Senator Estes Kefauver, whose followers are vigorously organizing here, Stevenson's candidacy will have received a well-nigh fatal blow.

That is what he risks by coming into this state, where as in almost every part of the country the Democrats suffer from deep internal conflicts. Whether his influential Oregon backers have done a sufficient job of organizing is the question. Some of them are frankly pessimistic.

Harriman's Position.
Stevenson backers here have long been suspicious of a plot engineered by Gov. Averell Harriman of New York to kill off Stevenson, using Kefauver as a means to this end. Having disposed of Stevenson and confident that organization Democrats will never take Kefauver regardless of how many primaries he wins, Harriman hopes to be the ultimate choice of the convention. There might even be a "deal" with Kefauver emerging as Vice President on a Harriman ticket.

As long ago as last October Democratic State Chairman Howard Morgan, a Stevenson supporter, suggested in a public statement that "Harriman and Tammany Hall money will be routed circuitously to Kefauver to finance bitter primary fights with Stevenson in the hope of hurting both. Harriman will remain aloof from these contests . . . and the eastern bosses will try to sweep up the pieces and hand them to Harriman at the convention. And may I add that anyone who regards the financial transaction described above as outlandish and impossible has much to learn about politics."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Who Will Work for Estes?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Up to now I have viewed Senator Kefauver's campaign with mild curiosity and interest but little enthusiasm. I have always felt uncomfortable in the face of his unimpeachable personal ambition. But now my feelings have changed to a real indignation and indignation.

Stevenson's candidacy in 1952 probably did more than any other thing to get many people all over the country to get out and work in their local political organizations, to revive and invigorate the interests and broaden the participation of individual voters in the decision-making in the Democratic party.

Many of us have taken part in local clubs and organizations for no other reason than our desire to participate in public affairs in an area that greatly affects our lives. We certainly have no axes to grind.

Now Kefauver runs around inferring that anyone who participates in an organization of the party is not one of the "people," but is identified with the "bosses," is somehow disreputable, and has ulterior motives in mind.

This is an old attitude in American thinking, of course, that anyone who actually gets out and works in politics touches something dirty and not nice. It may be an old attitude, but it is not always true or healthy for the parties or for the country. For Kefauver to try to cash in on this myth is self-defeating.

If Kefauver were to get the nomination (and of course he won't and knows it), who does he think will go and ring doorbells for him? Certainly not me.

MRS. RICHARD H. UHLIG.

No Sale on Cloud 9

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Adlai Stevenson must think the American worker is a dumb lot. The East Alton speech would certainly indicate this.

I say to him this: There never has been a time when so many American workmen made so much money in so short a working day as has been done under President Eisenhower's Republican Administration. And more important, it has been done with a stable cost-of-living index and without a war.

Will the workers trade all this for the Cloud 9, egg-headed philosophy being dished out to them all over the country? I think they will not.

The New TV Magazine

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I wish to congratulate you and thank you for the new TV Magazine which you are now including in your Sunday paper. This is an unusual and fine service and a sign of your thoughtfulness of your readers.

I have bought similar magazines on the news stands and find yours much more compact and easier to read.

MRS. H. C. PIERCY.

I very much appreciated the new TV Magazine. The only thing I didn't like about it is the fact that previously you always gave a full description of the programs scheduled enabling the viewer to make a better selection. JOANN MEYER.

I am very pleased with the new TV Magazine. It is neat and compact and mine will be found on top of the television set. I especially like the separate listings of children's programs and movies. I have been a subscriber to the Post-Dispatch for 14 years and this is just another of many fine features you have given us that makes reading it so enjoyable.

30 Years of Change

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I enjoyed the recent letter from P. A. Johnston of Dundee, Scotland, in which he recalled the days 30 years ago when he lived and worked in St. Louis.

Yes, there have been some changes here in spite of the feeling in some quarters that St. Louis is one of the most conservative and unprogressive cities in the United States.

The little hotel where Mr. Johnston roomed across from Welpert's Drug Store at Ninth and Pine is still there; so is the saloon on the ground floor and so is Welpert's. Child's mail order house has moved to a larger location at Eighth and Chouteau. But the older part of the city he knew along the levee is gone.

I would say in behalf of St. Louis that there is still a friendly spirit here and an appreciation of music, drama and art. On the debit side, of course, we still have an archaic type of city government but that will be changed one of these days.

Reader Johnston may be interested in learning that the new St. Louis telephone book is out and that it contains almost two-thirds of a page of Johnston.

STEPHEN E. WRIGHT.

Adlai, First and Always

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In a letter which appeared in this column recently, one of your readers, Kenneth Cox, criticized the Post-Dispatch and me for refusing to "admit defeat" and jump on Senator Kefauver's bandwagon.

I am for Adlai Stevenson, and have been since 1952, because I believe that he is uniquely endowed with all the qualities which would make him a great President. If he didn't win a single primary election, I would still maintain this conviction.

Bulwark for Our Rights

The country can breathe easier now. The Supreme Court has upheld the right to use the Fifth Amendment as a basic part of the Bill of Rights. A majority of the Justices have well said that it would make a mockery of the Constitution to justify the automatic firing of a teacher because he invoked a right guaranteed to him by our fundamental law.

We may wish that the margin for the Bill of Rights had been larger than 5 to 4. Yet many a judicial victory has been won closely in the past, thereafter to be the precedent on which further protections were erected. So we applaud the victory and express our gratitude to Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Frankfurter, Douglas and Clark who made it possible.

The case was that of Dr. Harry Slochower, a teacher of German at Brooklyn College with 27 years of service when he was fired in 1952. New York City provided for the automatic dismissal of any city employee who refused to answer a question on the grounds of possible self-incrimination. Dr. Slochower was called before a House subcommittee and questioned about his political affiliations. He said he had not been a member of the Communist party since 1941. As to Communist affiliation in 1940 and 1941, he declined to answer on the ground that the Fifth Amendment protected him against possible self-incrimination.

Two weeks later he was discharged. He took his case to court and now after four years and an expenditure of both energy and money, he has won final endorsement of his contention in the Supreme Court.

This is not because the Supreme Court has any misplaced sympathy for Communists or Communism. It is not because the Supreme Court is a soft touch for those who "hide" behind the Fifth Amendment. It is not because New York City is without recourse in keeping disloyal or subversive persons out of its public school system. Certainly it is not because a teacher has a constitutional right to his job which insures him from being discharged for cause.

Dr. Slochower has won his victory simply because the Fifth Amendment is meaningless if one of its major protections can be snatched away from those who seek to apply it. Here is what the Supreme Court majority said:

We condemn the practice of imputing a sinister meaning to the exercise of a person's constitutional right under the Fifth Amendment.

The privilege against self-incrimination would be reduced to a hollow mockery if its exercise could be taken as equivalent either to a confession of guilt or a conclusive presumption of perjury.

The privilege serves to protect the innocent who otherwise might be ensnared by ambiguous circumstances.

The dissenters, Justices Reed, Burton, Minlon and Harlan, concerned themselves more with details than with basic constitutional principles. In the major dissent, for example, Justice Reed said that while a witness has a right to plead the Fifth Amendment to protect himself against prosecution he does not have it to protect him "against the loss of his job." And Justice Harlan took the position that New York may properly say that it does not want a teacher if the public cannot have confidence in him.

But these are not the true issues. If a teacher is incompetent New York can get rid of him on a proper showing of his incompetence. If the teacher's conduct is such as to destroy confidence in him surely that fatal characteristic will lead to his downfall without any shortcuts through holes driven in the Bill of Rights.

The Supreme Court is wholly sound in its refusal to be a party to this attempt to crack the Fifth Amendment. And since a certain United States Senator has been pretty successful in turning it into a smear term—unfortunately with precious little objection in the press and actually a lot of approval—here are the Fifth Amendment's historic words:

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall he be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

These are great words—among the very greatest in the nation's history. Thanks to the Supreme Court—and that means in this case to Chief Justice Warren who tipped the scales—they have new application and new strength today.

Who Is Really Responsible?

The attack on Nat (King) Cole, the Negro musician, on the stage of the Birmingham Municipal Auditorium, occurred in a city and state where racial antagonisms have been inflamed. White Citizens' Councils, a new variation on the Ku Klux Klan, have sprung up throughout Alabama, with the avowed intention of using economic pressures to prevent integration of the public schools.

The White Citizens' Councils may disclaim all responsibility for the cowardly attack. They are responsible, nevertheless, for stirring up a state of mind in which such lawless incidents become likely.

All thoughtful Alabamians, and those who have not been showing themselves so thoughtful, should pause and reflect on this shameful incident. They may thus avert some manifestation which would do them even greater dishonor.

A Better Way to Pay Taxes

State income taxes are due next Monday. Not everybody who ought to pay them will pay them. Those who do might well take a moment during the painful duty to ask themselves this question: "Don't you wish you had paid the state tax, like the federal tax, in relatively small installments deducted and withheld during 1955 by your employer?"

There are three strong reasons for adopting a withholding law, as 11 other states have done. One is to put a stop to evasion of the state tax, which burdens so unfairly those who do pay. Another is to increase tax collections to meet rising demands for state school and welfare expenditures, it being sound sense to get the most out of existing tax levies before adding new ones. Finally Missouri needs withholding as a measure of personal convenience and comfort for the taxpayer.

The Iowa Tax Commission, which is proposing that withholding be adopted by that state, says a survey indicates Iowa income taxpayers overwhelmingly favor the measure. If Missouri taxpayers could be similarly sounded, they would probably vote the same way. Tax evaders, of course, might not like withholding. But that is all the more reason for adopting it. Missouri

State Tax Supervisor Thomas R. Allen is reported to favor a withholding tax for persons who live outside the state—chiefly in Illinois and Kansas—but who evade payment on Missouri income.

But why stop there? If withholding is good for nonresidents, it is good for everybody. We hope the next General Assembly will make a serious attempt to adopt it.

What the Illinois Vote Shows

The final returns in the Illinois primary apparently will show that the Democratic and Republican parties polled almost the same number of votes. They will also show, on the basis of nearly complete returns, that President Eisenhower and former Gov. Stevenson ran an almost even race in preferential votes with a slight edge going to the President.

Adlai Stevenson led in Democratic Chicago and Cook county by a vote of approximately 2 to 1, but the President won strong support in traditionally Republican downstate to make just about a dead heat of it.

No one can be sure what this portends for November. Yet it is clear that the Republican vote has fallen off markedly in terms of the Democratic primary vote. In 1952 the Republican total was approximately 1,400,000 while the Democratic total was slightly under 900,000. But this year it appears that each party has cast something more than 700,000 on an even-Stephen basis.

This Republican decline must be explained in terms other than that intra-party contests brought the Democratic voters to the polls. Gov. Stratton, who has won renomination, had a contest with State Treasurer Warren E. Wright, and Republican Secretary of State Carpenter, who also won renomination, had a fight from Alderman Nicholas J. Bohling of Chicago. So there was just as much reason for Republicans to go to the polls as for the Democrats to vote in the race for nomination for Governor, won by Cook County Treasurer Herbert Paschen.

If Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee received any substantial write-in vote it will not come out until the official canvass. On the basis of unofficial returns, which do not show all the write-ins, the Tennessee aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination received relatively few write-ins. The Stevenson total, matching that of the President with all the latter's prestige, gives a new impetus to the former Illinois Governor's campaign.

Minnesota, Wisconsin and now Illinois make it plain that as of April 1956 the Republican appeal does not enjoy popular favor in the same proportions as four years ago.

FOR the School Levy

St. Louisans will make an important public decision Thursday. They will determine what kind of school system they will maintain here for the next two years.

The $1.30 tax rate they are asked to approve will permit continuation of such important services as the nationally-famous reading clinics, the special schools for the physically handicapped, the enriched program for elementary and high-school youngsters of above average ability, and so on.

In addition it will provide extra money to cover the School Board's share of the cost of bringing its people under the social security system; to reduce the size of classes by one pupil per teacher; to increase teachers' salaries so they will be in line with those paid in competing systems, and to permit substantial deferred maintenance of school buildings.

If the friends of the schools turn out in strength, the system will benefit by a snowstorm of ballots reading FOR the Levy.

Pasting the Bosses

The people of Madison county can look with satisfaction today at the returns from the race for the Democratic nomination for State's Attorney—the office which has so much to do with whether or not Madison county is a haven for commercialized gambling and vice.

Dick Mudge Jr. of Edwardsville, who has pledged himself to padlock such gambling casinos as that at Club Prevue, roundly defeated Austin Lewis, State's Attorney in the days when the Courthouse ring set up a system of periodic payoff fines for the gambling gentry.

Political freshman Mudge carried so many cities and towns as well as the rural areas that his decisive majority becomes a complete repudiation of the kind of "law enforcement" Madison county had in the Lewis regime.

This was not the only blow struck by the voters at the Madison county Democratic bosses Tuesday. Sheriff Kenneth T. Ogle and State's Attorney Fred P. Schuman were defeated for Democratic committeeman in their precincts in Granite City. This knocks them off the county committee and boots Ogle out of the chairmanship which he ran as if it were a personal preserve. Meantime anti-boss State Representative Paul Simon of Troy, voted one of the outstanding five legislators in his first term at Springfield, ran up an amazing total of more than 28,000 votes.

Choices in November will depend on how well the voters in both parties do their civic duty in the primary. Thanks to those who went to the polls in the rain Tuesday, the prospect is for a better and brighter day in Madison county government.

Every Citizen's Duty

The St. Louis Citizens Charter Committee has announced the candidates it will support for election to the 13-member Board of Freeholders. And in accord with an earlier promise, Mayor Tucker has pledged his support to the committee's slate.

Such backing certainly commends these 13 to the most careful consideration of their fellow citizens. But in all, 44 candidates have filed. The records, accomplishments and aims of those not selected by the committee also deserve a fair appraisal. As Mayor Tucker said:

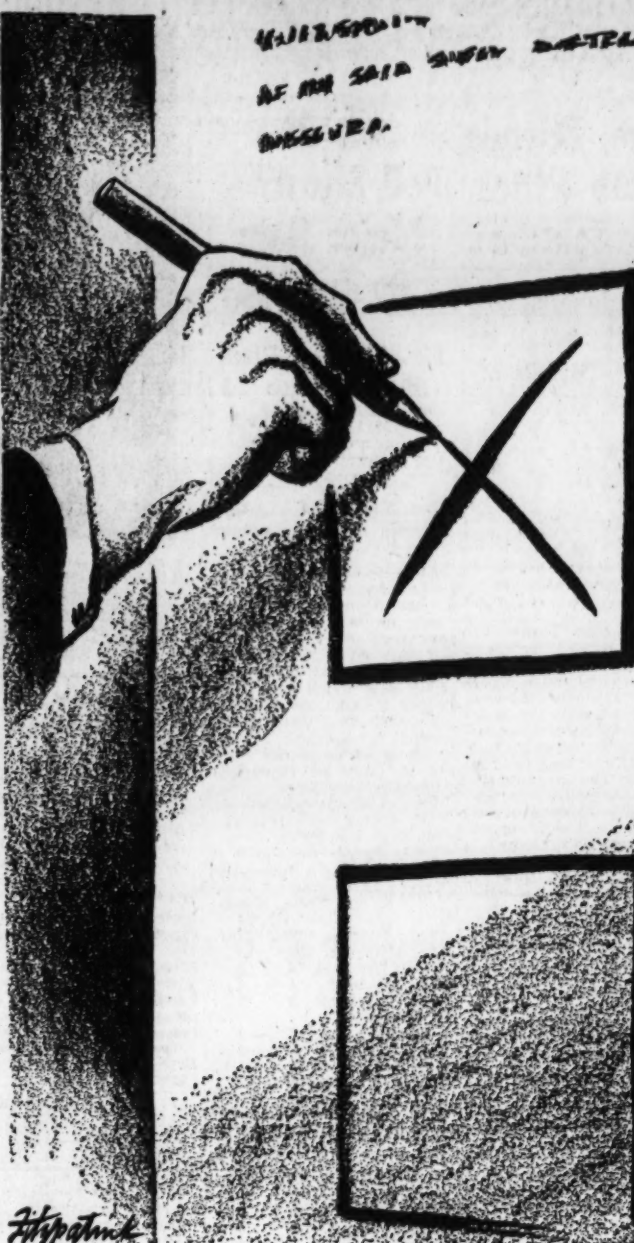

I am sorry that only 13 could be chosen. There are many others among the candidates who are well qualified for the post.

And as Tom K. Smith, chairman of the committee, said:

The fact that there are many candidates who are not part of this group of 13 does not mean that there were not many fine St. Louisans who filed as candidates. There were. It means only that the committee realized that only 13 of them will be elected, and that its responsibility was to pick the 13 who—as a group of 13—appear to be best suited to undertake this difficult and responsible task.

The responsibility which the committee accepted is a responsibility of every voter between now and Election Day, May 8. Each one must study the candidates and decide on those 13 who, in his opinion, are best qualified to make a thorough study of the need for charter changes.

Citizens not registered to vote should go to the Board of Election Commissioners office, 208 South Twelfth Blvd., before 5 p.m. Saturday.

TOMORROW'S OPPORTUNITY

Raise the Baskets, Lower the Men?

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Now that it's all over for another year, basketball fans can debate how to improve the game for unimpeachable time and whether to abolish seven-foot centers; writer traces how nation's biggest game has changed since days of the center jump and low scores.

Poucher Coleman in The Louisville Courier-Journal

This is the time of year when basketball fans catch their breath after championship tournaments and begin to debate what rule changes are necessary to improve the game.

For years basketball struggled along without rule changes and with very few rules.

A friend of mine, who remembers when about the only fouls were holding, tripping, tackling from behind and running with the ball, says the game was better then and fairer to the average-sized player.

He is an ardent hater of seven-foot centers because he is a chunky guy well under six feet tall, and there was a time when he was a right shifty running guard who could blip the ball into the basket from a variety of angles.

But in those days there weren't so many over-sized opponents to intercept his shots.

He professes to be amused at this year's rules change issue, which appears to be how to end dunking.

Dunking is a term formerly applied to doughnuts and coffee. In modern basketball parlance it refers to the annoying habit practiced by seven-foot centers who beat your side by reaching above the basket rim and deflecting their teammates' stray shots into the net.

My friend says the obvious way to stop this is to abolish seven-foot centers. Short of that, he favors making the diameter of the ball just a shade less than the basket's. But the only sure way he contends, is to put the basket so close to the floor that everybody will have an equal chance at it.

As far as that goes, he says, basketball is by no means what it was when final scores in hard-fought games were around 21 to 18 instead of 101 to 98 under present rules.

"The way basketball is played now," he expounded, "it starts with a field goal. Then the opponents get the ball automatically and they make a field goal. This goes on until time finally runs out and everybody except the most partisan spectator is bored to death."

"There are so many fouls called, and shots taken and shots missed, and free throws made and bonus shots missed, that at the end of the game the officials and statisticians are more exhausted than the players are."

My friend suggests that the thing to do now is to abolish all the rules and start over again.

"Personally," he said, "I never could tell charging from blocking, and I doubt if some of the referees can, either. Now they want the officials to guess whether a player's hand is above or below the rim when he tips one in."

He wants the game played the way it was a generation ago, when players wore quilted pants, padded at the knees, and stockings and slammed each other around considerably.

If modern gate receipts didn't refute him, I'd be more inclined to agree with him. I seem to remember that as speed and science superseded brute force in basketball, players discarded football gear but usually wore knee guards and elbow pads to avoid floor burns, which is a term seldom heard nowadays. And the chunky player who couldn't jump up and tip in a goal could break up a stall by busting into a dribbling opponent, and often did.

The stall, I believe, was invented by Ward "Piggy" Lambert in the early 1920s, when he was coaching Purdue. It was used in the back court until somebody invented the 10-second line.

Remember when there was a jump at center after each goal? The rules makers changed that—to speed up the game, they said. I can't recall any seven-foot centers in those days, but teams with centers above average height beefed about the new rule.

Remember when there was no free substitution rule? In those days the regulars who started the game stayed in until they were knocked out, and most of them went the route. But when a substitute got in he stayed in—as long as he could take it.

Once there was a set of rules for high school teams and another for colleges. The collegians could dribble and then shoot at the basket, but a high school player who dribbled had to pass off to a teammate.

Not so many years ago each team had a "foul-pitcher," a specialist who made all his team's attempts from the free-throw line, regardless of who was fouled. He usually made most of them, but scoring from the foul line wasn't as heavy in those days because there was no bonus rule.

All these specialists had the same style, a two-handed shot that started below the knees. There are experts today who say it is still the most accurate. From the floor there were set shots, a few crisp shots, even fewer hook shots and no jump shots to speak of.

When basketball was played mainly in Y.M.C.A. gymnasiums, research reveals, baskets were closed at the bottom. The referee, usually attired in a business suit and white shirt with a starched collar and necktie, used a stick to punch the ball out of the net after each successful shot.

This bit of folklore my friend the ex-guard doesn't believe. But he can remember that officials didn't always wear striped shirts.

The Tree That Was Named for Gen. Grant

From the Chicago Tribune

A letter from Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, expressing thanks that one of the biggest trees in the world was named after him, is exhibited by Mrs. C. E. Lewis of Fresno, Calif.

The letter, to Mrs. Lewis's grandmother, the late Mrs. Lucretia Purdy Baker, was written in longhand by the Civil War commander on Oct. 4, 1867.

The giant redwood, by most recent measurements 272 feet high and 36½ feet in diameter, stands in the Kings Canyon National Park in the Sierra Nevada mountains.

"My grandmother was a Yankee," Mrs. Lewis related, "and was very fond of Gen. Grant. One day in 1867 she went by horse and buggy from Visalia for her first look at the big trees. As she stood awed by the largest one, she decided to name it after her idol. "She took some branches of the tree and mailed them, with a note, to Gen. Grant in Washington."

Grant's reply letter read:

"My dear madam: Your favor of the 5th of September, by express accompanied a box containing branches, etc., from the largest tree in California, and no doubt in the world, which too partial friends have done me the honor to name after me, is at hand."

"Please accept my thanks for thus remembering me, and also for the kind expression of regards contained in your letter. With great respect, your obedient servant."

"I'd like to know just what my grandmother wrote to Grant," Mrs. Lewis said. "But unfortunately, there is no record of her letter anywhere."

Two Roads, One Destination

CHARLES BURCHFIELD, by John L. H. Burr. (Macmillan, 64 pp., 49 plates, $3.50.) THE DIVERSE LETTERS OF KATHEN KOLLWITZ, edited by Hans Kollwitz. (Regency, 200 pp., 48 plates, $7.50.)

Once in a great while we are privileged to read about the development of the lives of two artists which are a perfect complement, one of the other. In the first book we have the man, in the second the woman, both reaching the same destination but each traveling by different roads, thus presenting us with an example of counter-point on a grand scale.

Charles Burchfield, the man—American—is shy, sensitive with an outward vision, a colorist and romantic, his poetic intuition sparked by visual scenes of conflict in nature. In his early life he painted romantic fantasies, the big mysterious feelings of loneliness, the hugeness of the universe, the intimate sounds of insects coupled with the visual impact of their bodies against the big forms of nature.

In his middle years, beset by the financial problems of raising a family and torn by the frustration of painting and holding a job, he turned to realism: painting scenes of houses and factories and shifting his stage from country to city.

Then came the decision to rise or fall on his ability as a painter. He quit his job as a clerk and turned once more to his romanticism of his youth.

Now however the fantasy was controlled by the technical resources he gained through his middle years of realism. Finally he arrived at profound statements which have universal application.

Kathen Kollwitz, the woman—German—is shy, sensitive with an inward vision. For her the medium is black and white—no color—her poetic intuition sparked by mental reflections on the conflict of man and the effect of man on man. In early life she painted and drew self portraits, scenes of workers, feelings of death, prisoners—people and more people. In her middle life, living through the horrors of World War I, losing a son on the battlefield, she worked continuously without financial problems. Her work is concerned with outward giving of love, with death, and with strife.

Then in the late years—again another war, this time losing a grandchild and having her home broken up, she continued to develop her themes of love, only now turned inward, fierce and possessive. Finally turning to sculpture on a monumental scale, she reaches the heights; through her work we know suffering.

Burchfield's private journals and Kollwitz's diaries and letters give us an insight in the development of two great creative personalities. The singleness of purpose in these two lives, strengthened by hardship and suffering, has resulted in true artistic achievement.

City of the Triangle

THE LAND IN THE FORK, PITTSBURGH, 1793-1914, by Laura C. Frey. (Dorrance & Co., Inc., Philadelphia, $2.50.)

Intended as a view of the development of Pittsburgh largely reflected in special contributions made by selected personalities in its history, this essay abounds in clichés which detract from the author's labor of love. Occasionally a touch of warmth and humor enlivens the pages and helps to qualify this elaborate book report for a pleasant afternoon, or a program-filling interlude at the monthly neighborhood club meeting.

However, considerable polishing would be necessary before the reviewer could deal adequately with the numerous loosely related incidents and accompanying non-sequiturs which are prevalent throughout.

What Is Russia's Role in Middle East?

WASHINGTON. WHILE NOTHING IN THE MIDDLE EAST has gotten better, it is, I think, becoming clearer what is the fundamental question of high policy which will have to be answered in London and Washington.

The question is whether and how they will recognize the fact that the Soviet Union is now present as a great power in the international affairs of the Middle East. This question is as painful and difficult as the question of the Far East, that of the recognition of Red China. Both in China and in the Middle East, the question is how policy is to come to terms with the hard and unpleasant fact that an unfriendly great power is now present in what has been traditionally a friendly sphere of influence.

It is this unanswered question which is at the root of the hesitations and the differences in London and in Washington.

U. S. Asked U. N. Help.

The reason that there are no clear and firm decisions being taken is that every decision involves the questions of what the Soviet Union will do about it. We are genuinely in diplomatic contact with the Soviet Union about the Middle East. We do not know what we are able to do without her, in spite of her, or with her.

Last week the United States made two important moves in the Middle East. One of them was to go to the U. N. and to ask that the Security Council instruct Mr. Hammarskjöld to work on the improvement of the Palestine armistice. This move required the concurrence of the Soviet Union, which could have used its veto, and in the end the concurrence was obtained.

Almost simultaneously Washington, under pressure from London, decided to send Mr. Loy Henderson, a high diplomatic officer, to the coming meeting of the members of the Baghdad pact.

Two Policies at One Time.

This pact, which we have blessed but not joined, does not recognize the Soviet presence in the Middle East. It is in fact designed to exclude the Soviet Union's participation in the affairs of the Middle East.

Here then we have two different lines of policy being followed at the same time. One aims to induce the Soviet Union to concur in the maintenance of peace and eventually in the arrangement of a settlement.

This, one may say, is the line that the Eisenhower Administration would like to follow. The other line, that of the Baghdad pact and also of the 1950 Tripartite Declaration about Palestine, would not recognize the Soviet Union in dealing with the strategic and economic problems of the Middle East. We have to ask ourselves how long we can continue on these two incompatible lines of policy. There exists today a Moscow-Cairo axis which rests on the fact that both the Soviet Union and Egypt have a common interest. They both wish to overturn the policy of the Baghdad pact and of the Tripartite Declaration—the policy of excluding the Soviet Union and of claiming for the West the ultimate responsibility for the whole area.

Would Russia Co-operate?

Can we expect to succeed both in the U. N. and at Baghdad? Can we have collaboration at the U. N. and non-recognition and exclusion outside the U. N.? Is it not evident that the two policies must lead to the frustrations we are experiencing and to the equivocations and indecisions which everyone is complaining about?

It is, of course, easier to see the dilemma of our incompatible policies than it is to see how the dilemma can be resolved. For we do not know whether the Soviet Union would, if invited, be willing to collaborate.

At the U. N. meeting in New York last week Mr. Sobolev, the Soviet representative, drew a sharp line between stabilizing the Arab-Israeli armistice and attempting to make a settlement. Presumably then, Moscow does not now want war but neither does it want peace.

Nasser Depends on Soviets.

Egypt, which is the prime mover among the Arabs, depends upon the Soviet Union for something more than arms. It depends on the Soviet Union for its veto in the U. N. and above all for its capacity to interpose military power if Britain and the United States were to resort to force to maintain the status quo.

Col. Nasser, one might say, depends on Moscow to keep the green light burning for his advances. The Soviet Union is acting as a protector of Egypt and of Saudi-Arabia in their campaign to subvert the British and American position in Israel, Jordan, Iraq, and the Persian Gulf.

The Moscow-Cairo axis is operating to nullify the Baghdad pact, the Tripartite Declaration, and to frustrate the whole policy of excluding the Soviet Union from the Middle East.

If there are to be serious discussions with Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev visit London next week, nothing would seem to be more important than to find out whether we have any willingness to collaborate in the Middle East, and if so, on what terms.

COMO AND GLEASON TIE FOR TV AWARD

Both Receive Peabody Citations—Other Winners Announced.

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—A double award for television entertainment was given today to Perry Como and Jackie Gleason at the sixteenth annual presentation of the George Foster Peabody awards for the best radio and television programs during 1955.

The awards, or citations, were presented at a luncheon of the Radio and Television Executives Society of New York.

The citation for the double award to Como (whose program appears on KSD-TV) and Gleason (who is carried by KWK-TV) said the two entertainers, "it seems, split the television audience on Saturday evenings almost squarely down the middle... the committee regrets only that it is impossible to watch both gifted stars at the same time."

Recipients of awards in other classifications were:

Television news: "Douglas Edwards with the News," CBS. Television dramatic entertainment: "Producers' Showcase," NBC.

Television youth and children's programs: "Lassie," CBS. Television education: Dr. Frank Baxter, KNXT, CBS. Citation to "OmniBus" Adams family series, CBS.

Radio-television music: "Voice of Firestone," ABC.

Radio-television public service: Sylvester L. Weaver Jr., NBC, for pioneering program concepts, especially "Monitor" and "Weekday," and "The Spectaculars."

Radio-television promotion of international understanding: Quincy Howe, ABC. Television citation to "Assignment: India," NBC.

Radio education: "Biographies in Sound," NBC.

Radio local public service: KIRO (CBS), Seattle. Citation to KFYO (CBS) Lubbock, Tex.

Television local public service: Citations to WMT-TV (CBS), Cedar Rapids, Ia. and KQED, San Francisco.

The Peabody awards were established in 1940 to "recognize the most distinguished and meritorious public service each year by radio and television." They were set up to perpetuate the memory of the late George Foster Peabody, Georgia-born banker and philanthropist.

The awards are administered by a national advisory board and the University of Georgia's Henry W. Grady school of journalism.

WARNS OF EXCESSIVE USE OF ANTIBIOTICS

Dr. Llewellyn Sale Jr. Says Diagnostic Procedures Are Neglected.

A feeling by many physicians that infectious diseases no longer present a problem has led to improper and indiscriminate use of antibiotics, and neglect of diagnostic procedures, Dr. Llewellyn Sale Jr., assistant professor of clinical medicine at Washington University, said today.

Dr. Sale addressed a final meeting of the ninety-eighth annual session of the Missouri State Medical Association at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson. The session opened Monday.

He said advances in the last 20 years in the field of infectious diseases had been among the most remarkable in medicine, but warned that physicians had to be careful lest the new weapon turn out to be a "two-edged sword."

Doctors must be acquainted with the antimicrobial range of action of antimicrobials, Dr. Sale said. They must know the effect on bacteria, the possible harmful effects, the most effective way to use the agents and when not to use them at all, he said.

"With the wide usage of antibiotics," he said, "toxicity (poisonousness) becomes a prominent though statistically small factor. None of the agents in use to date is free from dangers or disadvantages."

Dr. Sale said it had been estimated that 2,000,000 pounds of antibiotics worth $260,000,000 would be manufactured in 1956. Noting an increasing trend toward indiscriminate use of antibiotic combinations, he said "this has failed to produce spectacular results and has led to sensitization and bacterial resistance."

Arthritis Report. Dr. Jack Zuckner of the Department of Internal Medicine, St. Louis University School of Medicine, made a favorable report on experience with Prednisone and prednisolone in treatment of rheumatoid arthritis. He is a member of arthritis clinics at Firms Desloge and Jewish hospitals.

The two drugs are derivatives of cortisone and hydrocortisone, respectively. They are superior in some respects to cortisone in improving or suppressing symptoms of arthritis, Dr. Zuckner said, and they do not cause certain undesirable side-effects.

Dr. Zuckner emphasized that the drugs do not "cure" arthritis, and that they resemble the older preparations in bringing out some types of bad physiologic effects in patients. He said further study was needed.

At the organization's annual banquet last night, Dr. Carl F. Vohs, St. Louis orthopedic surgeon, was installed as president. He succeeded Dr. Victor B. Buhler, Kansas City pathologist.

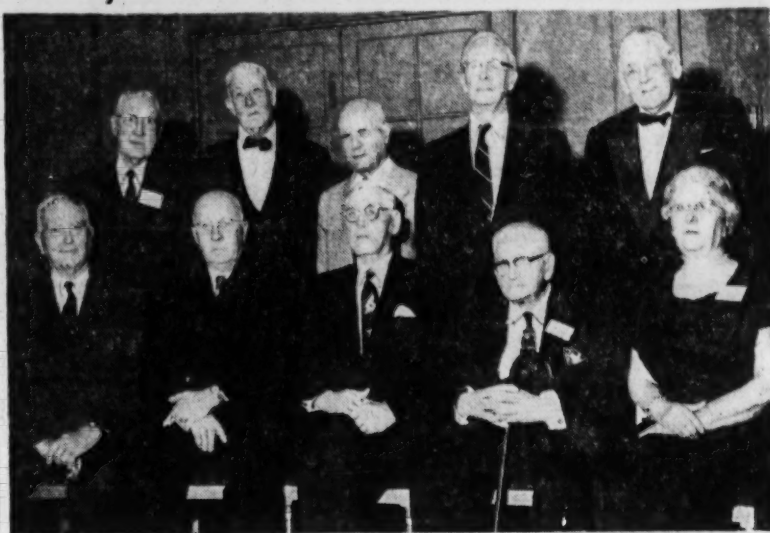

Dr. Vohs, a 1914 graduate of St. Louis University School of Medicine, headed the St. Louis Medical Society in 1947.

Dr. Vohs has been a pioneer in the field of non-profit community service health care plans. He helped found the St. Louis Blue Cross hospitalization plan some 25 years ago. He has been president of the St. Louis Blue Shield medical-surgical care plan since its organization in 1945.

Elmer Ellis, president of the University of Missouri, was principal speaker. He told of progress in construction of the new School of Medicine at Columbia, which consists of the school itself, a 441-bed teaching hospital and a dormitory for nurses.

The teaching hospital will be

ESTATE OF FRED ALLEN PUT AT MORE THAN MILLION

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Fred Allen, the humorist, left an estate valued at more than $1,000,000, a family source said yesterday as his will was filed for probate. He died March 17.

Allen, whose real name was John F. Sullivan, bequeathed half the estate to his widow, Mary Portland Sullivan, known to radio listeners as Portland Hoffa.

He also specified that she receive the interest from the remaining half, which he set up as a trust fund for three young nieces by marriage, who ultimately will get the principal.

primarily for service to indigent citizens, Ellis said, and the cost of its operation should be carried directly by the state government, as in the case of other state hospitals.

"Probably only physicians and medical educators," Ellis declared, "realize the long, difficult and expensive preparation necessary for the practice of modern medicine. It is going to require considerable work on the part of a great many people if the new school receives the kind of support that is absolutely essential."

31 Physicians Honored.

At the banquet, 31 Missouri physicians, including 15 from St. Louis, were honored for having practiced medicine for 50 years. Among them were Dr. Charles H. Neilson of St. Louis, whose son and grandson, Dr. Arthur W. Neilson and Dr. Arthur W. Neilson Jr., also are physicians.

Other St. Louis doctors in the fiftieth anniversary group were: Dr. Adolph H. Conrad Sr., Dr. E. Lee Dorsett, Dr. John F. Gallagher, Dr. William P. Glennon, Dr. Arthur Gundlach, Dr. Charles E. Hyndman, Dr. John J. Kehoe, Dr. Martin F. Kouri, Dr. Grace S. Mountjoy, Dr. Augustus W. Peters, Dr. Marsh Pitzman, Dr. J. A. Konzelmann, Dr. Tyron H. Hale and Dr. Garrett Jones.

More than 1000 physicians attended the session.

PRINCESS-TO-BE REACHES SPAIN ON WAY TO MONACO

ALGECIRAS, Spain, April 10 (AP)—The liner Constitution, carrying Grace Kelly to Monaco for her marriage to Prince Rainier, stopped yesterday at this Spanish port.

Mayor Jose Soriano rode with 15 newsmen and photographers on a tender out to the Constitution to wish her happiness.

TV reporter Jinx Falkenberg, born of American parents in Barcelona, interpreted for the Spanish reporters. Miss Kelly appeared in a white, printed satin dress.

Through the Mayor she sent greetings to the Spanish people. Tomorrow, the Constitution will stop off the harbor of Monaco, where Grace is to meet her prince and transfer to his yacht.

EASTER SEAL DRIVE TO GO ON, FAR SHORT OF GOAL

The Easter Seal drive, originally scheduled to end yesterday, will be extended because of the "emergency status" of the rehabilitation program of the Society for Crippled Children, it was announced today.

Only a little over one-third of the Society's goal of $200,000 has been received to date, according to Charles E. Claggett, general chairman of the drive.

"Unless sufficient funds are raised to enable us to continue providing care to the crippled and handicapped youngsters in the St. Louis area, the Society will be forced to drastically curtail or even discontinue its multiple services," Claggett said.

DELAY REQUESTED IN RAZING GRANT HOME NEAR BARRACKS

WASHINGTON, April 11—Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem., Missouri), has urged the National Park Service to withdraw its permission to St. Louis county to raze the so-called Gen. Grant Home at Jefferson Barracks pending a study by a St. Louis committee.

Hennings said he would arrange the appointment of a committee if the service desired. The service, before authorizing the county to tear down the old residence, determined that Grant never lived in the house and that the structure had no historic significance.

The Park Service controls the use to which the property may be put under terms of a 1950 agreement deeding it to the county. The county proposed building a small museum on the site.

MUSEUM EXHIBITION OF MODERN U.S. ART

Diversified Paintings, String and Plastic 'Sculpture' in 'The New Decade.'

By HOWARD DERRICKSON

A temporary exhibition surveying directions in which American painting and sculpture have been traveling in the last 10 years opened today in three main-floor galleries at City Art Museum.

Entitled "The New Decade—35 American Painters and Sculptors," the show presents about 50 pictures ranging from meticulous realism and surrealism to abstraction, and seven unusual sculptures or constructions, two of them in string.

No St. Louis artists are represented, although the display contains pictures by St. Louis-born James Brooks of New York, who left here when 5 years old, and Stephen Greene, also of New York, a former member of the Washington University faculty, whose paintings are in public and private collections here.

The visiting sculptures are of kinds seen more rarely in St. Louis than are the styles of paintings on view. "Liquid Enclosure," by Japanese-born Leo Amino of New York, is an abstract mobile in clear plastic which, as the sculptor says, creates refraction and optical illusions that intensify the work's sense of three-dimensionality.

Also in plastic, but in thread, is "String Construction," by Sue Fuller of New York, who began her experiments with string as intermediate steps in soft-ground etching. Useful and decorative string work was known to Eskimos, Indians and South Sea islanders, but Miss Fuller's designs differ in being as disciplined and abstract as modern bridges, planes and skyscrapers.

Metal Sculpture.

Similarly precise is the geometrical "Construction," in brass, by Sidney Gordin of New York. Other metal sculptures are the solidly constructed "Horizon Line," by David Hare, and "The Planets," by Iram Lassaw, both notably space-conscious, and the unfolding, tense "Night Bloom," by Seymour Lipton, all of New York. New Yorkers predominate, too, among the painters on display, all of whom have studied or worked in New York for extended periods. The so-called "New York School," now influential in many other parts of the country, including St. Louis, is solidly represented.

In the current show, this free-wheeling manner of expression, also known as "American Action" or "abstract expressionist" style, is represented in painting, some marked by rich impasto, by Richard Pousette-Dart, Franz Kline, Jackson Pollock and Robert Motherwell.

Also living in New York but apparently not of it is Alfred Russell, whose realistic multiple-figure "Diana and Cal-

FORESTERS PLAN 'KEEP MISSOURI GREEN' PROGRAM

Arrangements to establish a state-wide program to "Keep Missouri Green" were made at a meeting at Hotel Statler here yesterday attended by leading Missouri forestry officials. The program will further fire prevention through education in films, lectures, demonstrations, news articles, and other media.

The meeting was sponsored by the Missouri Forest Industries Committee of the American Forest Products Industries, Chairman of the state committee, who presided at yesterday's session, is Leo Drey of St. Louis, largest individual owner of timberland in Missouri.

Immediate action was pledged by Mrs. Earl Hath of Kirkwood, on behalf of the Garden Clubs of Missouri; Ross Anderson, Missouri Chamber of Commerce; Ed Stegner of Jefferson City, Conservation Federation of Missouri; and Crawford King, Junior Chamber of Commerce.

State Forester George White said that "the greatest possibility for success will come when all owners of forest land recognize that timber is a crop, that it has a value to them, and that they intend to manage the forest land for timber."

St. Louis-Owens Picture. The City Art Museum is represented in the touring loan collection by William Congdon's "Venice," a painting with rich masses of paint applied by spatula and then worked with knife or awl point. The artist, formerly a sculptor, was born in Providence, R.I., but has lived in Italy since 1946.

Among other non-New Yorkers in the show are Carlyle Brown, who lives in Italy; Joseph Glasco, Texas, N.M.; Alton Pickens, Bloomington, Ind.; and William Kienbusch of Maine.

Part of the New York emphasis in this survey may be due to its point of origin and method of organization. It was assembled and is being circulated by New York's Whitney Museum of American Art.

John I. H. Baur, Whitney curator, has edited the admirably complete and accurate exhibition catalogue. It contains 94 black-and-white plates and is on sale at the museum at $1.75 a copy.

Seven museum and radio talks on the show have been scheduled before it closes May 14.

Truth in Hollywood

NEW YORK, April 11. "THE HARDER THEY FALL" is being advertised as the movie "they" tried to suppress because it tells the naked truth about boxing. It is a fictional version of Budd Schulberg's old novel about Primo Carnera, a fabrication based more or less on something that happened 25 years ago, updated to the television era to create the impression that it is happening right now. That is a Hollywood definition of unvarnished truth.

As for "their" efforts to prevent an expose, it is true that Truman Gibson of the International Boxing Club, refused the student permission to make crowd shots at the Rocky Marciano-Archie Moore fight last fall because he realized the movie would smear boxing. As Hollywood employs the mother tongue, this constitutes a campaign to suppress the truth.

If there is anybody who, having read the advertisement, couldn't describe the picture accurately sight unseen, then he must have been living in a cave since invention of the magic lantern. It is a celluloid chamber of horrors housing the dustiest museum pieces of cinema-punch-drunk fighters, caloused and scheming managers, venal newspaper men, sinister racketeers. Tossed on the market now while the papers are full of investigations into boxing, this dismal charade stands to make more money than poor old Carnera earned for the mob that used him.

Each to Own Taste

One respect, the film excels several of its predecessors. It is as unvarnished as the earlier treatments of this hackneyed theme, as faithful as any to the outworn cliché, but it touches a height of tastelessness which may not have been achieved previously.

Special credit for this accomplishment belongs to Max Baer, though the contributions of Jersey Joe Walcott and Pat Combs should not be overlooked. All three are former boxers, impersonating actors in this exhibit, and two of them held the heavyweight championship. Whatever they have and are today they owe to the business which they help produce here.

When Ernie Schaff died after a bout with Carnera, his death was attributed to injuries suffered in an earlier match with Baer. A parallel case is depicted in the film, with Baer playing the role of the man who does the fatal damage and subsequently boasts about it. If this is difficult to believe, it is not unique in that respect.

However, Baer makes another and somewhat different contribution. He appears in the ring as Buddy Brannen, heavyweight champion of the world. You need only one glance at his waistline to be reassured that this is, after all, strictly fiction.

Stock Models. OVER the years Hollywood keeps learning new tricks with the magic lantern. It keeps making technical advances. Though there is no evidence here that the script writers have kept pace, this is probably the best fight film, photographically, made to date. The ring action is excellent, even when it exaggerates the ineptitude of the goon representing Carnera.

Hollywood does not, of course, mention Carnera or admit that he was the prototype of Toro Moreno, a simple, bewildered Argentine giant played with fine sympathy by Mike Lane. Chances are, therefore, it is idle to object that even old Primo was a better fighter than this unbelievable tiger of the screen, whose aging trainer can stiffen him with one barehanded swat.

As the underworld boss who imports this great, harmless booby and exploits him, Rod Steiger is first-rate. There isn't more convincing sinister influence in Hollywood's entire line of stock models. Humphrey Bogart, billed as the star, just goes over the course for exercise this time. One has the impression that he read the script, said "that old thing," and walked through it.

As a cynical ex-newspaper man turned press agent, he manages to keep his essential nobility under wraps for 105 minutes of running time. When at long last his abused conscience asserts itself, he slides a single sheet of paper into a typewriter—not two sheets, like a newspaper man—and spells out the message: "The boxing business must rid itself of the evil influence of racketeers and crooked managers—even if it takes an act of Congress to do it."

It is a bold stroke. Bring on some more sinners. (Copyright, 1956, New York Herald Tribune)

Fair Warning: Jinx Marion Picks Cards to Be in Money

He's Sold On Speed, But Not Pitching

Cardinals' Game

At Denver: WHITE SOX 2, CARDINALS 0

Batteries: White Sox—Harshman and Lollar; Cardinals—Folowsky and Sarr.

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
DENVER, April 11.—Marty Marion, considerably more reliable picking up ground balls than picking a pennant race, tried again today with his St. Louis alma mater and selected the Cardinals to finish in the first division in the National League this year.

"But I gotta warn you and the folks back home that I picked 'em in the money last year, too," the Chicago White Sox manager drawled, grinning merrily. The Redbirds lagged in seventh.

"For three years now I've been playing the Cardinals in the spring, getting beat and figuring they're going somewhere like we are in the American League," Marion said, emphasizing.

"I'm still not sold on their pitching—and that's the most important—but I believe they've improved enough to finish in the first division. Fact is, I'd say only Brooklyn and Milwaukee have an edge on 'em in personnel. If they outbatter the rest of the league, they could finish third."

Marion, long-time Mr. Shortstop of the Cardinals and former manager of both the Redbirds and the late-lamented Browns, said he envied Fred Hutchinson for having so much team speed.

"I'd say speed and (Ken) Boyer is what I envy Hutch most," Marty added. "Sure, you can't have Stan (Musial) or Red (Schoendienst), but that Boyer is going to be great at third base. He's the kind of player every club would want."

Marion noted that when the Cardinals had Don Blasingame at shortstop and Jackie Brandt in the outfield, Bill Sarni, the catcher, was the only slow man in the lineup.

The Running Game. "With fellows like (George) Kell, (Wall) Droop and (Sherry) Lollar, I've got three regulars who can't run, but the Cardinals could have only that one slow man and really play the running game I like. You could 'first-and-third-'em' to death like we did on base hits in 1954."

Marion pointed out that on the famed Redbird team that won 106 games 14 years ago, even Catcher Walker Cooper was fast then and stocky George Kuroski was quick at the time, too.

Although highly respectful of speed, the Chicago manager agreed with Hutchinson's tentative decision to open with Alex Grammas at shortstop. "Grammas is slow as a base runner, but he's sure and steady and experienced," a former shortstop great said with feeling for the defensive requirements of his old position. "If the club doesn't hit, it would be time enough to go with Blasingame, who strikes me as a winning ball player and a pest at the plate if not a standout fielder."

Would Marty go with veteran Hank Sauer in left field, as Hutchinson tentatively said he contemplated? Marion grinned. "I'm doing a great job of running Hutch's ball club for him," he quipped, then said soberly: "But as long as you asked, I'd answer, no. I wouldn't go with Sauer. I'd put the kid, Brandt, in right field and Musial in left. With (Bill) Virdon in center, that would be a solid all-around outfield that would compare real well with my own (Minnie) Minosh, Larry Doby and (Jim) Rivera, and I consider my outfield our greatest strength."

Marion said he was aware that Brandt might not yet be a solid hitting because of a hitch in his swing.

"But man, he can fly, throw and field," the thin man said with enthusiasm, "and I believe he'll get enough hits and bunt enough to go with the ones he'll tag hard."

Marion labeled Cardinal catching "only fair" and said he felt Wally Moon's defensive weakness at first base "probably will cost the Cardinals a few games, but his bat will win more, I believe."

The White Sox skipper, disturbed over his own pitching, commented that Vinegar Bend Mizell's return automatically had aided the St. Louis staff. "But I still can't be enthusiastic about the Cardinal pitching. Of course, that's the toughest thing to tell. Take Dick Donovan of our staff, for instance. He kicked around, had trials with the Braves and Detroit, Frank Lane bought him from Atlanta when a lot of people thought he was crazy. He looked bad last spring, however, and was combed hard in his first start. I said to myself, 'Just one more chance, that's all.'"

He pitched a shutout and another was off and running; now he's struggling again."

Sorry, No Eye-Openers.

Despite the qualification, Marion repeated his unwillingness to be impressed by the Redbird hurlers' spring showing. "I'll put it this way," he said, "although I popped off the other day, I'm not worried about losing spring games because I've got a veteran team that frankly won't put out as eagerly as kids will in exhibitions. But I am disturbed because we're not hitting the Cardinals harder."

Marion, troubled by a cold, bedded down yesterday at Wichita, where wet grounds prevented a game for a second straight day, and sent his entire White Sox squad out to the ball park to run and loosen up on the sidelines.

Hutchinson, meanwhile, took only his batterymen to the park for pepper games, warming up, and a long stretch of running in the outfield.

And to the surprise of no one, Hutch said he'd start either Mizell or Harvey Haddix—probably Haddix—in the National League opener next Tuesday at Cincinnati.

Baseball-Seller Lane Hopes 25,000 Buy It Opening Night

By Neal Russo
Beating the drums for a big opening-night turnout at Busch Stadium April 20, Frank Lane told the Ad Club yesterday that the 1956 edition of the Cardinals, unlike the Redbirds of 1955, won't be beaten in the clubhouse before the game.

"I think the 1955 club was beaten psychologically before going out on the field," Lane said at the luncheon meeting at the Statler Hotel. "The team seemed in awe at the talent of the opposing club."

The Birds, seventh last season, have a good chance for third in 1956, he said.

Pointing out how big an asset a major league club is to a city, Lane, in his talk on "Selling Baseball to a Community," recalled the time St. Louis came close to losing the Cardinals to Milwaukee. "I was on the major league realignment committee at the time," Lane said.

For the home opener with the Braves a week from Friday night, Lane said a crowd of about 25,000 would keep the city from getting a "blackeye."

Minutis that home opener has been sold, Lane said, Coach Dick Dell's team, who swim unattached in the 12-14 division.

In the 1955 meet Schaap set a breaststroke record, Miss Schiedermeyer won the breaststroke in record time and Miss Kyfus took the backstroke.

Venturi Says All He Wanted Was Moral Support, Not Advice

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 (AP)—Ken Venturi, young San Francisco amateur who blew a four-stroke lead to lose the Masters golf tournament, says he is sorry he said anything at all when he came home because his remarks "were certainly misunderstood."

Venturi denied that he had criticized other players or officials of the tournament which ended Sunday at Augusta, Ga. "Jackie Burke's victory was a great achievement," Venturi said in a statement to the Associated Press.

Burke shot a final 71 to total 289 while Venturi scored 80 for 290.

"I would like to deny the report that I said Mike Souchak, Burke's playing partner, was helping him read the greens and to 'club' him in the final round."

"What I did say was that Souchak's friendly, moral support undoubtedly helped Burke in the final round. That was perfectly natural."

He added: "It was a great tournament; it was a pleasure to play in it, and I am happy that I played as well as I did."

Venturi said he still is puzzled by the switch just before the last round which paired him with Sam Snead instead of Byron Nelson, a long time friend and mentor.

"I was nervous anyway and all the help I could get I could use," he said. "I don't mean 'clubbing' help or anything like that, just someone friendly to talk to."

"But," he added, "I'd like to correct the statement attributed to me that I would have won had I played with Byron Nelson. What I said was that if I had played with Byron, his moral support and friendliness might have helped me."

"I'm not peeved at anyone back there, but I wasn't getting any of the benefit of the doubt," another puzzle, Venturi said, is why his friend Harvie Ward, National Amateur champion, was shoed away from the seventeenth green and not even allowed to speak to him on the final two holes of the last round.

In Augusta, Clifford Roberts, Masters tournament director and chairman of the board of the Augusta National Golf Club, said "Bob Jones and I were most shocked" about reports of what Venturi said.

But he emphasized that no statement would be made "until all the facts are in."

Venturi said he did not plan any more big tournaments until the National Open at Rochester, N.Y., in June.

"I'll be ready then," he declared, and added: "Some day I'll win the Masters."

Joe Walcott Criticized for Part in Movie

CHICAGO, April 11 (UP)—Former Heavyweight Champion Jersey Joe Walcott and Lou Radzienda, member of the Illinois Athletic Commission, traded verbal blows on a television program last night.

At the conclusion, Radzienda offered to resign his state post if Walcott would accept the job. Jersey Joe replied today that Radzienda was well aware that a citizen of New Jersey could not serve as a member of the Illinois commission.

The heated debate took place on Chicago Sun-Times Columnist Irv Kupcinet's interview program.

Radzienda rebuked Walcott for appearing in the movie, "The Harder They Fall," which has as its theme corruption and crookedness in boxing.

Walcott replied that he accepted a role in the film because he feels boxing "should be cleaned up."

Radzienda said that "boxing has been good" to Walcott, and that he "disgraced" himself by lending a hand to its critic.

Walcott acknowledged that boxing had been good to him, but he said he had to fight 21 years to win the heavyweight title and "wasn't appointed champion by a governor."

Radzienda is an appointee of Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois.

Only 25,324 at Four Afternoon Coast Openers

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 (UP)—The Pacific Coast League season boomed off with much fanfare yesterday, but the fans were somewhat discouraged because the weather wasn't fair. Total attendance was 30,374. Four afternoon games drew only 25,324.

Cloudy skies and low temperatures kept attendance down all over the circuit and for the most part the civic officials, starlets and comedians who turned out to throw, bat and catch baseballs did so before poor houses.

Only in San Francisco did an opening game crowd of proportions turn out and there the rains delayed the game and pelted the paying customers and paid performers. But the 14,401 who braved the wet were rewarded by seeing the Seals get off with a victory.

The Seals downed Vancouver's infant team, 6-3, to share the spotlight with Portland, which took advantage of a pair of eighth-inning homers to beat Sacramento, 3-2, before 6559 fans.

The defending champion Seattle Rainiers split with Hollywood, winning an afternoon game, 5-4, and losing at night, 7-6. Los Angeles walloped San Diego, 9-2, in daylight but lost, 3-1, in the night contest.

A pair of sluggers from Southern California teams hit two home runs each. Paul Pettit, the Hollywood bonus pitcher now playing first base, got a bases-empty homer in the losing first game, and then clubbed a three-run blow in the nightcap to lead his team to victory.

Ed Haas of Los Angeles hit a two-run homer as the Angels trampled San Diego behind Harry Perkowski's six-hit pitching in the afternoon and connected for another that gave Los Angeles its only run off John Carmichael in the night game. Carmichael set the Angels down with three hits.

In San Diego only 2423 ventured out into the cold afternoon for the opener and 3517 came in through the turnstiles at night. Hollywood's opening ceremonies, complete with starlets and George Jessel, brought out only 1667 and the night attendance was but 1807.

City, county and state officials replaced the entertainers at first-pitch throwing in the other ball parks.

San Francisco, opening as a Red Sox farm club, collected 13 hits and took advantage of sloppy Vancouver fielding to make

Slammin' Sam Shows 'em How With 66 Score

GREENSBORO, N.C., April 11 (UP)—Slammin' Sam Snead, convinced that life begins at 40, nipped five strokes off par yesterday as a galaxy of youthful challengers began loosening up for the greater Greensboro Open starting here Thursday.

The West Virginia Slammer toured the rolling 6762 yard course in 66 to show the youth brigade the old master has not lost his touch.

It was the second straight day Snead has played a sub-par round over the Starmount Country Club course. The White Sulphur Springs (W.Va.) professional has won the tourney five times and earned more than $12,000 in his once-a-year visits here.

Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., fired 69 and Henry Cotton of London came home in 70 in first-time warm-ups.

Ernest Arend of Deal, N.J., led the qualifying amateurs yesterday with 70. He was followed by Jack Rosemond, Martinsville, Va., with 71 aided by a hole-in-one of the difficult par three eighth. Rosemond banged in a four wood from 233 yards away.

Burly Mike Souchak of Durham, N.C., Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., Paul O'Leary of Bismarck, N.D., Mike Fitchick of Mahopac, N.Y., and Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., are spending long hours on the practice tee in preparation for the $12,500 pot.

New Pinsetters Give Bowling Balls Polish Job Before Returning

ROSELLE, N.J., April 11 (UP)—Top American bowlers participated yesterday in a preview of the new automatic pinsetters at a bowling alley here.

About 150 newsmen witnessed exhibitions of new Brunswick equipment by a host of past and present bowling champs, including Bill Lillard of Chicago, current national match titlist.

The new device, named the "Magic Brain," operates entirely automatically. A bar sweeps dead pins off the alley and immediately lowers and spots the ten pins exactly, in the event of a strike.

In case the bowler rolls a spare, the "brain" informs its arm to clear all the pins from the lane and replace those which were not knocked down. Balls are returned to the players after an automatic polishing job that removes dust from them.

The machines shown here were the first 16 to come off the production line of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. plant in Yonkers, N.Y. They are the end products of some 20 years of experimental work by the firm, which has been in business since 1845.

Clarence Beaumont Dies; Was N.L. Swat Champion in 1902

BURLINGTON, Wis., April 11 (AP)—Clarence (Ginger) Beaumont, 79, considered one of baseball's all-time great outfielders, and the first man ever to bat in a world series, died last night at Burlington Hospital.

Beaumont led off for Pittsburgh against Cy Young of the Boston Red Sox in the opening game, Oct. 1, 1903. He spent 13 years in the majors and in seven seasons batted over .300.

Beaumont, born in nearby Rochester, Wis., July 23, 1876, got his major league start with Connie Mack's Milwaukee Western Association team in 1898. In addition to his one year with Milwaukee he played eight with the Pirates, three with the Boston Braves and one, his final in the majors, with the Cubs in 1911.

He led the National League in hitting, with a .357 average, in 1902. He was a charter member of the Wisconsin Athletic Hall of Fame, voted a membership in 1931.

Beaumont suffered a stroke in 1948 and another in 1950. Funeral services will be held Friday.

DETROIT, April 11 (AP)—Light-heavyweight Chuck Spieser returns to his home town tonight for the first time since hitting big-time boxing's television trail.

Stronger Legion Teams Likely With Realignment of Schools

Public Coaches On New Tracks

Spring sports in the Public League are being conducted at many schools by new coaches, notably in track. Five member schools have track coaches who assumed the position this school year.

Earl De la Roche, former Southwest high school football player, has replaced Tony DeFillo at Soldan as track coach. DeFillo, a coach in the Public League since 1947, resigned in February to take a teaching position at Ben Blewett elementary school. He also had been football and swimming coach at Soldan, and Joe Walke is scheduled to be his replacement as football coach.

Other first-year track assignments include Joel Beezley at Southwest, Rick LeFort at McKinley and Pete Mercurio at Cleveland, changes effective last September, and Kirk Miller at Cleveland. Miller succeeded Dick Ault, who resigned last summer. Howard Lewis has become baseball coach at Hadley Tech, and John McArthur is baseball coach at Southwest.

Champions Will Draw From Four

By John J. Archibald

Some powerful new school combinations that should upgrade American Legion junior baseball several notches were agreed upon at a citywide meeting of Legion officials last night at the Aubuchon-Dennison Post. A change in the national rules covering enrollment limits on sponsored schools made the new tie-ups possible.

Here are some of the groups of high schools whose students will compete for places on a single Legion team:

Anheuser-Busch Post will draw from both Cleveland and Roosevelt.

State champion Thoman-Boothe Post, whose team consisted entirely of Ritenour High students, will add Mercy, Hazelwood and Berkeley.

In addition to its mainstay, Beaumont, Stockham Post probably will add Central this season. Post No. 4, which has had DeAndreis and Laboure, is likely to add McBride.

Southwest Plus DuBourg. One of the new posts in the Legion baseball program, Rollo-Calcatera, will have one of the top groups in Southwest and DuBourg.

Missouri-Pacific will add University City, while continuing with C.B.C.

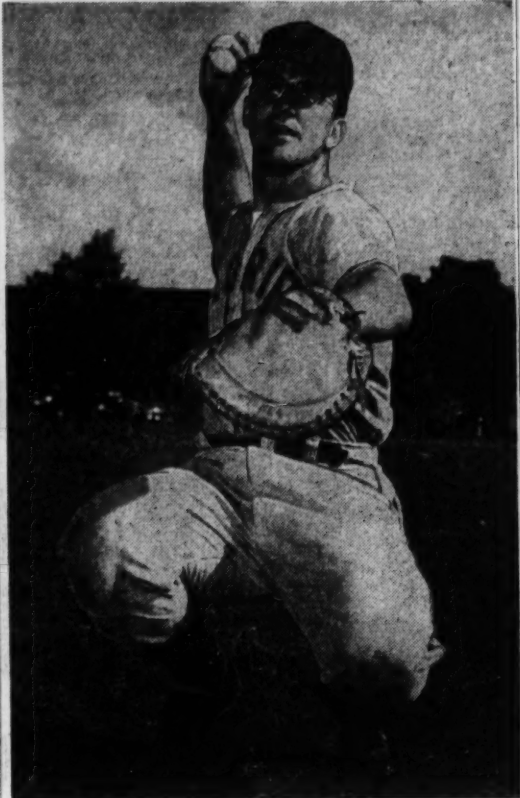

The realignments were partially due to the withdrawal of several sponsoring posts, but mostly because the national rules were altered so that only the students in the sophomore, junior and senior years are included when setting an enrollment limit of 2500 for a team. Because the freshman class usually makes up about 30 per cent of a school's enrollment, this gave the Legionnaires considerably more leeway in selecting sources for players.

There will be one six-team league in the city and one six-team circuit in the county during the season which will start in early June. It is expected that a majority of the city games will be played at night, using the soon-to-be-completed light systems at both Carondelet and Fairground Parks.

The county teams have been playing some of their games at night for several years at Ballwin Mo.

Ritchey Replaces Pine Lawn. The Carl Ritchey Post at 2133 North and South road will take over the group of schools formerly held by Pine Lawn Post and Charles Meyers will continue to coach the squad. The schools are Normandy,

McBride Boy at Florida

JERRY BILYK, former McBride High star, is the captain and No. 1 catcher on the University of Florida baseball team. A two-year letterman, Bilyk has sparked the Gators to 10 straight victories with three home runs, a triple and a double and a batting average of .290.

Wellston, Ferguson and Fairview.

Coach Jim Robinson of St. Louis U. High, who has won the city championship the past two seasons with the Aubuchon-Dennison team composed of boys from the Junior Billiken and McKinley squads, will add Lutheran High to his player sources. Quite a number of high quality players have come from Lutheran in recent years, with the school having been runner-up in the state meet in 1954.

The Legion baseball program is open to any boys in a sponsored school who were born on Sept. 1, 1938 or after.

Here is the complete list of schools that will be sponsored this season:

CITY LEAGUE
Post No. 4—DeAndreis, Laboure and probably Mitchell.
Anheuser-Busch Post—St. Louis U. High, McKinley, Lutheran.
Missouri-Pacific Post—C.B.C., University City.
Rollo-Calcatera Post—Southwest, DuBourg.
Anheuser-Busch Post—Cleveland, Roosevelt.

COUNTY LEAGUE
Rickwood Post—Rickwood, Coyle.
Vander Post—Vander, Coyle.
Gardenville-Affton Post—Affton.
Bayless, St. Mary's, Lindbergh, Hancock, Mohr, Berkeley.
Thoman-Boothe Post—Ritenour.
Murray, Hazelwood, Berkeley.

Fresno State Runner Has Chance to Better

His Mark, Dillard Says
CLEVELAND, O., April 11 (UP)—Harrison Dillard, world record holder for the 220-yard low hurdles, said today Ancel Robinson of Fresno State College threatens his mark.

Dillard's record of 22.3 seconds was set June 21, 1947, at the N.C.A.A. championships in Salt Lake City. Robinson, to date this spring, has run 22.6 and 22.7, and with the aid of a seven-mile tailwind, clocked 22.2 last Saturday. The breeze belted 4.7 miles an hour, so Robinson won't bid for Dillard's title on his 22.2.

But Dillard said Robinson's performances have stimulated him to try to better his own record during this Olympic year.

"I'm going to take one or two cracks at my own 22.3. If it can be arranged, on a couple of those fast California tracks," said Dillard. "I think it would be excellent conditioning and speed work for my bid to make the Olympic team again in the high hurdles."

"When I ran at Salt Lake City, there was almost a six-mile headwind," he said.

Pointing to Robinson's seven-mile tailwind, Dillard pointed out, "that's a 13-mile an hour difference in his favor."

Every four years, when the Olympics are due, Dillard gets a leave from his job in the Cleveland Indians publicity department to compete in the top meets of the outdoor campaign.

Patterson Knocks Out Williams in Third

KANSAS CITY, Kan., April 11 (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the No. 1 light-heavyweight contender, swarmed over Alvin (Chief) Williams of Kansas City and knocked him out at 1:56 in the third round last night.

It was Patterson's third victory over Williams and showed a vast difference between the two boxers. The Brooklyn Negro simply was too fast for the Kansas City Indian.

Patterson, 183, lashed Williams, 176, at will with rights and lefts to the head and body. He ended the scheduled 10-rounder with a body attack climaxed with a hard right to the stomach.

Williams fought back only briefly in the second round.

Althea Gibson Wins.

NAPLES, Italy, April 11 (UP)—Althea Gibson of New York advanced to the second round in women's singles play in the Naples International tennis tournament by whipping Marielena Pisanti of Italy, 6-1, 6-0. Hugh Stewart of San Marino, Calif., advanced in men's singles by defeating Mario Sebastiani of Italy, 6-0, 6-0, while Bob Perry of Los Angeles moved up by default over Jack Arkinstall of Australia.

NCAA Boxing Champs to Be in Olympic Tests

MADISON, Wis., April 11 (AP)—Boxers in the nineteenth annual National Collegiate Athletic Association (N.C.A.A.) boxing championships starting tomorrow will have an unseen "second" in their corners.

This "second" will be the knowledge that winners in the 10 weight classifications of the three-day tournament, at the University of Wisconsin automatically qualify for the U.S. Olympic team tryouts next October.

A total of 67 entries, including a dozen fighters who have yet to be beaten this year, from 20 universities and colleges will be firing punches in an effort to land a berth in the tryouts.

Idaho State, with four of the undefeated boxers, is favored to dethrone Michigan State for the team title. Louisiana State, Wisconsin and the Spartans are given outside chances.

The list of unbeaten will be trimmed by at least one by tomorrow night. California's George Pelonis with a record of 10-0-0 and Idaho State's Mike McMurtry with a 6-0-1 mark meet in a quarterfinal match in the 178-pound division.

Another outstanding boxer competing in the light-heavyweight class will be Wisconsin's Orville Pitts, Pan-American champion. Pitts has a record of six victories and two draws. He'll oppose L.S.U.'s Malcolm Buhler.

The winningest fighter in action will be David Abeyta of Idaho State, undefeated in 11 starts in the 125-pound division.

Only two defending champions—Max Voshall of San Jose State at 165 pounds and Bob McCollum of Idaho State at 119—are entered.

Dons to Make 45-Day Goodwill Basket Tour

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11 (AP)—The University of San Francisco said that Willie Naulls, U.C.L.A. center, had accepted an invitation to accompany the national championship U.S.F. basketball team on its State Department-sponsored 45-day tour of Central and South America next summer.

"We thought we ought to cement relations between Northern and Southern California before going out of the country on a goodwill tour," the spokesman said laughingly.

Naulls' inclusion on the squad has been approved by the State Department.

San Francisco set an all-time school attendance record during the 1955-56 season. The Dons, who drove to 29 consecutive triumphs, drew 230,543 fans during regular season and N.C.A.A. tournament play. The figure was about 42,000 higher than the previous mark, set in 1950.

American Purchases Irish Horse Artarsula

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 11 (AP)—American race-horse owner Neil McCarthy of Beverly Hills, Calif., bought Artarsula from Irishman Joseph McGrath.

Artarsula is a 4-year-old colt by Arctic Star out of Escula.

The sale price was not disclosed. Artarsula won last Saturday's Irish Lincolnshire race.

McCarthy arrived in Ireland with 75,000 pounds ($210,000) for Panalipper, second in last year's Epsom Derby. The deal fell through when the Irish Government overruled the Irish National Stud and said Panalipper was not for sale.

'Needles Is No Cinch to Win Derby'--Arcaro

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Eddie Arcaro, the winningest Kentucky Derby jockey of them all, doesn't believe that Needles, the current winter book favorite, is a cinch to win the Run for the Roses on May 5.

"I've looked them all over," he said, "and I'm real high on the C. V. Whitney entry of Head Man and Career Boy. Sure, Needles is the one to beat off his winter performances, but I'm convinced Head Man and Career Boy have a great chance."

"As for the rest, you can toss them out as far as I'm concerned."

He is particularly high on Head Man. He will ride the Whitney ace in the Derby.

"He's a nice-mannered colt, good size, and handles well. I'd say he has everything it takes to be a good horse. He's certainly the best three-year-old I've seen or ridden this year."

Arcaro made his comments on the eve of today's Gotham Stakes at Jamaica in which Career Boy, Eric Guerin up, was the overnight favorite of a 13-horse field. Head Man was not eligible.

Career Boy made his 1956 debut in a six furlong dash last Wednesday, and carried 126 pounds, losing by a length and a half to Isidor Bieber's Will of Allah, with only 114. This time Career Boy was assigned 122, while Will of Allah, not named for the Derby but eligible for the Preakness and Belmont, again toted 114. The Gotham distance of a mile and one-sixteenth is more suitable for Career Boy.

Other Derby eligibles in the Gotham were Mrs. Anson A. Bigelow's Nail, 126 pounds; King Ranch's Beam Rider, 118; Maine Chance Farm pair of Busher's Idol, 114, and Busher Fantasy, 122; and Mrs. Lloyd P. Tate's Jean Baptiste, 122.

Rounding out the Gotham field were Mrs. Henry H. Hecht's Beau Fond, 126; Green Dunes Farm's Combustion 2nd, 114; Mrs. C. B. Fischbach's Frosty Mr., 114; George D. Widener's Tellurian, 114; Roslyn Farm's Morning After, 114; and William Hells Jr.'s Sol-Hi, 118.

Arcaro, incidentally had the mount on Sol-Hi, winner of two races last month at Gulfstream, including a victory over Pimtor Lea, one of Calumet Farm's Derby hopefuls.

U.S. Pair Wins World Table Tennis Title

TOKYO, April 11 (UP)—Erwin Klein of Los Angeles and Leah Neuberger of New York upset top-seeded Ivan Andreadis of Czechoslovakia and Ann Haydon of England, 21-18, 21-21, 21-18, 21-14, tonight to win the mixed doubles title in the world table tennis championships.

Klein, a 17-year-old schoolboy, and Mrs. Neuberger became the only United States players to win a cup during the 10-day tournament.

Japanese players won three titles and a Romanian pair won the women's doubles crown to wind up the competition.

Ichiro Ogimura won the men's singles crown by defeating To-shiaki Tanaka, 21-13, 22-24, 21-18, 21-13, in an all-Japanese final. Unseeded Tomi Okawa upset Kiiko Watanabe, 21-15, 13-21, 23-21, 9-21, 21-18, to take the women's singles title in another all-Japanese final.

Japan's Yoshio Tomita and Ichiro Ogimura won the men's doubles title by defeating Czechoslovakia's Ivan Andreadis and Ladislav Stipek, 21-13, 21-10, 21-11. Defending champions Angelica Rozeanu and Ella Zeller of Romania snapped the Japanese victory parade with a 21-14, 14-21, 15-21, 21-19, 21-9 triumph over Miss Watanabe and Fukie Eguchi of Japan in the women's doubles final.

TALOS MISSILE BEING MADE BY M'DONNELL

St. Louis Plant Discloses It Has Contract From Navy.

The United States Navy's new supersonic guided missile for defense against aircraft, the Talos, is being manufactured by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis, the company announced today.

Expected range of the Talos has been described as 100 miles, substantially greater than the 30-mile reach of the Army's Nike. The Talos project is under joint development by McDonnell and Bendix Aviation Corp., South Bend, Ind.

Photographs of the Talos missile being tested at an unidentified base were published last month. The missile has small wings and a ram-jet engine. In Greek mythology, Talos was a man of brass sent by Zeus to guard the island of Crete.

The Department of Defense announced a few weeks ago that the Air Force would install Navy Talos launching units at four locations northwest, north and northeast of St. Louis. The locations are to be near Kirksville, Mo.; Peoria, Ill.; Peru, Ind., and Columbus, O.

McDonnell set up a separate missile engineering division at its plant here in 1948. Benjamin G. Bromberg is now chief of the division. The company has two other divisions, for manufacture of airplanes and helicopters.

Last fall McDonnell disclosed that it had nine Navy and Air Force contracts for missile production, with a backlog of work in that field totaling $15,000,000. That company noted, at the same time, that employment in its missile engineering division had increased by 65 per cent in a year.

The company declined today to give further details concerning the Talos project.

U.S. HAS LOST FRIENDS IN AFRICA AND MIDDLE EAST

Arab forces that are fighting the French.

The nationalists remember that the United States encouraged aspirations to independence. They are not getting the support they would like from Washington, but they do not look on Americans as enemies. French colonial officials and settlers also remember United States encouragement of such movements and they are bitter about it.

Simple . . . and Useless Plans. Each group offers simple and impractical solutions to its complaints about United States policy. The Arabs want Israel dropped. The Israelis want unqualified support against the Arab states. The nationalists want aid in the fight for independence. The French want help in suppressing rebellious natives.

All want money in loans and grants and all object to the policy that requires a check on what is done with the money after they get it.

The United States obviously would not gain by plunging recklessly onto one side or the other in each controversy, or by larding out money without knowing what was being done with it.

There do stand out certain calls for policy changes.

The basic one is a plea to decide on some definite policy, which in most cases, means a demand for a policy backing up the speaker's particular group.

In the instances mentioned above, it is clear the United States cannot well drop its moderate position and back one side fully. But the so-called middle-of-the-road position too often looks like indecision.

On less general lines, there are indications that money put into education facilities, libraries and technical aid is well spent. There are different views about the efficiency of existing operations in that field but there is no doubt about the demand among Middle Eastern peoples for the facilities provided.

Libraries Choice Targets. That effectiveness is presumably why the United States Information Service library in any city is normally the first target whenever political disturbances start. The Communists invariably seize the chance to steer violence into channels that suit their purpose, and the American library is almost invariably their first objective.

Several observers think policies on loans and grants might be reviewed.

The Soviet union has been making much headway directly and through satellites in providing undeveloped countries with things they want, whether they are arms, industrial equipment or other material. They give no gifts, but make business deals on terms that amount to the same thing without calling for acknowledgment of that fact. Payment may be in surplus products the aid recipients could not sell elsewhere or in weak currencies and spread over a long period.

Russia does not moralize about whether a country should have the arms it seeks or whether it needs the type of factory it wants.

A result is that each deal creates much good will at relatively low cost. Carefully supervised American loans and gifts, however lavish, tend to leave the recipients with the feeling of the tramp who is required to sing a hymn to get a free cup of coffee.

STEVENSON MAY GET DO-OR-DIE TEST IN OREGON

understands these issues and how to meet them.

Leaders of the Kefauver faction tend to fall into the rough diamond category. They are passionate champions of the man himself. They cite his incredible stamina, his ability to sit up all night on a plane and yet the next day keep up a steady pace of greeting and handshaking.

Doesn't the party want a vote-getter? Mrs. Lillian Burton, Democratic national committeewoman for Oregon and one of the Senator's organization backers, demands this of all and sundry. It's high time, she says, that they looked to the man who has shown that he can win votes.

Crowded Schedule.

Kefauver is due in Portland April 21 to address a meeting of Oregon Young Democrats. But his managers are trying to persuade him to come earlier and stay longer. He already has a schedule so crowded between California and Florida, with quick stops in between, that it is hard to see how he could squeeze in any time for Oregon.

But Kefauver is highly resourceful and thanks to the airplane he has a remarkable capacity for offering his wares in most of the 48 states from one day to the next.

There is a precedent for the decisive contest that appears to be shaping up here. Eight years ago Harold E. Stassen had triumphed in several Republican primaries as Kefauver has in the Democratic contests. Flushed with victory, he came into Oregon where he hoped to repeat the performance and give the final push to his candidacy.

But he made the fatal mistake of agreeing to a nationwide television-radio debate with the underdog, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who, like Stevenson, had been defeated once for the presidency. Dewey bested Stassen in that debate and won the primary a few days later. This is the precedent to which the Stevenson backers are looking. If it could happen once in Oregon, they say, it can happen again.

EISENHOWER'S GOLFING VACATION STIRS CRITICISM

lenced in his presence of so formidable a vote-getter.

Change Taking Place. Such criticism as existed was muted. That a change in the congressional temper is taking place is a portent both for the final critical half of the legislative session and for the presidential campaign.

For it is in the field of foreign policy that the President cannot transfer either his responsibilities or the symbolism of his office.

External threats, of course, are helping to build up pressures in Congress. The Middle East crisis involves war and a threat to U.S. strategic interests. The politicians who want to win the presidential election next year also know it has immediate domestic significance.

Maybe the Middle East can't be handled, but they think they are entitled to at least the appearance of a sustained and ardent attempt.

The major indictment just beginning to gather force is that the Administration is not making a creative and imaginative effort to meet the change in tactics of the Soviet Union. That the Communists consent to the military stalemate—while making sure they do not fall behind—is by now a truism.

No new policy or program has been offered Congress by the White House. All present Eisenhower proposals are only more of same—economic aid entwined with military aid to bolster alliances that were conceived in 1950 and later to meet the Soviet military threat.

MEANY WARNS UNION MEMBERS TO CLEAN HOUSE

Addresses Newly Merged Missouri
AFL-CIO — Assails Labor Racketeering.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, April 11—George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, assailed racketeering and corruption in the labor movement and warned union members to clean house from the local level up in an address here yesterday before the first convention of the Missouri State Labor Council. The convention, which brought about merger of state AFL and CIO bodies, closes today.

In discussing opponents of labor, Meany declared that there exists "a minority in the labor movement that from time to time does us more damage than outside foes."

"Workers of America should see to it," Meany said, "that we eliminate from their ranks those who in any way would contribute to destruction of the labor movement."

Basic Purpose of Unionism. Meany said that the basic purpose of trade unionism was to improve living and work standards of those who work for wages rather than "to put anyone on a pedestal or swell the bank account of any individual."

"Let's take a look at those in our own house who make a contribution towards blocking our progress. While I think we are better than 99 per cent decent, the 1 per cent gets more publicity than the 99 per cent who tend to their knitting in the trade union movement. "It is up to us to see that the 1 per cent does not make a contribution to those opposed to the labor movement. I think that efforts to enact anti-union legislation are increasing because of that element within our own house. We must find a way to curb that 1 per cent at every level—from the local level on up."

Meany, who presented a charter to the new state organization, denied that the national merged body possessed political ambitions other than to combat anti-labor legislation throughout the country and support measures contributing to the welfare of all wage earners.

"No one segment of the population can gain at the expense of another segment," Meany said, "and that goes for the trade union movement as well and for the fellows in Wall Street."

Calls for Forward Moves. Meany said that labor has been on the defensive in the legislative field throughout the last seven years.

"Our job is not just to defend the architects of the past, when labor struggled for simple recognition, but to move forward and see to it that in this dynamic economy labor obtains a greater share of the wealth that it assists in producing," he said.

Meany, who said that the modern trade union "must be prepared to fight on any battlefield," asserted that "citizenship comes first" and that labor must not only contribute to local communities but also work to advance the cause of world peace and consistently oppose any policy of appeasement toward Communism or other totalitarian regimes.

"The free trade union movement," Meany said, "exists in an atmosphere of freedom."

Bill on Hawaii Legislation.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The House Interior committee yesterday approved a bill providing for reapportionment and enlargement of the Hawaii territorial legislature. The bill would increase the Senate from 15 to 25 members and the House from 30 to 51 members.

JUSTICE DOUGLAS CAUTIONS U.S. TO STAND BY ISRAEL

Only Way to Mideast Peace, He Says in Talk at Jewish Fund Rally Here.

The only assurance for peace in the Middle East "is to make Israel stronger," Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court declared here last night at a rally opening the 1956 Jewish Federation Welfare Fund campaign.

Douglas, who spoke to an audience of several hundred persons at Shaare Emeth Temple, 6830 Delmar boulevard, University City, said after his address that he advocated strengthening of Israel "by all means available," including shipment of American arms.

Maintaining that Israel is "the spiritual and political ally of all the Western nations in the fight against Communism," Douglas told the rally that "we must advertise to the world that she is one of us."

"We must stand by her," he declared.

Criticizes Russia's Role.

Israel, as a democratic state, is a threat to "the feudal overlords" of the Arab nations, and also is a bulwark against the spread of Communism in the Middle East, he said.

Russia has now entered that region "in the game of power politics up to her ears," Douglas remarked, saying that the expansion of Russian influence will involve "propping up the feudal overlords until they topple and the Communists take over."

Douglas, who has traveled through the Middle East in recent years, asserted that "there is no reason in the world why the Arab people and the Jewish people cannot live in peace. That is what I am sure the common Arab would like to do."

Fair Dealings by Jews. Douglas further argued that there has been no discrimination by the Jews against the thousands of Arabs still living in Israel. He cited a case during the 1948 Arab-Israeli war in which an Arab had been arrested on orders of an Israeli cabinet minister and held incommunicado.

The Arab's attorney, a Jew, filed for a writ of habeas corpus, and when the case reached the Israeli supreme court, the court unanimously agreed that the prisoner should be freed and made a strong statement about the violation of the man's civil rights, he said.

Douglas said he had been invited to sit in as a special guest of the court at the time and was "proud to be identified" with the Israeli justices who made that decision.

Press's Rights Upheld. In another case during that war emergency period, he said, the court upheld the right of two newspapers, which had been suppressed, to criticize the government.

"It was encouraging for me," he said, "to see non-discrimination and the upholding of civil rights in an area where for centuries there had been intolerance and discrimination." He added that visitors would not find similar democratic conditions "east of Israel—until you get to India."

FARM EMPLOYMENT DOWN 4 PER CENT FROM YEAR AGO

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that employment on farms at the start of the spring planting season was about 4 per cent smaller than a year ago.

The total number of workers—both family and hired—was reported at 6,628,000 compared with 6,918,000 a year ago and 7,331,000 for the spring time average for the last five years.

This represents largely a continuation of a long-term downward trend in the number of persons working in agriculture. Nevertheless, farm employment increased seasonally in March by 856,000 persons.

Bill to Cut Size of Fort.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The House Interior Committee yesterday approved a bill authorizing the government to restore to the territory of Hawaii 69.9 acres of Fort Armstrong in Honolulu.

New York, April 10—Nancy Berg, a small town girl who took New York by storm with her nightly bedtime stint before the television cameras, has revealed that almost every studio in Hollywood has offered her a contract with no screen test required.

Nancy Berg

In a special picture feature on herself appearing in the current issue of Esquire Magazine, Miss Berg comments, "I'll go there (to Hollywood) when they are on their knees to me."

The Esquire story states that the 24-year-old TV performer arrived in New York in 1951 and set out to take the city by storm. In Miss Berg's own words, "I had made up my mind to become the most expensive model in New York. So I did." May Esquire is now on sale at all newsstands.

ARCTIC 'BUSTED WIDE OPEN' BY DEW LINE MEN

'Russians Must Have Been Shocked to See 126 Ships Go Up
There,' Officer Says.

By CHARLES CORDDRY
YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T., Canada, April 11 (UP)—"We didn't tell the pilots and airmen it was impossible, so they went ahead and did it," said Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, United States Eighteenth Air Force commander.

Capt. R. F. Pryce of the Military Sea Transportation service added: "The Russians must have been shocked to see 126 ships go up there and bust the Arctic wide open."

The task of pouring construction equipment and supplies into the DEW line thus was summarized for reporters leaving New York a few days ago on a tour of the 3000-mile Distant Early Warning radar net at the top of the continent.

The statistics are impressive—128,000 short tons by water, 50,000 by air and 3500 by over-snow sled-train in 1955—and tens of thousands more this year. But they take on real meaning only after one experiences the subzero temperatures and swirling snow, lands on ice strips carved on frozen lakes, witnesses the northland's poverty of navigation and communication aids, and comes to roost at refueling stops like the ones here and at remote Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island.

Only Snow and Ice.

The DEW line construction job has been likened to the building of the Great Wall of China. A little more than a year ago, there was nothing but snow and ice and desolation where hordes of men now work and vehicles move and airplanes drone.

Of all the resources and materials needed, only gravel and water from melted ice (and natural gas in Alaska) were available in this frigid wasteland.

Everything else—tractors, other heavy equipment, food, aviation gas line, diesel oil, recreation facilities, the simplest necessities of life—had to be brought in by air and water transport.

Many sites were opened by four-man teams that went in by small ski-fitted plane and got supplies by parachute drops. Even eight-ton tractors were dropped so they could plow the snow off frozen lakes and form runways for big supply planes.

Airlift Under Way.

Civilian and military planes skimmed over Baffinland's treacherous mountains, northern Canada's flat, foggy terrain and the serrated mountains of Alaska's Brooks range. Except for about 260 Eskimos employed on "the line," all labor forces were brought over vast distances from Canadian, American and overseas points.

The big 1956 airlift is now under way. And the American and Canadian navies are preparing again for the brief August-September period when the Foxe basin west of Baffin Island and the Beaufort sea north of Alaska and the Yukon territory are free enough of ice for navigation. The Army is getting ready its stevedoring teams—3000 men were employed last year—to unload equipment over the rocky beaches.

This year, there is this tremendous advantage: They have been there before.

One of the great unknown quantities last year was the ice landing. There were no air strips on the ground and there was no way to get badly needed 20-ton tractors to DEW line sites but to transport them in C-124 Globemasters.

So snow was cleared from lakes frozen to depths of six feet, old fuel cans were used to mark off runways and the Globe-master came down weighing 168,000 pounds. Several hundred such landings were made. The equipment needed to build gravel runways, roads and perform other earth-moving jobs was delivered.

Lighter weight materials were flown by commercial carriers, in the 1955 period, commercial carriers had 18 accidents with 15 lives lost and the United States Air Force had four with no lives lost.

Nat (King) Cole Attacked By Whites on Alabama Stage

Knocked to Floor While Singing at Birmingham—6 Held, With Charges
Filed Against 4.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11 (AP)—Nat (King) Cole, Negro singer and pianist, was attacked on the stage last night by a group of white men who climbed across the floodlights at Birmingham's municipal auditorium.

An audience of nearly 4000 gasped as the 37-year-old Cole was knocked to the floor while singing. Police, who had been alerted to watch for any indication of trouble, swarmed from the wings to grab three men on the stage. Three others were taken into custody later. Four of the six have been charged with inciting a riot.

Outside the auditorium officers found an automobile containing two .22-caliber rifles, a blackjack and a pair of brass knuckles. Detectives said the car was owned by one of the men. Charged with inciting a riot are Willie Richard Vinson, 23; E. L. Vinson, 25, and Kenneth Adams, 35, all of Anniston, Ala.; and Jesse W. Mabry, 43, Birmingham.

Held for further questioning were Orlist Clevenger, 18, and Mike Fox, 37, both of Anniston. Detectives said the men told officers they intended to seize the microphone and make a speech for segregation.

The attack came in the first of two concerts scheduled under Birmingham's rigid segregation laws. The first performance was for whites only. The second was given before a Negro audience.

The North Alabama White Citizens' Council, one of several such groups, has been trying to stop the playing of "rock and roll" music in juke boxes. Asa Carter, executive secretary of the group, turned up at police headquarters with several other men "to get the details" of last night's attack on Cole. Police refused to talk with him.

Adams is a member of the board of directors of the Anniston Citizens' Council. All those arrested denied that the North Alabama Citizens' Council's campaign against "rock and roll" and "Negro music" had anything to do with their actions.

Cole is not a "rock and roll" singer and included no such music in his concerts last night. He specializes in sweet ballads in an intimate, breathy, and not very robust voice. Citizens' councils other than those affiliated with the Carter group have opposed injecting music or anything else besides schools in their fight against desegregation.

"This thing happened so fast. The spot was in my eye. I didn't see anything," Cole told reporters later. "This fellow lunged up, below the stage, and hit the microphone and it hit me under the chin. I fell over the piano stool, on my back. He didn't have time to say anything before the police got him."

After the attack the audience kept calling for Cole to come back. One man kept yelling, "tell him to come back out so we can apologize for what happened."

Cole returned. The ovation

he got lasted nearly 10 minutes. "The audience was wonderful," he said. "They were trying to tell me in their own way that they do not condone such actions."

In a wavering voice, he told the audience: "I just came here to entertain you. That was what I thought you wanted. I was born in Alabama. Those folks hurt my back. I cannot continue, because I have to go to a doctor." A physician examined him at the auditorium and said he was not hurt physically. Cole later gave a second performance for Negroes. (The United Press said later Cole had canceled three other Southern appearances.) Cole will appear in St. Louis

April 21 at Kiel Auditorium with Ted Heath, British band leader.

Authorities Charge Communists 'Wantonly Launched an Attack.'

SEOUL, April 11 (UP)—United States authorities charged today the Communists "wantonly launched an attack" across the truce line against a South Korean outpost on the "Iron triangle" front before dawn yesterday.

The charge was made in a hastily summoned meeting between United States Lt. Col. Warren B. Van Hook, senior United Nations member of a joint observer team, and his Communist counterpart near the scene of the 40-minute gun fight between "more than five" Communist border crossers and South Korean troops.

An announcement distributed by South Korea's public information office said 70 shots were exchanged in the encounter six miles north of Chonwon. No one was hit.

President Syngman Rhee flew here from his country home at Chinhae today to discuss the incident with cabinet leaders, some of whom were said to fear it marked a renewal of the Communist campaign of border violence that preceded the Red invasion of Korea in 1950.

Reliable sources said South Korean officials fear the Communists will take advantage of Western preoccupation with the strife-torn Middle East to start more trouble here.

The South Korean announcement said:

"At 2 a.m. Tuesday enemy soldiers, estimated at more than five, crossed the armistice line to the south, using flashlights for mutual signals. When they reached 30 meters from the outpost No. 4 of a certain ROK army division they began to open intensive gunfire. When our troops immediately returned fire, the enemy also started shooting from points 30 meters north and south of our post.

"There was sporadic shooting between the enemy and our side from 2:30 a.m. to 3:10 a.m. But there were no casualties on either side. At 4 a.m. enemy soldiers disappeared to the north, taking advantage of moonlight. As of 3 a.m. the enemy had fired 40 rounds of bullets and our side fired 30 rounds. . . . Details of the incident are now under investigation."

RUSSIANS PLAN EXPEDITION TO EXPLORE GREENLAND AREA

MOSCOW, April 11 (AP)—The Soviet Union said yesterday it is sending an expedition to explore an area of the Atlantic ocean near Greenland next summer.

The announcement said the expedition will investigate the Atlantic's East Greenland current and what was called "the little-known area of Hansen's threshold, situated between Spitsbergen and Greenland."

KEFAUVER WINDS UP 5-DAY JERSEY TOUR

Leaves for Washington and Predicts He Will Win Nomination.

NEWARK, N.J., April 11 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee left for Washington early today after a five-day campaign in New Jersey for the state's 36 votes in the Democratic convention.

He said he figured on winning from 16 to 20 of the possible 56 district delegates in next Tuesday's primary here. He predicted he "will go to the convention as front-runner and I will get the nomination."

Kefauver said he would protest to the New Jersey Secretary of State about the inferior ballot positions given his slate of delegates in three counties for the primary.

He told a labor meeting in Irvington last night that "tough politics" caused his slate to get bad positions on the ballot in Middlesex, Union and Hudson counties.

"I figure someone who is interested in seeing that I didn't get a lot of votes fixed the ballots in this way but I am not naming names," Kefauver said. The Senator concluded what he termed a successful tour through Hudson county earlier in the day and then delivered talks in Perth Amboy, Freehold, Sayreville and Irvington. He flies back to the state Sunday for a one-day round of appearances again in South Jersey.

He has a total slate of 72 district and at-large delegates pledged to him in the primary. The regular Democratic organization is running an unpledged slate of 72, led by Gov. Robert B. Meyner. Each delegate will have half a vote at the August convention in Chicago.

Moscow Talks to Antarctic. LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Members of Russia's expedition to the Antarctic talked by telephone Monday night with their friends at home, the Moscow radio reported yesterday. The broadcast said the talks marked the start of regular radio-telephone communication.

Tucker Calls on Business Men To Back Citizens Charter Slate

Mayor, in Speech, Urges Support of 13 Freeholder Candidates Selected by Committee.

St. Louis members of the Wellston Chamber of Commerce were urged by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker last night to support the 13 persons selected by the Citizens' Charter Committee for election to a Board of Freeholders which will consider revising the present city charter.

"An awakened and vigorous St. Louis has recently come into its own," the Mayor said. "Its progress is the envy of every other city in the nation. We are clearing our slums. We are financially sound. A great public improvement program is under way, but we cannot stop now. One more big job must be done—the job of modernizing our antiquated, 42-year-old city charter."

Speaking before the annual banquet of the business organization at Norwood Hills Country Club, Mayor Tucker said a new charter was needed to bring greater efficiency to the municipal government and "to make sure you get more from your tax dollar."

"An Excellent Job," it is important, he added, to elect intelligent, unselfish and unbiased persons to work on the new document. The citizens' committee came into being for that purpose, he stated, and has done "an excellent job" of screening candidates for freeholders.

The Mayor said that he intended to support each of the 13 selections of the citizens' committee and to work for their election. He urged the members of the organization to assist also.

"It is as important to select sound and intelligent freeholders to work on the charter as it is to obtain a good charter," he asserted. "Without good freeholders, you will not have a good charter."

The Mayor blamed the Legislature for lack of interest in off-street parking problems in Wellston and other areas.

"As the result of the Legislature's inaction and apparent lack of interest, you are required to struggle along under the yoke of archaic rules and regulations which have been lifted from the back of every other city in Missouri but St. Louis," he declared.

Raps St. Louis Members. He said the new spirit of St. Louis apparently had not permeated members of the Legislature.

"If our St. Louis members of the Legislature were solidly behind progress in St. Louis, you would have off-street parking, and, as a result, St. Louis would be a more prosperous and progressive city."

Due to parking deficiencies, business in neighborhood shopping areas is being diverted to other sections, mainly outside of St. Louis," he stated. "Accelerated deterioration of business activity in any area simply means a loss in property values and the general downgrading of the neighborhood."

He said the city administration would introduce bills in the next session of the Legislature to obtain the necessary authority to embark on an efficient program for constructing off-street parking facilities. He asked the group for assistance in carrying this campaign through the legislative session.

ARMS PARLEY SAID TO BE NEAR IMPASSE

Russia Fails So Far to Reply to Western Proposals.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

LONDON, April 11.—The United Nations disarmament conference here was reported today to be in danger of stalling should there be no early Soviet move to meet Western ideas for arms cuts.

The five-nation disarmament subcommittee which resumed its work March 19, is now in its third week of meetings. So far, the United States, Russia and Britain and France have submitted specific disarmament proposals. Canada, the fifth member, has offered no suggestions.

Yesterday's session, the shortest so far, passed without the awaited Soviet replies to United States suggestions for "confidence-building" gestures. These would include "test" disarmament control areas in the United States and the Soviet Union, the exchange of information on troop movements, and the exchange of technical missions.

Andrei A. Gromyko, chief Soviet delegate, was reported by conference sources to have made no allusion to any of the United States ideas submitted to date, either the "confidence" gestures or the more substantial American plan for a "first phase" of world disarmament.

This would invoke international controls, cuts in conventional arms, and eventual diversion of fissionable production from nuclear weapons to peaceful uses.

"We are at the stage now where the U.S.S.R. must move if we are to get results at this session," a Western source said. He stressed that serious basic differences remained between the West and the Soviet Union over disarmament.

WOLF BELIEVED TO BE STALKING HAY-LIFT HORSE

GUNNISON, Colo., April 11 (UP)—A timber wolf was believed today to be stalking Elijah, a horse stranded by winter snows high in the Rocky Mountains.

Gordon Warren, the flyer who is keeping Elijah alive with air drops of hay and oats, reported yesterday he saw two wolves closing in on Elijah when he made a delivery of fodder to the windswept ridge between Mount Harvard and Mount Yale on which the shaggy pack animal is trapped.

Warren said the wolves were within 25 feet of Elijah, crouched in a snow bank, when he flew over. He said he got low enough to kill one of the wolves with a shotgun blast. The other wolf fled to the cover of rocks.

Officers at Camp Hale, Colo., where the Army's cold weather training command is situated, were still trying to determine whether it would be feasible to send a detachment of mountain troops to Elijah's rescue. Mounts Harvard and Yale tower above 14,000 feet. The horse has been seen since mid-February on a barren saddle, about the size of a city block, between the peaks.

JOCKEY IS $32,000 WINNER IN TV QUIZ ABOUT ART

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Free-lance jockey Bill Pearson has won a $32,000 television quiz show purse by answering questions in a "great art and artists" category. He can try for the grand prize next Tuesday night on the CBS show, "The $64,000 Question."

The jockey from Pasadena, Calif., last night was handed a sealed envelope containing reproductions of five paintings from the collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York. He was asked to identify each painting by title and artist, and to give the century in which the artist was born.

Pearson gave these answers: "View of Toledo," by El Greco, sixteenth century; "The Gulf Stream," by Winslow Homer, nineteenth century; "In a Boat," by Edouard Manet, nineteenth century; "Grand Canal, Venice," by Turner, eighteenth century, and "Moxettin," by Watteau, seventeenth century.

PANEL FAVORS JAIL FOR DRUNK DRIVERS

Sentencing of First-Offenders Viewed as One Possible Solution.

Jail sentences for first-offense drunken drivers were favored in a show of hands yesterday by members of a traffic panel and their audience at the Central States Safety Conference at Hotel Chase.

The question was posed by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd as a possible solution to the intoxicated driver problem. Others on the panel were Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell, Col. Hugh Waggoner, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, Police Judge Morris Rosenthal and Kansas City Judge Earl W. Frost. Moderator was Louis H. Antoine, chairman of the traffic safety division of St. Louis Safety Council.

Chief O'Connell spoke against jailing of first-offenders on driving when intoxicated convictions. He said that offense should not be singled out to require such a penalty for first-time violators. Judges Dowd and Rosenthal pointed out that this violation was not in the same class with the "38 mile per hour speeder," and should carry stronger punishment because of its more serious nature.

More stringent measures of combating drunkenness on the streets and highways were generally urged by all panel members. Because it is not compulsory that drivers submit to a chemical test, the blood-alcohol or intoximeter tests for drunkenness, evidence is not strong enough to convict many charged.

Col. Waggoner advocated the chemical test be made compulsory. By law a person is considered intoxicated if the alcohol content of his blood is .15 per cent or more.

Judge Frost's contention that police judges should be vested with the same powers to impose driver's license suspensions as magistrate judges, was agreed to by the two St. Louis police judges.

Police judges can suspend a person's license when he is convicted of driving when intoxicated, causing property damage or personal injury, or if he is a habitual violator. This suspension extends only to the corporate limits of that particular city, which means he can drive in any other part of the state.

The three-day Central States Safety Conference will continue through Thursday. It is in cooperation with the Safety Council of Greater St. Louis and is being presided over by B. H. Sweeney, president of the Safety Council. The sessions are being devoted to every phase of the accident prevention problem.

Thirty-six exhibits of safety equipment of all kinds are on display as well as a safety instruction bus which can be used by the public to test knowledge of subjects vital to safe driving.

Scheduled today are sessions on traffic safety, home safety, general industrial safety, safety programs for small plants and fire prevention.

California Will Back Any Ticket President Is For, Says Knight

No Commitment for Nixon in Discussion of Politics During Stopover at Lambert Field.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California said here today the California delegation to the Republican national convention will support any vice presidential candidate President Eisenhower wants as his running mate.

The President, Knight added, should have a free hand in selecting the man to run on the Republican ticket with him in November, and all Republicans should support that choice.

The heavy-set California Governor, accompanied by his wife, had a one and one-half hour stop-over at Lambert-St. Louis Field between planes today, en route to Oklahoma City, where he will address a Republican Lincoln Day dinner tonight.

Knight, who has been regarded as politically cool toward Vice President Richard Nixon of his home state, declined to express a preference among potential Republican candidates for the vice presidency. He insisted the choice should be up to Mr. Eisenhower.

Pointing out that the President "has had some nice things to say about Mr. Nixon," Knight said that when Mr. Eisenhower decides who his running mate should be that man will be accepted by the Republican convention.

Discounts Withdrawal Talks. Knight, who was mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility before Mr. Eisenhower announced for his second term, ridiculed a statement here yesterday by Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee that the President may drop out of the race.

"I fully expect the President to run, and he will be re-elected," the Californian said. "Of course, the Republicans must carry on an all-out campaign this fall, regardless of who the Democratic nominee may be."

Gov. Knight and his wife arrived from New York, where he spoke to the National Immigration Association. He said he had been scheduled to address the Oklahoma City Republican dinner last February, but the engagement had to be canceled because of illness at the time. He said he was now going to Oklahoma to fill that "delayed" speaking engagement.

Noting the clear skies, he said: "This is a nice day to come to St. Louis—it's just like California."

POLICY IN CONFINING JUVENILES REVISED

Move to Avoid Sending Mentally, Physically Defectives to Missouri Hills.

Efforts will be made to place mentally and physically defective boys in institutions other than Missouri Hills, the city's correctional home, Circuit Judge David J. Murphy, judge of the juvenile court, said today, following a conference yesterday with a committee of the Board of Children's Guardians.

Judge Murphy said he would talk to officials of St. Louis State Training School, the state institution for children with mental and physical defects, to see if any additional boys could be housed there. He pointed out, however, that the school already was overcrowded.

He said he had agreed with the board committee not to commit boys to Missouri Hills who have epilepsy or severe emotional disturbances, as well as those with mental or physical handicaps. Officers of the board have said they want to keep only normal boys at Missouri Hills to maintain a more homogeneous group with which rehabilitation work will be more successful.

It also was agreed, the judge said, that Missouri Hills' capacity of 140 boys will not be exceeded and that additional boys will be committed there only as vacancies occur. Board members said the institution could accept about 15 new boys each month, he added.

Discussing the problem of where boys with defects can be placed, Judge Murphy said that City Hospital was in no position to accept the children, and that they could not be kept in detention at the Children's Building.

Missouri Hills, on Bellefontaine road in north St. Louis county, is for boys between the ages of 12 and 16 years, and is operated by the Board of Children's Guardians.

AUTO KILLS WOMAN CROSSING STREET

Police Quote Driver as Saying Moisture on Glass Obscured Stop Sign.

Mrs. Theresa Lewis, 4650 St. Louis avenue, was killed last night when struck by an automobile as she was walking across St. Louis avenue east of Sarah street. Mrs. Lewis, a Negro, was 44 years old and worked as a cook.

The driver, Kent R. Floyd, of the 4700 block of Highland avenue, was quoted by police as saying he did not see a stop sign at Sarah because of windshield moisture caused by rain. He estimated his speed at 25 to 30 miles an hour. Two passengers were with him.

Four persons were injured in an auto collision early today at St. Louis and Elliott avenues. The two drivers, Mrs. Alvera Greer, 2203 Montgomery street, and Lonnie Mitchell, 3106 Evans avenue, were thrown out of their machines and suffered head injuries.

Two persons with Mitchell also suffered head injuries. They are Birl Harris, 3027 Magazine street, and Donald Johnson, 3131 Brantner place. All three occupants of Mitchell's car are Negroes.

Mrs. Greer was taken to City Hospital and the others were taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

INUNCTION ON PICKETING SOUGHT BY TRACTOR FIRM

Suit to enjoin Local 682 of the Teamsters' Union from picketing John Fabrik Tractor Co., 3100 Gravois avenue, was filed in circuit court yesterday.

The company's petition said that six employees had been notified their services were being terminated because the firm intended to discontinue the heavy hauling phase of its operations. Local 682 demanded the right to represent these men, although they are members of another local, the company contended.

Elmer A. Walla, president of Local 682, insisted that the men belong to his union.

The plant has been picketed for two days. A hearing on a temporary injunction is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the court of Judge Waldo C. Mayfield.

STOCKS REGAIN GOOD PART OF SHARP LOSS

Recovery From Previous Day's Setback Extends 1 to Around 3 Points in Divisions

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Stocks made a good advance today in a market that was only moderately active. Losses usually were no greater than a point.

Gains were well distributed throughout major divisions, and they cut into the severe losses that were suffered yesterday when the market took its heaviest fall in some six months.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 3 1/2 to $189. Yesterday it lost $2.60. The industrial component was up $1.70, rails were ahead 80c, and utilities gained 10c.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 2.66 points higher at 512.70 at the close. The 20 rails gained 1.22 at 169.78, while the 15 utilities lost .14 at 65.54.

There were 1180 individual issues, well under the 1231 issues traded yesterday, with 612 stocks up and 350 down. Forty issues hit new highs while 57 touched new lows.

Volume amounted to only 2,400,000 shares as compared with 2,590,000 shares traded yesterday.

The attention of buyers was focused on the aircrafts, oils, steels, coppers and aluminum. There also was a fair advance in the railroads, motors, chemicals, airlines, motion pictures and utilities.

Farm implements, faced with production cutbacks, were quietly lower by small amounts.

Lukens Steel, off yesterday, jumped ahead today between 3 and 4 points after directors increased their extra dividend. Also higher were Santa Fe Railroad, Cities Service, Eastern Air Lines, 20th Century Fox, Studebaker-Packard, North American Aviation, General Dynamics, and Long-Bell Lumber.

The market yesterday suffered under the weight of a number of factors. Foremost was the fact that the market has been going up strongly since mid-February without pausing to consolidate its gains. Such a pause, brokers felt, was long overdue.

SEC TO SEE IF SIZE OF INVESTMENT FIRMS HURT PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission announced yesterday it is going to study investment companies to determine whether they have grown so large that their size represents a public problem.

The study will be made under a never before used provision of the Investment Company Act of 1940 authorizing the SEC to study investment companies, and report to Congress at any time when the commission deems that.

"Any substantial further increase in size of investment companies creates a public problem involving the protection of investors or the public interest."

The law authorized the commission to investigate the effects of size on the investment policy of investment companies and on securities markets, on concentration of control of wealth and industry, and on companies in which investment companies are interested.

76 U.S. TARGETS TO BE 'BOMBED' IN TEST JULY 20

Week-Long 'Operation Alert 1956' Again Will Include President, Key Officials.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, April 11 — Seventy-six United States targets will be "hit" with nuclear weapons equivalent to millions of tons of TNT on July 20 in "Operation Alert 1956," a new week-long civil defense test, the government announced yesterday.

The test will presume a situation wherein enemy bombers have penetrated defenses and are able to drop atomic and hydrogen bombs on both coasts, far inland, and on Alaska, Hawaii, Panama and Puerto Rico. Outlying possessions such as Panama will be presumed to have no warning; other cities, including New York, Chicago and San Francisco, may get from ten minutes to three hours warning, the Office of Defense Mobilization said in announcing some details of the exercise.

More details will be released in two weeks, giving the theoretical number of casualties in each area "hit," as was done last year in the first nationwide test in which key government personnel, including President Eisenhower, left the Capital for secret headquarters.

This will be done again this year, including establishment of a secret "emergency press headquarters" into which reports from all over the "bombed" nation will be channeled. This headquarters, according to present plans, will not be in the same place as last year, and strenuous efforts will be made to keep its location from "leaking" into print, as occurred last year.

Radio-active "fallout" will be added to fire-fighting, medical and evacuation problems in this year's exercise, designed as a more comprehensive test in most respects than that of last year, when 59 cities were laid in theoretical ruins, with casualties, dead and injured, at more than 10,000,000.

Whether mass evacuation will be undertaken as part of this year's exercise will be a matter for state and local, rather than national, decision, with the "fallout" factor adding to the difficulty of decision in making it.

Sixty-three population centers, nine air bases and four Atomic Energy Commission installations will be assumed hit. Bombs will range from equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT to five megatons, or 5,000,000 tons of TNT.

MAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF HARBORING DESERTER

The arrest of Leslie Frank Mayo, a salesman, at his home, 6112 Gambleton place, on charges of harboring a deserter from the United States Air Force was announced today by J. E. Milnes, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in St. Louis.

Miss Elvira Fellner, United States Commissioner at East St. Louis, said she issued the warrant for Mayo's arrest on a complaint filed by an FBI agent at Belleville.

Commissioner Fellner said the warrant charged Mayo with "enticing and procuring" Airman Elbert Leon Jones to desert the Air Force.

BRITAIN SENDING A FEW TRACTORS TO RED CHINA

LONDON, April 11 (UP)—Britain is sending "a limited number" of tractors to Red China in a move that may help get them removed from the West's embargoed list of strategic goods, government sources said today.

Tractors are on the government's embargo list, but a spokesman for the Board of Trade said today that exceptions to the list can be made from time to time. He said licenses have been issued to export the tractors, all to be used for agriculture.

Informed sources said the government has been under pressure recently to remove tractors from the embargo list and that the pressure came from tractor factories with workers on part time.

GOVERNMENT SCHOLARSHIPS URGED TO HELP TRAIN PILOTS

Advantages of a Government-sponsored scholarship program to alleviate shortages of military pilot trainees and maintenance personnel, were cited here last night by Charles A. Parker of Washington, D.C., executive director of the National Aviation

Trades Association. Parker suggested that flight training be offered in connection with Reserved Officer Training Corps program in schools and colleges. He said experience with light planes would give students a background in flying now lacking by most men who sign up to become military pilots. Speaking at a meeting of the Greater St. Louis chapter of the National Aeronautic Association, Parker said a Government flying program might also help operators of flying and repair facilities at airports. Such operators, he said, have been having a difficult time since the end of the G.I. Bill of Rights program. The meeting was at the Raleigh House, 8027 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton.

The appointment will become effective next Sept. 1, John J. Lang, who has been part-time director of the department since 1928, will become director emeritus and will continue to teach as the Gustave K. Klausner Research Professor of Accounting.

HOOVER FAVORS CABINET VOICE ON AILING PRESIDENT

Would Maintain Party Responsibility When Chief Executive Is Incapacitated.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover told Congress today the Cabinet should determine whether a President is so incapacitated that the Vice President should take over temporarily.

In a telegram to a House Judiciary subcommittee, Hoover said such an arrangement would maintain the responsibility in Government of the party to which an ailing President belongs.

The subcommittee is considering various proposals to cover the situation that would be created if a President became too ill to carry out his functions, or otherwise incapacitated but still had not died or resigned. The Constitution does not spell out procedure in such cases, and in the past no Vice President has ever taken over temporarily.

Unable to Attend.

Hoover was invited to testify but sent word he was unable to attend because of a cold. He telegraphed a summary of his views. The only other living former President, Harry S. Truman, also was invited to testify, but committee aids said he replied that he would not be able to do so. In Hoover's absence the subcommittee heard from members of Congress.

Senator Frederick G. Payne (Rep., Maine), author of one of the bills before the subcommittee, urged in a letter that Congress give the Vice President a definite mandate to act—but not to take over the title of President—if the Chief Executive is unable to function.

Under Payne's plan, if the President himself was not able to notify Congress of his own incapacity, the Vice President could raise the question and a recommendation would be made by a panel of physicians picked by the Chief Justice.

Hoover's Three Reasons.

Hoover said there are three reasons why the Cabinet should be the agency to determine whether a Vice President should take over:

1. It would be in intimate contact with the President.
2. It would be able to appraise the general situation and determine whether there was "any emergency which requires any action beyond the President's abilities."
3. "Ours is a Government based on two political parties and is elected with responsibility to carry out definite policies and promises. If the determination of inability or the selection of anyone except the Vice President to act for the President were in the hands of the Congress it could, in case of a congressional majority of the opposing party result in nullification of the will of the people."

Prefers Cabinet Succession.

Hoover said the possibility of both the President and Vice President becoming incapacitated appears rather remote. He added, however, that if it is considered necessary to provide for continuing the President's party in power in such circumstances, this could be done by going back to the system of having members of the Cabinet, rather than the Speaker of the House and President pro tempore of the Senate in line of presidential succession.

Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, suggested to the subcommittee that in addition to temporary presidential inability it might consider the need for reorganizing the whole government in case of disaster.

He said lack of a plan for such reorganization presents "an alarming situation" because in the present world, "there are countless situations which might arise to impair the continued functioning of our governments." He made no specific recommendation for machinery for temporary succession.

Flashes of Life

Gate Crasher.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Deputies say Mrs. Cecelia Tomp walked into the new Firestone sheriff's station—right through a plate glass window. Apparently, in her excitement, they said, she didn't realize she was walking into the large window at the front of the lobby.

SQUIRREL ABOUT TO BE MOTHER WON'T LEAVE BOX

A squirrel, which Humane Society officers said is about to become a mother, today had its maternity ward all picked out. It was in a box at a sporting goods store at 3197 South Grand boulevard.

Employees ejected the squirrel, but it returned to the box. Finally it was taken to the society's shelter, 1210 Mack-lind avenue.

George Stricklin, an officer of the society, said the squirrel nestled in a Stan Musial baseball glove beside a baseball and refused to budge. So he took the squirrel, box, ball and glove to the shelter.

When the animal would not leave the box, it was transferred box and all to a kennel. Miss Shirley Sells, kennel superintendent, said it is fed in the box and complacently awaits the arrival of its young.

TURKISH PREMIER SAYS OPPONENTS PLOT REVOLUTION

GAZIANTEP, Turkey, April 11 (AP)—Premier Menderes last night accused his political opponents and the Turkish press of "preparing revolution in the country."

He threatened to take stern action against both, even if it requires adoption of special laws.

Menderes made the accusation and threat in a speech at this south Anatolian city.

It was the strongest, most bitter of a series the Premier has made in recent days in various parts of the country.

Menderes' anger was aroused by numerous public attacks recently by opposition politicians and by newspaper editorials.

Most center on Turkey's difficult economic situation, marked by inflation, rising prices and shortage of foreign exchange.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, April 11 — Hartley B. Comfort, president of the Comfort Printing & Stationery Co. in St. Louis yesterday was called an "irresponsible obstructionist" who is largely responsible for a congressional move to block Air Force plans to build a jet fighter base at Kalkaska, Mich.

Knox (Rep.) Michigan, as the House prepared to vote today on the location of the proposed base. The House Armed Services Committee has recommended Kalkaska.

Knox said Comfort, "with little regard for our national security, has undertaken methods of deceit and questionable influence in his selfish endeavors to maintain his summer-time peace and tranquility."

Comfort has been one of the leaders of Kalkaska summer residents fighting the location of the base at Kalkaska.

POLICE PRESSURE ON PICKET LINE

Linked line of policemen putting on the pressure to hold back pickets who were trying to halt the loading of a truck at Macy's department store in Herald square, New York, yesterday. Hundreds of pickets surrounded the store after strike was called by a union representing most of the store's 8000 employees. The union's contract expired April 1, and a new agreement could not be reached. Business slowed to a trickle yesterday as supervisory and office personnel manned the counters. Scuffles on the picket line were kept to a minimum by police.

A Mystic Realm

Ghosts for Rent
On Bahamas Island

By Hal Boyle

ANDROS TOWN, the Bahamas,
April 11 (AP).

IF THERE is someone in your life you want haunted, this is the place to bring him to get the job done. You can rent a boat here and enjoy some of the world's finest bonefishing. But if you choose to dabble in a little black magic, you can also rent a ghost by the week or month—or even buy one outright, if you prefer.

Andros, the largest island in the Bahamas, is a mystic realm reportedly inhabited by the spooks of pirates and several kinds of eerie beasts known nowhere else on earth. Clear creek is a salty stream that now divides the old and new worlds of Andros.

On one side lies Andros Town, a multi-million-dollar development by Dr. Axel Wenner-Gren, the Swedish financier. Its luxurious villas, yacht club and lighthouse club have become a new sport playground for well-to-do sportsmen and sun-seekers from three continents. You couldn't find a pleasanter place to fish for a marlin or pick up a quick tan.

HAL BOYLE

ACROSS CLEAR CREEK is Coakley Town, where the natives live. They are descendants of African slaves and Seminole Indians, and many still hold to a local form of voodoo they have developed over the centuries.

They dislike walking by the deeply timbered groves after dusk. They feel the forests are the homes of the chickcharnie and the yahoo, strange, half-human, half-animal creatures with magic powers to work ill or harm.

The chickcharnies are knee-high, have big ears and huge, owl eyes. Birdlike, they build nests in the juncture of three tall trees that touch at the top.

They inflict a lifelong curse on anyone who molests their eyries.

Legend has it that all the misfortune that befell the late British Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, was the work of the chickcharnies.

The story is that Chamberlain, as a young man, came across a chickcharnie nest while clearing ground for a sisal plantation here. When native workmen fled in terror at his order to tear down the home of the aerial elves, Chamberlain chopped down the trees himself.

Elderly leaders still blame Chamberlain's failure at Munich on the chickcharnie curse, and say Britain never would have won the war if he hadn't been succeeded by Churchill.

YOU COULD NEVER MISTAKE a chickcharnie for a yahoo. Yahoos are tall creatures with red-rimmed eyes and three fingers and they have their feet on backwards. They dwell in the bush.

If you are going through the bush and suddenly confront a yahoo, the safest thing to do is to hold up your hand in a form of the Boy Scout salute—with three fingers upright and the thumb holding the little finger down.

Presumably the yahoo, seeing your three fingers, will figure you are a member of his lodge, and go on about his business.

"It is a mistake to joke with the natives about these things," said Ray Camp, former rod and gun editor of the New York Times, who now manages the Wenner-Gren properties. "They take them very seriously."

A LEADING CITIZEN of Coakley Town is Constable Boyd, a venerable native beagle of the law. One reason he finds it easy to maintain peace is that, for more than a generation, he has held the ghost concession. It's a monopoly. Who wants to cross a man that has every ghost on Andros Island at his beck and call?

Constable Boyd never questions why anyone wants to buy or rent a ghost. That is up to the customer. You can buy a ghost for $23 (the rental fee is a matter for bargaining), but there is one disadvantage. The ghost won't go with you if you leave the island. He prefers his old haunts.

But Constable Boyd guarantees the dependability of his spectral merchandise.

"After all," he says, his ancient face a mask of wrinkled solemnity, "I know these ghosts when they were alive."

I MET ONE YOUNG LADY, who lives here part of the year, who rented a ghost for two weeks and said he had worked out very satisfactorily.

When I asked what task she had set the ghost, she blushed and said, "I'd rather not go into that."

Later one of her friends laughed and said: "Well, it was while that ghost was working for her that she finally got her boy friend to pop the question."

If that is true, there must be a lot of leap year lassies back home who'd pay a pretty penny if Constable Boyd could find a way to induce his stable of ghosts to take a trip to America with him.

Shirt Dress Gets Top Fashion Billing

The fashions illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call MAin 1-1111, Station 186, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

By Sylvia Stiles

THE shirt dress, descendant of the shirtwaist mode that flourished during the Gibson Girl era and has returned to popularity at intervals of several years during the present century, gets top billing among the headlines for late spring and summer. Many of these dresses are of the unbelted or "tent" style, the wearer girding her waistline to suit her own figure. An advantage of this feature is not only the assurance of better fitting but easy laundering. Most of the models on display in the store are washable. Cotton, dacron and silk are materials seen most often. Shirting stripes, checks, dots and solid colors are sharing honors. Illustrated are featured models.

1—A polished cotton in a tiny crossbarred pattern was used for this Haymaker dress that hangs straight from the deep shoulder, the generous pleats being arranged and held in place at the waistline to please the wearer. The three-quarter length sleeves are finished with starched white cuffs banded with a solid color and fastened with cuff links. Boyish shirt collar also is of white trimmed with color. Combinations include brown and white and red and white. Dress is available in misses sizes.

2—Pure silk taffeta that is very sheer in weight and soft in texture was used for this shirtwaist dress in navy blue dotted with white. Bodice has sleeves cut in the same piece with the body. They are three-quarter length. Keyhole neckline has a casual collar and a string tie. Skirt pleats are pressed down firmly to hip length, then released for modified fullness. Dress buttons from neckline to hemline at the center front.

3—Striped cotton in an allance of pink, blue or yellow with white is the fabric of which this very feminine version of the shirt dress is made. The front has a vestee effect of white broadcloth trimmed with eyelet embroidery ruffles. Shirt collar, short sleeves, and skirt that has unpressed pleats are other features.

4—Checked silk is attractive for a shirt dress with push-up sleeves and a tailored collar. Dress is cut away at the front of the neckline and fastens with rhinestone buttons. Skirt has unpressed pleats. A similar dress made of dacron is available. Both models suggest the addition of cardigan sweaters as do the majority of the shirt dresses on display.

5—A damask patterned cotton in pastel shades with white is the striking material of this dress which utilizes the fabric on the bias for blouse and large patch pocket of the skirt. Blouse has a tucked front and shirt collar. Dress buttons to the hemline with white pearl buttons.

6—Satin striped cotton combining pink and white looks youthful and flattering in the design of this dress which has a plastron effect in its unusual yoke. The little standing collar has a white pique turnover. Raglan shoulder line adds to the comfortable appearance of the dress. Skirt is gathered.

Communism---A Monster With 11 Heads

By Fulton J. Sheen

WHEN life is normal, a child is born with one head. It is conceivable that in the grossest kind of abnormality a child may be born with two heads. But nothing could more properly assure the demise of a new life than for a child to be born with 11 heads.

Fulton J. Sheen

Communism, when it is normal, has one head. This is the "dictatorship over the proletariat." This head at one time was Lenin; at another time, Stalin, and, very briefly, Malenkov. This was normal not only for Russian history, for in their national traditions they were used to having only one Czar to rule them.

Now Communism has 11 heads; some are a little bigger than others—such as Khrushchev and Bulganin, but it is certain that however big the giant of Communism may be, it cannot continue living with 11 heads. Its death sentence is already written, though it has not been published nor have the grave stones been erected. No gang can survive collective leadership; eventually there will be one gangster who shoots his way to the top.

LENIN climbed to leadership on a stairway of corpses; Stalin bombed his way to a proletarian throne. Shall Communism now, turning its back upon its own philosophy which demands a dictator—not dictators—escape the law of the monsters of the deep who prey on one another?

There is the psychological fact that personal leadership is closer to the masses of the people than is collective leadership. Personal leadership concretizes and symbolizes authority as a whole. People find it easier to love a person than to love a cabinet, even though it be called a presidium.

It has always been a characteristic of Russian leadership to be isolated from the people; perhaps no country in the world has ever had a greater curtain erected between czar or dictator and people, than Russia. But collective leadership intensifies this difference and isolates the leadership more than ever from the masses.

The collective leaders must now spy and watch on one another, instead of watching the masses. They must now be to one another what the so-called Soviet "guides" for American travelers to Russia are, namely, police agents. Suspicion among the leaders is intensified because of the fear that any one of them may happen to win the people and thus increase his prestige to the detriment of the rest.

THE ESSENCE of Communism is collective property. Recently the concessions made to collective farmers to have little gardens of their own have been taken away. The more collective the property in the original scheme of Communism, the less collective the authority.

When Lenin died, he asked that Stalin be named as his successor because he was "crude, rude and insupportable." But note that Lenin envisaged one leader. Lenin knew very well that the more collective the economics, the less collective must be the authority at the top. As soon as a family recognizes collective authority, every child begins to want his own share—and that is the end of "family property."

Finally, how can the satellite countries develop a love for the Soviets if the authority is not personal? In the past Stalin meant Communism to them, but 11 Communists do not mean Communism. Yugoslavia knows Tito; China knows its Mao—but who stands for equivalent leadership and dictatorship among the Soviets? Nobody.

This monster with 11 heads will not long survive. If 10 of them are amputated, the monster will perish. But who will amputate? That will be interesting!

They'll Do It Every Time

Insulation Idea If the sidewalls of your home are not insulated it will help if you seal off the wall cavity opening. This can often be done in the attic and the basement. Once the stud is closed off, the air in the wall won't move as much as before and will have some value as insulation. Wood or wads of insulation can be used to close off the openings.

Don't Grasp Time

By Josephine Lowman

IT'S odd about time! If you try to hold onto it too avidly you lose it. If joyous moments are shadowed by thoughts of parting and times of triumph are stalked by fears of the future, you have nothing at all!

Many of life's most precious gifts disappear as snow before the sun when they come in contact with possessiveness. If we make happiness our one aim in life it somehow becomes elusive. We seldom find it where we look for it anyway. It seems to appear, uncalled for, as a by-product of constructive and enthusiastic living. Make it your goal and you may travel the whole

LOVE IS the same way. No emotion so rapidly withers as the poisonous touch of possessiveness. One cannot demand love or hold it by sheer wishing. It is a free, spontaneous emotion.

It is impossible shortsighted to live for the moment alone, to make short-range choices which will lead to future frustration and unhappiness. The realization, however, that life is uncertain and tenuous and that it owes us nothing at all, the understanding that every year we have, every month, every hour, is so much possession and so much velvet, will make us live more vibrantly during the time which is ours.

DURING DIFFICULT TIMES it might be especially helpful to look at life in this way. We have no lease on it. We cannot demand so much time or so much happiness.

Why then, beat our heads against the unchangeable? Why not take life as it comes, piece by piece, hour by hour, moment by moment?

Anyway, if we hold onto time and love and happiness too tightly we have nothing because each moment, as it passes, is spoiled by the over-all apprehensive picture.

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

FIRST-NIGHTS: The Reviewers' report on "A Month in the Country" (a comedy by Turgenev) at the Phoenix Theater agreed that it made a happy evening. They serenaded one and all with typewriter music. Michael Redgrave's direction, Emyln Williams's adaptation and the superior playing by Uta Hagen, Luther Adler and Mary Morris... Mr. Atkinson blessed it as "a charming play."... The only other challenger, "Affair of Honor," came to the Barrymore Friday evening. The critics honorably acquitted the star, Dennis King... Variety's Detroit Sentinel appraised "The Lovers"... He mourned that the new drama promises more than it delivers... The same journal's Cleveland correspondent described H. Belafonte's new show, "Sing, Man, Sing," as "a fairly beguiling porridge of folksy song and dance diversion."... From Washington, where veteran comedian Bobby Clark joined the national troupe of "Damn Yankees," the news was sugary for the star... The Ringling Freres' circus returned to the Garden for its traditional joyous reunion... Only eight new attractions are listed before the season's final grasp. Three of them, the experts report, have a good chance to be hit musicals... The Philly critics gave "Strip for Action" a unanimous so-so.

WALTER WINCHELL

THE CINEMAGIANS: Jane Wyman in "Miracle in the Rain" in which she suffers gracefully. The sighing-set will probably appreciate it most. Not all the official inspectors did... "Uranium Boom" unveils a conventional up-and-atom melodrama... "The Ballet of Romeo & Juliet" submits Moscow's ballet stars. They spin as swiftly as Stalin in his tomb... "The Man Who Never Was" is a suspenseful story, in which British Intelligence Agents out-fox the devilish Nazi rotters. Clifton Webb makes the most of his stiff-uphill assignment... Jimmy Cagney, one of the pioneer inventors of the tough-guy on the screen, is back with "Tribute to a Bad Man." Mr. Cagney is entertaining.

STAIRWAY TO THE STARS: Liberace plans more films despite the "Sincerely Yours" fiasco. Reminds you that he wasn't a success on TV, at the beginning, either... Celeste Holm, impatient to join B-way notables in another hit, has read and rejected 75 plays to date. (Fussy, isn't she?)... Johnny Puleo, the unluckiest harmonica member of the Borrah Minneville Rascals, is an Academy Award threat, according to previewers of "Trapeze." They would have you believe he thefts the picture (with his histrionics) from Gina and Lancaster... The Mitchell Talbot you'll be seeing in the movies was Mike Mason in the "Fanny" male ensemble... Greta Thyssen, "Miss Denmark" in the "Miss Universe" Beauty Contest, plays a magazine cover eeyopoper in "Bus Stop," starring Marilyn Monroe. Greta's a very pretty person—with a figure most girls would envy.

THE QUOTOGRAVURE: Wilson Mizner: There's something about a closet that makes a skeleton terribly restless... S. Leacock: The harder people work the more luck they have... B. Russell: Drunkenness is temporary suicide... Erskine Caldwell: A dog is the only true love money can buy... Broadway Confucius: Fortune knocks only once. Misfortune has more patience... H. Jameson: The difference between you and other people is that their money looks bigger and their troubles smaller.

'How Much Time?'

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

"DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: My husband had an attack of coronary thrombosis three months ago at the age of 51. Even though there has been much informative publicity lately on the disease because of the President's attack, you can understand why I hunger for more information.

DR. PETER STEINCROHN

"I am not especially interested in the treatment. I leave that to our doctor, in whom we have complete confidence. The future is what I am especially interested in. We have been reading a lot lately about fewer patients dying in the first attack than used to 25 years ago.

"But what happens after that? Is the outlook for longer life better than it was previously? When something like this happens to a husband, the wife lives from hour to hour in a state of anxiety. In spite of better reports about coronary disease, I wonder if much of it isn't polyanthian in nature. Are you doctors practicing humanity? Are you just trying to make the best of a bad thing by at least keeping up our spirits? You don't know how thankful I shall be for your reply.—Mrs. A.T.A."

YOUR ANXIETY is understandable. With an apparently unpredictable disease hanging over your heads, you would be silly to deny your fears. It is true that coronary disease is still a menace. In spite of newer diagnostic and therapeutic measures, we are often helpless in treating patients with overwhelming attacks. Nevertheless, we are not being polyanthian when we say the outlook is better.

Twenty-five years ago some cardiologists published reports showing a 75 per cent mortality. In other words, they predicted that three of every four patients would die in the first attack of thrombosis. In the succeeding years, a calm appraisal of hundreds of thousands of patients reveals that about 80 out of every 100 patients recover from the first attack of coronary thrombosis.

LET ME GIVE YOU my personal experience with a patient that should bring faith and hope to those who have been struck down by coronary thrombosis. This man, like the husband of Mrs. A. T. A., was 51 when he suffered the most severe attack I have ever seen with recovery. It was so remarkable a case that it was presented before medical societies and written up in the Annals of Internal Medicine.

In spite of the fact that the patient seemed moribund at the time of his attack, he lived for 19 years thereafter. And he died, not of heart disease; cancer was the cause of death. Every doctor who has treated coronary patients has similar case histories in his files that indicate people live for many years after an attack of coronary thrombosis.

YOU SEE, Mrs. A. T. A., you have reason to be hopeful about your husband's future. However, much will depend upon how good a patient he is. From now on, moderation in all things is the watchword.

Although it would not be fair to pin down your doctor with this question: "Just what are my husband's chances?" he can answer truthfully that the outlook for coronary patients is much better. We can say that is true for coronary patients as a group. But doctors, no matter how varied their experience, cannot predict how well each individual patient will do.

Having a good doctor, being a good patient, and having faith in one's future, are the necessary ingredients in any formula for survival.

Sam Houston Defied Secessionists

Famed Texas Hero Lost Senate Seat, Governorship in Vain Fight to Keep State in Union

By Senator John F. Kennedy

This is the fourth article of a series, from the best-selling book "Profiles in Courage," written by United States Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and published by Harper and Brothers. Senator Kennedy tells the inspiring stories of American politicians who had the courage to sacrifice everything for the principles they believed right.

THE first rays of dawn were streaking into the Senate chamber as Senator Sam Houston of Texas, the hero of San Jacinto, rose to speak.

The bill on which bitter debate now closed was known as the Kansas-Nebraska bill, the new "unity" device of the Democratic party and the latest concession to the South. It repealed the Missouri Compromise of 1820, and reopened the slavery extension issue thought settled in the Compromise of 1850, by permitting the residents of that vast territory from Iowa to the Rockies to decide the slavery question for themselves, on the assumption that the northern part of the country would be free and the southern part slave. For Democrats and Southerners, this bill had become "must" legislation.

Sam Houston was a Democrat and a Southerner by birth, residence, loyalty and philosophy. But Houston was also one of the most independent, popular, forceful and dramatic individuals ever to enter the Senate chamber. The first Senator from Texas, his name had long before been a household word as commander in chief of those straggling and undermanned Texas volunteers who routed the Mexican Army at San Jacinto, captured its general and established the independence of Texas.

He had been acclaimed as the first President of the independent Republic of Texas, a member of her Congress, and President again before the admission of Texas into the Union as a state. He was no easy mark at the age of 64, and neither sectional nor party ties were enough to seal his lips.

Sam Houston must have known the bill would pass. He must have known that no single other Southern Democrat would join him. But, standing erect, his chin thrust forward, picturesque if not eccentric in his military cloak and pantherskin waistcoat (at times he appeared in a vast sombrero and Mexican blanket), Houston, the "magnificent barbarian," made one of his rare speeches to a weary but attentive Senate.

"This is an eminently perilous measure; and do you expect me to remain here silent, or to shrink from the discharge of my duty in admonishing the South of what I conceive the results will be? I will speak in spite of all the intimidations, or threats, or discountenances that may be thrown upon me... The discharge of conscious duty prompts me often to confront the united array of the very scoundrels of the country in which I reside, in which my associations are, in which my affections rest... Sir, if this is a boon that is offered to propitiate the South, I, as a Southern man, repudiate it. I will have none of it... It was I, Houston, who later to remark, 'the most unpopular vote I ever gave (but) the wisest and most patriotic.'"

TO make matters worse, this was not the first offense for Houston. He had tangled with John Calhoun on the Oregon question, describing himself as a Southerner for whom "the Union was his guiding star." He would have nothing to do, he said, with Calhoun's "hands-off" slavery resolutions and "Southern address," attacking that revered sage of the South for his "long-cherished and ill-concealed designs against the Union."

Finally, Houston had been the first prominent Senator to attack Calhoun's opposition to the Clay Compromise of 1850. Thus, his lonely vote against the Kansas-Nebraska bill, on that stormy dawn in 1854, was the "last straw." It was loudly whispered about the Senate that this was the last term for the colorful general.

But Sam Houston was not one to sit morosely brooding until the whispers of impending defeat were replaced by the avalanche that would crush him. He had already made several tours of Texas during the Senate's autumn recesses, denouncing with equal vigor both "the mad fanaticism of the North" and "the mad ambition of the South."

SAM HOUSTON... HE CALLED HIS VOTE AGAINST THE KANSAS-NEBRASKA BILL "THE MOST UNPOPULAR VOTE I EVER GAVE (BUT) THE WISEST AND MOST PATRIOTIC."

Now he struck out with one grand assault on Texas officialdom by announcing himself a candidate for Governor in the 1857 election. He would not run as a Democrat, or as the candidate of any faction or newspaper—or even resign from the Senate. He would run as Sam Houston, to "regenerate the politics of the state."

But his votes on Kansas and other Southern measures could not be explained away to an angry constituency, and Texas handed Houston the first trouncing of his political career. He returned to Washington for his final years in the Senate unshaken in his beliefs. When a Southern antagonist taunted him on the Senate floor that his vote against the Kansas-Nebraska bill had now insured his defeat, Houston merely replied with a graceful smile that it was true "that I have received an earnest and gratifying assurance from my constituents that they intend to relieve me of further service here... He was not mistaken. On Nov. 10, 1857, Sam Houston was unceremoniously dismissed by the Texas Legislature.

In bidding farewell to his fellow Senators, Houston told his colleagues that he desired to retire "with clean hands and a clean conscience."

"I wish no prouder epitaph to mark the board of slab that may lie on my tomb than this: 'He loved his country, he was a patriot; he was devoted to the Union.' If it is for this that I have suffered martyrdom, it is sufficient that I stand at quits with those who have wielded the sacrificial knife."

Returning to his ranch in Texas, the doughty ex-Senator found he was unable to retire when the Governor who had defeated him two years previously was threatening to lead the state into secession. So in the fall of 1859, the aging warrior again ran as an independent candidate for Governor, again with no party, no newspaper and no organization behind him, and making but one campaign speech. He would rely, he told his audience in that still fascinating voice, "Upon the Constitution of the Union, all the old Jacksonian Democracy I ever professed or officially practiced."

IT was a bitter campaign, the Democrats and newspapers assailing Houston with acrimonious passion, reopening old charges of Houston's immorality and cowardice. But strangely enough, his personal following among his old comrades, disgusted with the administration of his opponents, new popularity which Houston had acquired just prior to his retirement by his exposure on the Senate floor of a corrupt Federal judge, and a surge of sentimental feeling toward him upon his return to his beloved Texas, all combined to elect Sam Houston Governor in a complete reversal of his defeat two years earlier.

Abraham Lincoln was elected President in 1860, and immediately throughout Texas the lone star flag was hoisted in an atmosphere of excited and belligerent expectation. Houston's plea that Texas fight for her rights "in the Union and for the sake of the Union" fell on deaf ears and Gov. Houston was shoved aside as a secession convention was called.

Fighting desperately to hold onto the reins of government, he called a special session of the State Legislature, denouncing extremists in the North and South and insisting that he had "not yet lost the hope that our rights can be maintained in the Union." If not, he maintained, independence was preferable to joining the Southern camp.

But the secession convention leaders, recognized by the Legislature and aided by the destruction of the Union commander in Texas, could not be stopped, and their headlong rush into secession was momentarily disturbed only by the surprise appearance of the Governor they hated but feared. On the day the ordinance of secession was to be adopted, Sam Houston sat on the platform, grimly silent, his presence renewing the cour-determined to preserve this Union."

His prophecy was unheeded. On Feb. 23, Texas voted for secession by a large margin; and on March 2, the special convention reassembled at Austin and declared that Texas had seceded. Gov. Houston, still desperately attempting to regain the initiative, indicated he would make known his plans on the matter to the Legislature. Angry at his insistence that its legal authority had ended, the convention by a thumping vote of 109 to 2 declared Texas to be a part of the Southern Confederacy, and decreed that all state officers must take the new oath of allegiance on March 14. The Governor's secretary merely replied that Gov. Houston "did not acknowledge the existence of the convention and should not regard its action as binding upon him."

ON March 14, as an eyewitness described it, the convention hall was "crowded... electrified with fiery radiations, of men tingling with passion, and glowing and burning with the anticipation of revengeful battle. The air was full of the stirring clamor of a multitude of voices—angry, triumphant, scornful with an occasional oath or epithet of contempt—but the voice of Sam Houston was not heard."

At the appointed hour, the convention clerk was instructed to call the roll of state officials. Silence settled over the vast audience, and every eye peered anxiously for a glimpse of the old hero.

"Sam Houston!" There was no response.

"Sam Houston! Sam Houston!" The rumbling and contemptuous voices began again. The office of Governor of Texas, Confederate States of America, was declared to be officially vacant; and Lt. Gov. Edward Clark, "an insignificant creature, contemptible, sly and pert," stepped up to take the oath.

In another part of the Capitol, the hero of San Jacinto, casting aside a lifetime of political fortune, fame and devotion from his people, was scrawling out his last message as Governor with a broken heart.

"Fellow citizens, in the name of your rights and liberty, which I believe have been trampled upon, I refuse to take this oath. In the name of my own conscience and my own manhood... I refuse to take this oath. (But) I love Texas too well to bring civil strife and bloodshed upon her."

"I shall make no endeavor to maintain my authority as chief executive of this state, except by the peaceful exercise of my functions. When I can no longer do this, I shall calmly withdraw from the scene... I am stricken down because I will not yield those principles which I have fought for... The severest pang is that the blow comes in the name of the state of Texas."

This is one of the columns prepared by Josephine Culbertson before her death.

WHEN a shift of leads is obviously called for because of the previous course of play or because dummy has a menacing solid suit, make sure that you choose the right card of the indicated shift-suit. Don't be superficial, as West was in the following case.

East-West vulnerable.

♠ Q105

The bidding:
West North East South
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass 3♦ Pass

North didn't have a great deal of strength in the major suits, but his takeout double was nevertheless substantially better than any overall in diamonds.

West opened the club king and, to his dismay, South ruffed. A low spade was led to the ace and a spade returned. With East showing out, declarer saw the queen, so he went up with the king and played a third round.

West, in with the trump queen, had no problem of what suit to lead. Obviously, a club continuation was out of the question, since declarer would ruff and shift off the solid diamond suit. On the theory (as he explained later) that the one chance to defeat four spades was to find East with both the king and 10 of hearts, West cashed the heart ace and then led the jack through dummy's queen. East had the king, all right, but not the 10, and so the defenders could take only two heart tricks.

West's thought about the heart suit was only half correct. Unless East had the heart king, all was lost, of course, but he didn't need the 10. West himself had a combination that was fully the equivalent of A-J-10. Since West realized that there was no hope unless East held the heart king, he also should have realized that his proper play was not the ace of hearts, but the jack. This play would be declarer's undoing. If he covered with dummy's queen, East would win and return a heart through the 10 to West's ace; and if declarer did not cover the jack, the defenders would win three heart tricks by straight leads.

Reducing High Costs of Home Repairs.

WHEN two or more homeowners get together, chances are that sooner or later the conversation will get around to the high cost of having anything around the house repaired. Old Ed will tell about the time he had to pay a plumber $35.50 to have a man come over and spend 25 minutes fixing a leaky pipe and Joe will tell about the oil burner outfit that sent him a bill for $17.50 just for a man to come over and change a fuse so that the burner would work.

What old Ed forgot to mention was that he called a plumber on a Saturday afternoon and the job was done on overtime, and what Joe forgot to mention was that it took the oil burner serviceman the best part of 40 minutes to drive from his office to the house.

The best way to keep down the cost of home repairs is to do them yourself but often you'll need the help of experts. There are several ways that you can help reduce these bills. One is to take as many items as possible in need of repairs to the service concern rather than have them come to your house. Another good thing is to try and figure out what's wrong so that you can give the serviceman over the telephone as much information as possible. This will help him to select the necessary tools for the job, and also enable him to save you money by bringing replacement parts that might otherwise require an extra trip.

If you keep an eye on your house and the various pieces of equipment, it's often possible to have necessary jobs done before an emergency arises and thus save having to pay overtime.

My Day A Return of Winter

By Eleanor Roosevelt

I ATTENDED a dinner of the Jewish Welfare Board Saturday evening. It was an unusually crowded affair and I had to leave immediately afterward, since I was driving to Hyde Park and the weather did not seem too auspicious.

Snow was falling and it melted as it fell until we reached Hawthorne Circle, near White Plains. From then on, slush and snow covered the road. And coming to what we call the mountainous area, where there are some real hills, we began to see cars stopped along the way, unable to go on.

We were lucky in having a good driver. And we spent far longer a time than usual on the road, reaching my cottage after 1 a.m.

ONCE in Hyde Park, I began to worry about getting back. And when I got up on Sunday morning to find everything deep in snow, I wondered whether the two groups I promised to meet at the Library would be able to get there from New York. I was to greet the first group at 12:30 p.m., after church, and the second one between 2:30 and 3.

My son, John, really annoyed because only last week he had taken the snowplow off the tractor and put on the scraper, had to scrape rather than plow the snow from the road. We finally got out, but not early enough to go to church, and I telephoned the Library, asking that I be informed if either of the groups arrived from New York.

MRS. AND MRS. RICHARD HARRY were bringing two Danish friends to luncheon and we found out they were motoring from Larchmont. Being adventurous and hardy Danes, they arrived, but not until 2 o'clock.

As we finished lunch, the Library called to say that the group of foreign students had arrived by bus, so I left my guests and went to greet them. I hope the students found their trip rewarding, for it was undertaken under difficult conditions.

A mixture of snow and rain continued to fall, and my driver felt it would be wise for us to return to New York Sunday evening if I really had to be there Monday morning. So we left Hyde Park at about 5:45 p.m. and came down Route 9 uneventfully. But I cannot say it was a nice spring weekend in the country.

I am worrying about the little bulbs in my garden. They were well up before the snow covered them and I only hope they survive.

Let us hope that we have seen the last of the snow this season. While I realize we occasionally do have snow at this time of year, I think all of us would be happy to feel we had left winter behind.

Miss Madelyn Lo Piccolo and Miss Barbara Tuthill, students at San Diego (Calif.) College for Women, divided their spring vacation with two classmates, Miss Honore Farrell, Los Angeles, and Miss Ann Adams, Corona, Cal. Miss Lo Piccolo's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Lo Piccolo Jr., 7 Berkshire, Ladue. Miss Tuthill is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Irene Morrison, 29 Portland place, and Harry Tuthill.

Miss Patricia Olian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Addison Olian, 56 Lake Forest, Richmond Heights, a freshman at the University of Colorado, Boulder, spent her spring vacation in Los Angeles and Las Vegas with her grandmother, Mrs. Jerome I. Olian, who lives at the Lake Forest address. Mrs. Jerome Olian, who spent the winter in California, is on her way to St. Louis.

"Paul says I'm a peach!"

Paul thinks it's just wonderful the way I keep our house looking practically perfect and still have time to do so many other things. The plain truth is that I've found faster, easier ways to get my work done. Take wood floors. Cleaning and waxing them was something fierce. I can still remember how my muscles ached for days after. But not now. It's almost a pleasure with Bruce Cleaning Wax. There's no floor washing at all! Bruce cleans and waxes at the same time. And my wood floors really look beautiful. Much nicer than when I did them the hard way. If you have wood floors, you'll really appreciate Bruce Cleaning Wax.

Incidentally, I've found other Bruce floor products help me, too. There's Bruce Floor Cleaner for cleaning and lighter waxing, Bruce Paste Wax, Bruce Asphalt Tile Cleaner, Bruce Asphalt Tile Self-Polishing Wax and the new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. Yes, for floors it's Bruce!

Martha Carr's

Dear Martha:

I AM one of those rare people who doesn't care for cards and would much rather sit and talk with friends than to play bridge or canasta. Most of my friends know this and they just don't invite me when they are planning an afternoon of cards. That's all right with me and I don't feel slighted because I know I wouldn't enjoy it anyway. But recently, my next door neighbor invited me to a bridge party and I explained that I don't play. She then insisted that I come for lunch anyway and that I wouldn't have to take part in the game. I went with that clearly understood. Then, Martha, she tried her best to get me to play, and when I absolutely refused—not out of discourtesy, believe me, but because I don't know how to play with experts—she became quite angry and hasn't spoken to me since. I hate to have trouble but don't you think I was justified in refusing?

READER.

If you went with that understanding, then I think she was rude to try to insist that you play, and she certainly has no right to be mad because you refused. It's a miserable experience, I know, for an inept player to sit down with experts and her inability to play well ruins their game for them. If the others were not really serious players, and if you can play a fair hand, even though you dislike cards, perhaps it would have been better to agree to play than to make a scene by refusing, but now that it is all over, I imagine your neighbor will soon be back on speaking terms and from here on out you can just remember that if cards are on the menu you'd be wise to stay away even if the hostess assures you that you can spend your afternoon as a leisurely kibitzer.

Dear Martha:

I ENJOY READING your opinions every day, but "One Who Knows" has expressed my opinion to the letter when she said women whose husbands were interested in other women should take stock of themselves. I get into many homes during the day and evenings. I hate to say this about the lovely fair sex but most of them are very, very untidy and selfish about themselves. They make excuses for the way the house looks at the end of the day. It seems that the ones with the most children keep the cleaner houses and keep themselves better looking.

Questions for a Wife

By Ruth Millett

SOME wives trade too much on their marriages. Because they have a husband, a "Mrs." before their name and a place in the community as the wife of a respected man, they never bother to take stock of what they, them-selves, actually are as indi-viduals.

RUTH MILLETT

who would stick by me if I were alone, instead of one of a couple?

"Do I know enough about business so that I could manage money matters?"

"Do I have anything to talk about besides my family, my house, my neighbors, clothes, the servant problem?"

"Have I tried so hard to please my husband through the years that I have become just a shadow and so would find it almost impossible to stand alone?"

"Did I long ago give up thinking about the political issues of the day and settle for taking my opinions directly from my husband?"

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE mother of a bride-to-be writes: "My daughter lives on the West Coast and will be married out there shortly. I also have a married son living there. It will be impossible for my husband and me to go to the wedding and so my son will give the bride away. My daughter has written to me telling me of her wedding plans and also sent an invitation for me to see. Imagine my sur-prise when I opened the invitation and read, 'Mr. and Mrs. John Smith Jr., request the honor of your presence at the marriage of his sister,' etc. My hus-band and I were complet-ly ignored—just as though we didn't exist. Shouldn't our names have appeared on the invitations?" Considering that you and your husband will not be present at the wedding your names could not be put on the invitations. If you were going to the wedding then the invitations should have gone out in your names.

EMILY POST

DEAR MRS. POST: One of the girls in our office who is a divorcee is being married. It is our policy to give showers for the girls in the office. While she was given a shower once before, there has been a large turnover and most of the girls who attended are no longer employed. Two other girls are being married in the same month. Under these circumstances, should we give this first girl a shower?

Answer: Having given her one shower, a second one should not be expected.

DEAR MRS. POST: Would it be too novel an idea to inclose a small wedding picture of my fiance and myself with some of the marriage announcements?

Answer: It would be unusual but a very nice thing to do to people you know very well and who live at a great distance.

Interesting Food Experience

By Edith M. Barber

SPANISH GAZPACHO IS A RICH SOUP SPECIALTY WITH SAVORY ACCESSORIES—A WHOLE MEAL IN ITSELF. IT MAY BE SERVED EITHER HOT OR COLD, WITH FRENCH BREAD ON THE SIDE.

ALMOST every country has a classic soup. Usually these are hearty as the main portion of a meal. Although they are all basically vegetable soups, one differs from another because of the variety of ingredients and seasonings that are chosen.

Each has its own special title and this arouses our curiosity and interest. They may or may not call for a small amount of meat. Many of them call for long hours of cooking during which flavor is developed. Some of these famous recipes have been adapted for the American table and time has been shortened.

At a foreign-type restaurant we like to order French onion soup, Russian borsch, Italian minestrone, Scandinavian split pea soup or others.

As there are not so many Spanish restaurants you may not have tasted the famous Gazpacho. This is an interesting food experience, not only because of the fine flavor, but also because of the savory accessories that are passed with it. This soup is often served cold although the first time I tasted it in a Spanish home in Puerto Rico it was hot, both in temperature and in seasoning. If served as a main course thick slices of what we call French bread will be offered with it. This combination will provide all that we need for lunch, particularly if it is accom-panied by a salad or crisp relishes.

Gazpacho.

One No. 2½ can tomatoes, one-half cup tomato puree, one tablespoon butter or margarine, one-half cup beet or other vegetable juice, one cup water, salt and red pepper to taste, one tablespoon flour, one-half cup milk, one and one-half tablespoons sherry, one-half cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives, one-third cup chopped green pepper, one-fourth cup slivered toasted almonds, one-fourth cup croutons.

Combine tomatoes, tomato puree and butter or margarine. Add vegetable juice, water, and salt and red pepper to taste. Cook over low heat 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Strain and heat to boiling point. Combine flour and milk and blend. Add to strained ingredients gradu-ally and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick-ened. Cool. If desired, add sherry and mix well. Serve with remaining ingredients as toppings. Yield: four servings.

Minestrone.

Ingredients: One - eight pound salt pork, one-half cup minced smoked ham, one small onion, minced; one small clove garlic, minced; one tablespoon minced parsley, two quarts boiling water, one-fourth-cup toma-to paste, three-fourths-cup diced celery, three-fourths-cup peas, one-half-cup lima beans, one-fourth-cup diced potatoes, one cup shredded cabbage, one cup elbow macaroni, two table-spoons grated Parmesan cheese, salt, pepper.

Dice salt pork fine. Put salt pork, ham, onion, garlic and parsley in large saucepan and cook over medium heat five minutes, stirring frequently. Add boiling water and tomato paste, and simmer over low heat 15 minutes. Add vegeta-bles, cover and simmer over low heat until vegetables are almost tender, then add mac-a-roni and cook until tender. Add cheese and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve at once. Pass extra Parmesan cheese at the table. Yield: six servings.

Note: Cooked dried peas and lima beans may replace the fresh. This recipe is a spe-cialty in the house of an Ital-ian friend.

'Nice Clear Happy Color'

Her Desire: A House Painted Red

By Lu Murphy

WHY is it? If a house needs repainting, why do men feel it is their divine duty to see it is painted the exact same color it was?

Really, it's the magnificent male obsession. A man never objects if his house needs re-painting. No expense is too great. No mix-ing too small. But change the color? He will lash himself to the garage door and defy you to paint over his dead body.

Which may account for a lot of bumps on a lot of garage doors.

I don't know. Maybe it makes them feel secure. But if you were a good little house, and you had devoted your life to keeping off rain and sleet and holding up television antennas—and now your dress was tat-tered and peeling and sagging at the eaves—would it fill you with rapture to get a new dress just like the old one you'd been wearing forever?

That's why I was so glad when the painter said my land-lord told him to paint my house. (I have the most considerate landlord. He lives in another state.)

My house has always been what is referred to in paint circles as ivory. You know—that sort of curdled thick sour cream? I like ivory. But if you are going to paint a house anyway, it seems to me that—well, all I was trying to do was brighten the corner where I was at.

And I felt a nice clear happy red would do nicely.

I ASKED the painter what he thought of a nice clear happy red. He didn't say anything. He paled somewhat, but I guess he was too moved to speak. And then this man drove up and I greeted him joyfully. "Darling I'm so glad you're home. You look tired maybe it would rest if we went out to dinner because we're going to paint the house a nice clear happy red!"

And he said, "Ummm that's nice—and started to the door. He got half way there when—I don't know—he seemed to sort of erupt all of a sudden. He let out a yell like a wounded fawn and roared, "We're going to do WHAT?"

"Go out to dinner because you're tired?" I asked hope-fully.

"Tired hell—paint what where red?"

"I'm not going to paint a what anywhere red." I an-swered reasonably, "just the house. A nice clear happy—"

He was not enthusiastic. And personally I feel if a man is nice enough to pay the rent, he is entitled to the satisfac-tion of putting up a fight.

The house had to have two coats of paint. That was estab-lished.

I wanted red. He wanted that silly ivory.

We discussed it right there in an adult civilized manner.

All the neighbors will tell you so.

FINALLY—just as adult and civilized as I could be—with the merest trace of a quiver—I said, "Even if you don't love me anymore, you don't have to yell."

That calmed him down to a bellow. "I'm sorry, dammit, I didn't mean to yell. Paint it any color you want to. Paint the 13th thing plaid!"

"I'm sorry," I said firmly. "I'm not being fair. You work hard and you deserve first consideration. I don't care what color the silly old house is painted. I just want you to be happy. So let's compromise 50-50."

By that time he had his arm around me and he said I was his good girl—but just exactly what compromise 50-50 did I have in mind?

"Well," I said, happy again—and because really all I want-ed was to be fair, "let's paint the first coat ivory—and the second coat red."

And do you know that man started yelling again?

Oh well, ivory hasn't much character maybe—but it doesn't show dirt.

I think, though, because I've been so sweet about it and everything, he feels guilty.

Because this morning I over-heard him ask the painter the price of seal coats. Isn't that exciting? I'd really rather have mink, but I don't think he feels that guilty.

Only why on earth do you suppose he asked the painter how much one cost?

Some Advice For Teen-Age Baby Sitters

By Elinor Williams

WATCH out, teen baby-sit-ers. You're in danger of losing your "business."

Some mothers are beginning to prefer older women as baby-sitters, whenever they are available, instead of teen-agers. And it isn't simply be-cause they're older. It's be-cause they are more careful with other people's property.

A mother says, "When I have a dependable teen-age sitter, and leave the necessary tele-phones numbers and information with her, I don't worry about the baby, because I know she'll call me if she needs me and I can call and check with her to be sure everything is all right."

"My objection to teen baby-sitters is that some of them have no respect or considera-tion for other people's posses-sions. They make themselves too much at home in my home, using things, eating and drink-ing without permission."

"Last time I had a high school girl for a sitter, she left cigarette ashes and stubs all over the room, orange peel on the coffee table, cookie crumbs all over the living room, empty coke bottles where they left permanent marks on the best furniture. She had 'raided' the refrigerator, helped herself to cookies, etc. and even left one of the beds all mussed up from a nap. We didn't mind if she played records, but expected her to have the courtesy to put them back afterwards, but they were scattered all around, too. I was so discouraged and an-gry that I said 'Never again!'"

So it's up to you, teen baby sitters, if you want to keep your jobs. Ask permission to use TV, play records, etc. Don't eat, drink or smoke unless your employer suggests it. Sit in one room and leave it as you find it. You have a right to do as you like with your own things—unless you harm yourself or somebody else with them—but you have no right even to touch other people's possessions un-less they give you permission—whether they are your em-ployers, friends, neighbors or family.

Corner Tables

By Elizabeth Hillyer

NOT too long ago, corner tables were all pretty much alike, with a simple top on legs and a somewhat triangular second-level spreading from the back corner. Designs have changed. Look for something more in usefulness and good looks in a corner table today.

The typical upper tier has largely disappeared, and there's more emphasis on what goes on below the top surface of the corner table. Storage room is added, sometimes single drawer-deep, sometimes to the floor.

And designs sometimes come forth with performance as un-usual as this. Here studio beds lose not one inch of space be-cause of the table between them—one bed actually rolls under it in the daytime to occupy far less wall than would be needed if it didn't. And the table has a cane-paneled drop door which opens to reveal storage space.

Half and Half

Mix up a batch of cream cheese and blue cheese—half and half. If you want it to be smooth, force it through a fine strainer. Store in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator. Use as a stuffing for celery, as a spread for crackers or rounds of cucumber, or as a topping for hamburgers.

BONUS BENEFITS IN CORNER TABLES.

Haydn at His Best

By Thomas B. Sherman

JOSEPH HAYDN'S Symphony No. 102 in B flat does not have the direct appeal of several others, notably the "Surprise," the "Military" and the famous G Major Symphony No. 88. Nevertheless it is one of the composer's greatest works with implied meanings that go beyond its surface charm and exuberance. Its use of harmonic and rhythmic devices were advanced for its period but this is of less importance than its continuing freshness, its abundant invention and originality. The trio of the third movement, for instance, is at one and the same time a graceful, flowing period and a statement with an underlying gravity that carries one into a realm of much deeper thought and feeling.

The Symphony No. 102, paired with the "Clock" symphony, is played with a stimulating vivacity by the Orchestre de la Radiodiffusion Française de Paris. Igor Markevitch is the conductor. The performance—or its reproduction—does not have the same clarity of detail as previous Markevitch recordings; and the andante movement of the "Clock" symphony sounds hurried. In general, though, the performances are striking ones. (Angel, one 12-inch LP.)

OPERA: Donizetti's "La Favorita" hasn't been performed in public for years in the United States and, to be frank, it is scarcely worth reviving. The plot is ridiculous, its mechanism creaks and its tunes are "catchy" but without the slightest depth. It can be used effectively as a "vehicle" when the singers are good enough and this is what happens in a newly recorded performance conducted by Alberto Erede. (London, three 12-inch LPs in album.) Giusetta Simonato, one of the important sopranos of present day opera in Italy, sings the role of "the favorite" with a sincere ardor. The coloring of her voice—which has great power as well as flexibility—imparts a momentary interest to the music that it could not command in itself. Gianni Poggi is an excellent Fernando and both the American Jerome Hines and Ettore Bastianini carry vocal and dramatic authority into all their scenes.

PIANO: Eugene Istomin, a young pianist who tries for depth of expression with impressive results, has recorded all 19 of the Chopin Nocturnes. (Columbia, two 12-inch LPs in album.) His treatment is free and romantic and the beauty of his tone comes through quite successfully in a reproduction that captures a full measure of resonance. His use of rubato, however, is not nearly as well thought-out as his dynamic shading and his phrasing. Indeed the "time accents" seem to be applied arbitrarily; and they get rather tiresome.

HARPSICHORD: Sebastian Bach's Concerto in D Minor for keyboard instrument and string orchestra has a wonderful unity, propulsion and clarity of line as played by Wanda Landowska on the Pleyel harpsichord. The accompanying string orchestra is conducted by Eugene Bigot. Mme. Landowska conserves all the structural values of this important work and makes it fully expressive, too. The harpsichord has a ringing tonal quality which is faithfully reproduced. On the second side Mme. Landowska plays 15 two-part inventions of Bach. (RCA-Victor, one 12-inch LP.)

BEST SELLERS: Mozart's "Magic Flute" with Ernst Hafliger, Maria Stader, Rita Strich and others, the RIAS Orchestra of Berlin and Ferenc Frickey, conductor. (Decca, three 12-inch LPs.) Beethoven's Violin Concerto played by Nathan Milstein and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, William Steinberg conducting.

A Secret

A SECRET is an interesting piece of information which is imparted to a trustworthy person with the injunction: "Don't say anything about it." The trustworthy person, pleased at being chosen to share the secret, will give every assurance that the secret will be kept inviolate. There is, however, not much good in knowing something which cannot be told to anybody else. In such manner the interesting piece of information goes completely to waste. The more a person entrusted with a secret thinks about it the more unreasonable appears the request not to divulge it. The question may be asked: what harm would be done if the secret were told to another discreet and trustworthy person. The obvious answer is that no harm, or not very great harm, would be done. It will be argued that the secret cannot remain a secret forever. So what difference would it make if it were to come out a few days ahead? Therefore, when a trustworthy person to whom a secret has been told falls into the company of another trustworthy person and the conversation lags for want of material, after the weather and minor ailments have been discussed at length, the temptation to tell the secret becomes overpowering. So the secret will be told. But, of course, with the safeguard warning the trustworthy person to whom it is told: "Don't say anything about it." And that person will at once give every assurance while subconsciously searching for another trustworthy person to whom it can be safely told. CHRISTOPHER BILLOPP.

PROTECTION: Once, during the early days of aviation, Will Rogers was taken for a plane ride by a pilot friend. At that time, airplanes made an awful racket when in flight. Before the takeoff, the pilot handed Rogers a wad of cotton. "No thanks," replied the humorist. "The only time I stuff cotton in my ears is when I'm in the Senate Gallery."
LETDOWN: Russian pianist Anton Rubinstein was invited to the home of a composer who had a reputation for copying everything he wrote from the old masters. When Rubinstein entered the study, his host was at the piano, working over a new opus. In front of him was a pile of scores. Each was a composition by a famous composer. Rubinstein walked over to the piano and glanced at the scores. Then he shook his head sadly. "What a disappointment!" he sighed. "I always thought you copied them from memory!"

was no Annie Oakley even when cold sober. Pretty soon a lone bird swooped down over the pond, traveling with dazzling speed. The other members of the party all blazed away, but none found the target. The duck passed over Fields's blind, on the other side of the pond. A single shot rang out. The bird plummeted into the water, stone dead. Amazed by this exhibition of marksmanship, the comedian's friends eyed each other sheepishly. Ashamed of themselves for having isolated him, they rowed over to extend their congratulations. They found him even more wobbly than when they had left him. "That was great shooting!" they exclaimed. "How in the world did you do it?" "Heck, it was nothing," replied Fields. "When a big flock like that comes over, how can you miss?"

Form 1040 Set to Music

By Charles Menees

FORM 1040 hardly inspires singing by the multitudes. But Avery Claffin, a retired New York bank president whose hobby is writing music, brought a lot of attention to himself by transforming portions of the income tax return into lyrics for a madrigal titled "Lament for April 15." The Randolph Singers, for whom the madrigal was written, performed it here when they appeared on The Principia concert series this past season, and it brought down the house. Now it is the title song for their latest recording (Composers Recordings Inc., 12-inch LP). The octet conducted by David Randolph gives the madrigal a completely "dead pan" treatment, and little of the flavor of the in-person juxtaposition of prosaic text and mock-serious music is lost. There are chuckles in hearing even "parenthesis" in song. Rounding out the program are 13 more of the 27 modern madrigals composed especially for the Randolph Singers. Claffin has another, "Design for the Atomic Age," also with humorous lyrics in extremely serious musical setting. Another for fun is Edward Tattall Canby's "The Intermittent Farewell," which employs the familiar clichés used by departing guests and their hosts. Examples: "It's been just divine" and "We love your place."

EDDIE FISHER

GERMAN JAZZ: So disastrous have been most recordings of American jazz as played by European musicians that one has almost come to expect the mediocre product. But not so in "Das Is Jazz" and "Jazz from Germany" (both Decca, 12-inch LP). The first includes 12 numbers by such groups as the Rolf Kuehn All Stars, the Jutta Hipp Quintet and the Hans Koller New Jazz Stars. The idiom is modern, and the players have all the technique and most of the feel for it. Most of the selections were recorded at a national jazz festival held in Frankfurt-am-Main in 1954. Tunes include such American standards as "Lullaby of Birdland" and "Moonlight in Vermont" and originals like "Frankfurt Special" and "Sound-Koller." Among the more impressive performers is Miss Hipp, a pianist who came to this country last year. Jutta (pronounced yoo-ta) is particularly impressive on the Koller's group "Ack Varmeland Du Skona," which is a Swedish folk song that Tenorman Stan Gets introduced in this country under the title "Dear Old Stockholm." The big band of Kurt Edelhagen is featured on jazz from Germany. This band, which has won the acclaim of American musicians, is almost as accomplished as that of Britisher Ted Heath. It plays with feeling and excitement, as though it was still hungry. Ensemble work is well integrated, some of the solos brilliant. The big band plays standards like "Summertime" and "Tenderly," originals with titles such as "Jazz Time Riff" and "Round About It." A small unit from the ranks does "Don't Blame Me" and "Stumbling."

HIGHLY RECOMMENDED: Tenorman Georgie Auld heads an assembled band of such stars as Ray Linn, Frank Rossolino and Maynard Ferguson for another of EmArcy's "In the Land of Hi-Fi" series. Some of the numbers which were recorded last fall are "Sunday Kind of Love," "Tippin' In" and "Dinah." "Eddie Fisher Sings Academy Award Winning Songs" (Victor) contains the "Oscar" tunes beginning with "The Continental" of 1934 and covering the years until "Three Coins in the Fountain" of 20 years later. Axel Stordahl's orchestra, continuity by Carroll Carroll. . . . English pianist Ralph Sharon has rhythm accompaniment as he proves his virtuosity on 12 songs related to the over-all title "Autumn Leaves and Spring Fever" (London).

NEXT SUNDAY IN THE POST-DISPATCH

Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children

DEDICATION DAY SUPPLEMENT

HIS EMINENCE, JOHN CARDINAL GLENNON

The Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital for Children to be dedicated next Sunday is a fitting memorial to a man who was beloved by Catholics and non-Catholics alike.

Next Sunday's Post-Dispatch will feature a special, exclusive 24-page tabloid rotogravure section that tells in word and picture the story of the new hospital and of the many people who made it a reality. The section will be treasured by St. Louisans of all faiths who revered Cardinal Glennon.

Some of your out-of-town friends would enjoy seeing the Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital section. Have a copy of the Sunday Post-Dispatch mailed to them. Just send their names and addresses to Circulation Dept., St. Louis Post-Dispatch, 1111 Olive Street, St. Louis 1, Mo. Enclose 15¢ for each copy you want mailed. No extra charge for postage.

Banana Cream Cake

Ingredients: Two cups sifted flour, one teaspoon double-acting baking powder, one teaspoon baking soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup (one-fourth pound) enriched margarine, one and one-half cups sugar, two eggs, one cup mashed ripe bananas (two or three medium-sized bananas mashed fine on a plate with a fork will make one cup), one-fourth cup butter-oil, two-thirds coarsely chopped walnuts, one tablespoon flour.

Method: Preheat oven to 350 degrees (moderate). Grease the bottom and sides of two round layer cake pans (each eight by one and one-fourth inches); line bottoms with waxed paper; grease paper. Sift together the two cups flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Cream margarine and sugar thoroughly; beat in eggs one at a time.

Stir mashed banana and butter-milk together. Stir sifted ingredients, in four additions and alternately with banana mixture, into creamed mixture; begin and end with flour; stir just until blended each time. Toss walnuts with one tablespoon flour and fold in. Turn into prepared pans and bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 35 to 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Turn out at once on cooling racks; strip off paper.

Salad Suggestion: Want to try a new salad? Arrange half moon slices of ripe avocado over mixed greens. Sprinkle with crispy-cooked bacon and crumbled blue cheese. Toss with French dressing before serving. Use olive oil, wine vinegar, prepared mustard, salt and freshly-ground pepper for the dressing.

Make up a batch of your absolutely flaky rich pastry. Cut small squares out of it with a pastry wheel. Put a dab of blue cheese on each square and fold over. Seal edges together with the tines of a fork. Bake in a hot oven. Wonderful with a tomato juice cocktail.

St. Louis speaks out for the school levy!

These leading citizens, representing St. Louis business, government, labor and civic groups . . . leaders in education, religion, and child welfare . . . join in urging St. Louisans to vote for the school tax levy tomorrow.

DR. PHILIP J. HICKEY,
Superintendent of Instruction,
St. Louis Public Schools

"We have much at stake in the April 12 special school tax election. The $1.30 tax rate will not only make it possible for us to keep the many fine services our schools now provide, but it will help us solve some of our most pressing problems in terms of our children's educational needs. Too few people realize, for example, that the teacher shortage in St. Louis is reaching the critical stage. We can't expect to attract and hold good, well-qualified teachers unless our salary scale is realistic and comparable to the salaries paid in other major cities and surrounding communities.

"If the levy were not approved, our tax rate would automatically fall to 89 cents . . . our schools would lose $12,000,000 in local and State revenue . . . the results would be tragic.

"I am confident that St. Louis will vote for its schools on April 12."

RAYMOND R. TUCKER
Mayor of the City of St. Louis

"I intend to vote for better schools, and I urge every St. Louisan to go to the polls April 12 and do the same.

"Approval by the voters will mean that St. Louis will be able to retain experienced, well-qualified and loyal teaching personnel. It means St. Louis will be able to continue providing free text books, modern teaching aids and schools for the physically handicapped, as well as many other benefits which make our school system among the best in the nation.

"The cost of educating a child in St. Louis is less than in 11 other large cities and, even with the 15-cent increase, the tax rate will be much lower than in most communities surrounding St. Louis.

"I fervently hope the $1.30 levy is overwhelmingly approved at the polls April 12."

ARTHUR BLUMEYER, Chairman, Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee

"I am convinced that the $1.30 school tax levy is absolutely necessary if we are going to maintain our fine schools in St. Louis. I accepted the chairmanship of the Citizens' Committee only after careful study of the facts and figures. The levy will enable us to attain four major objectives . . .

"Raise teachers' salaries . . .

"Reduce the size of classes . . .

"Complete long-delayed maintenance and repairs . . .

"Keep the good school system our children need and deserve.

"Our schools are the direct concern of every St. Louisan. Your vote for the levy on April 12 is a vote for better schools and a brighter future for our children and our community."

RICHMOND C. COBURN,
Chairman of the Board,
Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis

"We unanimously indorse the school tax levy in the sincere belief that it is essential to the continued progress of our educational facilities as well as to keep pace with the progress being made by the people of St. Louis in many fields of endeavor. We urge all 3500 members of the Chamber of Commerce and all St. Louisans to support the school tax increase and 'keep St. Louis moving ahead.'"

VERY REV. PAUL C. REINERT, S. J.;
President, St. Louis University

"It is impossible to overestimate the value of the schools in our American society and we must do everything in our power to protect this fine heritage. I am particularly happy to add my indorsement to the appeal for support of the school tax levy because it means a salary increase for teachers. Teachers are the most essential part of the education process and efforts to improve their status and compensation are fundamental in any attempt to meet future problems in education."

ETHAN A. H. SHEPLEY,
Chancellor, Washington University

"Since a large percentage of Washington University students come from the St. Louis public schools, we are aware of the fine instruction being offered in these schools. We know, too, that the costs of education in recent years have risen steadily. With these facts in mind, I urge each St. Louisan to go to the polls on April 12 and vote for the levy."

REV. ALLEN HACKETT, President, Metropolitan Church Federation

"The logical course for us as citizens in a free society, since we have advocated the improved educational opportunities for our children, is to vote the necessary funds to get the job done.

"The proposed tax levy will give each teacher a $200 increase in salary—we have long advocated raising the low salary scale of our overworked public school teachers.

"It will also mean a reduction in the class load of at least one pupil per teacher and provide Social Security benefits for our public servants in the school system.

"We have urged our churches to encourage their congregations to vote favorably on the tax rate on Thursday, April 12."

RT. REV. JAMES HOFELICH, Superintendent of Parish Schools of the Archdiocese of St. Louis

"The standards of any community are reflected in its educational facilities. We are justly proud of our St. Louis schools. If we jeopardize them by curtailing their activities through lack of funds we will lower the morale of our community.

"A tax rate of 89 cents—the constitutional limit without voter approval—is completely inadequate to run an accredited school system. I hope every voter will heed the request of the St. Louis Board of Education and vote for the school levy on April 12."

MRS. GILBERT HARRIS, President,
League of Women Voters of St. Louis

"Voter apathy is the greatest enemy of progress. St. Louis—and all St. Louisans—have much to gain by approving the $1.30 school tax rate on April 12. We urge every St. Louisan to vote and to vote for the levy. Good schools are the responsibility of each of us . . . we can vote for better schools by voting for the levy."

EDWIN M. CLARK, President,
Civic Progress, Inc.

"There is a new spirit of progress in St. Louis these days. We are moving ahead in the rehabilitation of old neighborhoods . . . we are providing new parks and recreation areas . . . erecting fine new public buildings and hospitals . . . taking positive steps to build an even better St. Louis for the years to come. None of this has meaning unless our schools keep pace . . . we must educate good citizens for the St. Louis of the future. We indorse the school tax levy and urge all citizens to 'keep St. Louis moving ahead' by an overwhelming vote of approval at the polls April 12."

EDWARD M. TOD,
President, St. Louis Industrial Union Council, AFL-CIO

"We recognize the need for continuing a good, sound system of public education and that the cost of such education is increasing at the same pace as our living costs. We support the $1.30 school tax rate . . . we believe it is vital to meet the growing demands of our children . . . we urge our membership to vote and work for its adoption on April 12."

WILLIAM A. WEBB, Executive Secretary,
AFL Central Trades and Labor Union

"The old 89-cent rate is woefully inadequate to provide the necessary facilities for the education of our children. We believe the proposed $1.30 rate is necessary to reduce the size of classes, complete repairs, provide salary increases for teachers, and maintain our present good services and standards. We have urged our members to support and approve the proposal in the April 12 election."

JOSEPH COUSIN, Executive Secretary, Building and Construction Trades Council of St. Louis

"Education is the most valuable investment St. Louisans can make in terms of money, as well as in terms of human achievement. We wholeheartedly indorse the proposed $1.30 levy."

ROBERT E. HILLARD, President,
Urban League

"Our community can only be as strong as its school system. A vote for the levy on April 12 is a vote for better schools . . . a vote for good teachers . . . a vote to give our children a good start in life. We urge all St. Louisans to support the school tax levy April 12."

JOHN J. DWYER, Chairman, Democratic City Central Committee

"I am confident the Board of Education has calculated the needs of our schools as conservatively as possible before requesting the $1.30 tax rate . . . I recognize the cost of education has increased as has the cost of other phases of government, business and home living costs. The youth of our community hold the key to its future; therefore, to provide them with a good education is one of the best investments we can make."

CHARLES P. MCBRIDE, Chairman, Republican City Central Committee

"We in St. Louis can be justly proud of our St. Louis public schools' educational accomplishments while keeping the cost per pupil lower than that of most other large cities. With the requested $1.30 rate we will keep our fine St. Louis schools and still have a tax rate far below that of most cities."

MRS. SAM RYKER, President, St. Louis
Council, Parent-Teacher Associations

"The fate of our children hangs in the balance on April 12. The levy of $1.30 is vitally necessary if we are to continue our present fine educational system . . . its defeat would disastrously handicap all school service. For the sake of our children, our community, and the future, we ask all St. Louisans to vote on April 12 and vote for the levy."

MRS. W. R. WILKINSON, President, Child Conservation Conference

"The welfare and the well-being of our children are at stake in the April 12 election. Many valuable pupil-welfare programs would have to be discontinued if the tax rate were not approved. We are confident that the voters of St. Louis will vote to continue the wonderful job our schools are doing by voting for the levy."

DANIEL R. CROSS, President,
St. Louis Public School Patrons' Alliance

"Our children will benefit in many ways from the additional income the $1.30 levy will provide. It will mean smaller classes . . . make it easier to recruit good, well-qualified teachers . . . enable us to keep our reading clinics, lunchrooms, good health care, and many vital services. The 15-cent increase in the tax rate is realistic and will pay big dividends in terms of a good start in life for our children. We urge you to vote and vote for the levy."

10-Year-Old Boy Who Is Left Out

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.

There are several reasons why my son, just 10, is lonely: (1) his nature, which is reserved, withdrawn, timid. (2) The fact that there are no children of any age in our neighborhood. (3) The fact that we have very few friends ourselves. A mother writes:

"Donald is very quiet, reads a great deal, watches TV. He is good in school, well liked by his teachers. His emotions are deep. He does not like to join active play. He and I are very close—as his nature permits him to be. But is his quiet, shu-in nature real? Or a defense against being hurt?"

"You probably assume from this letter, and rightly, that he is a very slender, wiry, slight boy. If you could assure me that many lonely children find happiness in later life—that it is not definitely harmful to him—if you could suggest ways I might help him, I would be so grateful."

THOUGH YOU are naturally concerned when your son seems to be lonely and left out, we suspect that he may not be as unhappy as you fear. Our guess is that he is just a quiet, reserved, somewhat independent little boy. We think it is quite possible that even were you socially, living in a well-populated suburban area, he might nevertheless still behave as he does.

Being as fond of him and as sensitive to him as you are is the important thing. Try not to suffer too much for him. The important thing is for him to know that you are on his side, and that you are willing and ready to do whatever you reasonably can for him.

BUT THE SOCIAL BATTLE is one that for a large part each child has to fight and work out for himself. Also his own personal goals as to popularity are often much more modest than his mother's for him. Have you talked things over with his teacher? How does she feel he fits in at school?

Is there a possibility of your son's visiting friends or relatives now and then? What about scout camp of a Y.M.C.A. camp for a few weeks in the summer? In general, our advice would be to go on as you have been doing, and try not to read too much into your son's behavior or to worry too much about his lack of sociability.

"A SIX-YEAR-OLD TOLD ME THE TRUTH!"

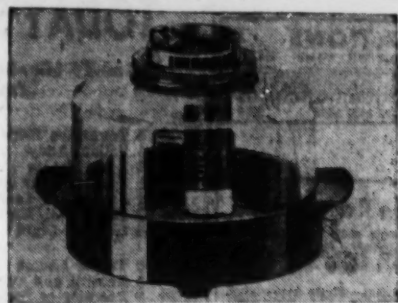

Mrs. A. D., Michigan City, Indiana

"Sometimes children say things adults are too 'polite' to say. That's what happened when my grandson said 'Why isn't your hair pretty any more, Grandma?' I was so hurt I could have cried. When my hair turned gray, I guess I just stopped caring about how I looked. But the boy's remark made me see how foolish I had been.

The very next day I had a Silver Curl... the home permanent that's custom-made for gray and white hair. And what a wonderful difference it's made! Silver Curl gives me the softest, most manageable waves ever. And it's a good, long-lasting permanent too. Thanks to Silver Curl, my gray hair is truly attractive now. Even my grandson says so. And I know he tells the truth!"

EASY TO DO! Even if you've never had a home permanent, you can have a Silver Curl with ease. Silver Curl is self-neutralizing... no extra steps. You just apply waving lotion... wind up curls... rinse and let dry. That's all!

GOOD NEWS! Silver Curl by Toni has Fresh Air Waving Lotion... odor-free as a wave can be! And it gives a longer-lasting wave than any other home permanent.

WHILE King Alfred was on the throne, he ruled about half of England. His kingdom was set apart from the realm of the Danes by Watling street, an old Roman road which ran from the Irish sea, just north of Wales, southeastward to London.

The walls which the Romans had built around London were repaired, but Alfred's capital city was Winchester.

The king felt a deep interest in the welfare of the people in his kingdom. Up to that time few persons except clergymen knew how to read or write, and it was common for the clergy to use Latin, instead of English.

ALFRED sent a letter to the bishops in his kingdom, saying:

"It seems better to me to translate books which are most useful to all men into the language which we can all understand. I would have you... get all the youth of England who are the sons of free men, and who can afford to give their time to it, to learn to read English writing. Those who are to go on with their learning should be taught Latin."

The king translated the "Rhepherd's Book" and sent out copies with this comment:

"When I had learned the meaning of the Latin words in this book as well as possible, I translated it into English."

THAT VOLUME, like others of the time, was written by hand. (The art of printing became known in Europe about 550 years later.) One little note made the book seem to speak as a person, saying:

"King Alfred brought every word of me into English, and sent me to his scribes. He ordered more writings to be brought to him so that he might send them, also, to his bishops."

Alfred the Great lived until he was about 52 years of age. He was loved by the people in his kingdom.
